Gromyko Visits East Berlin

Nixon, Churchill Discuss Recent World Events

Vice President Helps Dedicate Memorial Chapel

LONDON (UPI) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon paid an unannounced call on Sir Winston Churchill Wednesday as a fitting climax to ceremonies honoring Americans who died here during World War II.

Nixon broke his planned schedule to drop in at Churchill's London residence. He said later he and the veteran statesman discussed recent world events, with particular emphasis on the importance of Anglo-American relations.

Sir Winston, still his country's chief exponent of the Anglo-American alliance, said he hoped to be able to accept an invitation from President Eisenhower to visit the United States next May, Nixon told newsmen.

Unveil Honor Roll

Nixon, here for a four - day visit, called on the former British prime minister after taking part in ceremonies at St. Paul's Cathedral where Queen Elizabeth unveiled an honor roll containing the names of 28,000 Americans who died in and around the British Isles during World War II.

The vice president spent 25 minutes with Sir Winston, who will turn 84 years old next Sunday. His parting words, referring to Churchill's prospective visit to the United States, were "I know the President will be glad to see you."

Sir Winston had intended to go to America last spring, but illness prevented him from doing so.

Stands Beside Queen

Wednesday morning, Nixon stood at the elbow of Queen Elizabeth as she unveiled the honor roll in the new American Memorial Chapel of St. Paul's Cathedral. The vice president flew here Tuesday to act as personal representative of President Eisenhower at the televised ceremony.

It was the first meeting between Nixon and the Queen.

On the monument were the words: "This chapel commemorates the common sacrifices of the British and American people, the second war and especially those American servicemen whose names are recorded on this roll of honor."

Ike To Confer With Dulles On Berlin Crisis

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—President Eisenhower announced Wednesday he would confer here Sunday with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on Russia's attempt to upset the four-power occupation of Berlin.

It was the third major conference called by Eisenhower since he arrived here last Thursday for a vacation at the Augusta National Golf Club.

Maj. John S. Eisenhower, the President's son, was bringing secret government reports on the continuing Berlin crisis here for the Chief Executive to study before the meeting with Dulles.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters the meeting between the President and Dulles on Berlin was not of an emergency nature. He said Eisenhower also would discuss with Dulles a major foreign policy speech to be delivered by Dulles in San Francisco Dec. 4.

Dulles will arrive here Sunday morning and leave later the same day for Mexico City, where he will represent this country at the inauguration of President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

In London, Vice President Richard M. Nixon reaffirmed an earlier White House announcement that the United States intended to remain in Berlin despite Russian pressure.

Hagerty said the President had studied early election returns from Alaska and had expressed hope the Republican candidates would overcome Democratic leads.

The president and Mrs. Eisenhower planned to spend Thanksgiving with their son, John, and his wife and four children, David, 10; Barbara Anne, 9; Susan, 6; and Mary Jean, 2.

Eisenhower is scheduled to meet Friday with Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy and Budget Director Maurice H. Stans to go over the 1960 defense budget.

French, Bonn Chiefs Confirm Berlin Status

BAD KREUZNACH, Germany (UPI) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and French Premier Charles de Gaulle agreed Wednesday night that the international status of Berlin must be maintained despite Soviet threats to turn the city over to the East German Communists.

The two Western allied leaders also pledged to pursue further economic cooperation in the European common market and to collaborate with their Western European allies in other fields.

Adenauer and De Gaulle announced their views in a communique issued after a one-day conference held in this resort town against a backdrop of the Berlin crisis.

The conference, scheduled before the Berlin situation became tense, was aimed at further cementing economic and political relations between the two former enemies. In the face of Russian cold-war moves, however, Berlin became an important issue in the talks.

No details were released on the discussion of the Berlin crisis.

Dulles Holds Way Open For Use Of Force

Secretary Asserts Khrushchev May Be Reconsidering Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Wednesday Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev may be having second thoughts on his plan to give the East German Communists control of the Soviet sector of Berlin.

Dulles also told a news conference the United States, Britain and France reserve their right to use all means, including force if necessary, to keep open road, rail and air communications to Communist - encircled West Berlin.

But he declared this question still was academic because, as he understood it, the Russians were trying only to force the Western Allies to recognize the East German puppet regime and not actually bar them from the city.

In fact, Dulles said, Khrushchev may be reconsidering his Nov. 10 declaration that Russia was ready to give control of its Berlin sector to the German Reds.

On other points, Dulles said:

Evidence Of Red Tests

—There is slight evidence the Russians may have carried out additional nuclear test explosions since the Nov. 1 and Nov. 3 blasts detected by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. This would mean further Soviet disregard of the British - American proposal to suspend testing as of Oct. 31 when the test bank talks begin at Geneva.

—He did not think the United Arab Republic's effort to spread its prestige and influence in the Middle East is Communist inspired, even though it may at times fit in with the Reds' general policy.

—The underdeveloped countries of Asia cannot expect to achieve economic progress as rapidly as Communist areas where slave labor is used and all human rights are submerged in the interests of the state. However, free Asian countries must make sufficient economic gains to keep their people from turning to Communism, and the United States wants to help in this effort.

Recognition Impractical

—He considers impractical the recent recommendation by the National Council of Churches that the United States recognize Red China. He noted that both political parties two years ago endorsed the administration's policy of non-recognition. He said a majority of Americans still support it.

Dulles said the main issue in Berlin is whether the Soviet Union could turn over its sector to the East Germans and thus wiggle out of its responsibilities and obligations to the three Western Allies.

Actually, Dulles said, the rights of the Allies to stay in Berlin and have access to it were based on a number of agreements, including one reached at the June, 1949, Paris meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers.

Demos Nearing Clean Sweep In Alaska Election

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—A Democratic avalanche swept the new state of Alaska Wednesday.

Democrats won at least three of the four maor offices in Tuesday's history-making Alaska elections, and the voters gave the Democrats control of both houses of Alaska's first stage legislature.

Ballots were cast Tuesday but the counting continued through Wednesday, with a recess of about five hours declared in the middle of the day.

The tabulation was halted at 8:45 a.m. e.s.t. and was resumed later in the day.

At the time the recess was declared, the political prizes of the 49th state that had gone to the Democrats included the governorship for William A. Egan, a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives for Ralph J. Rivers and a seat in the U.S. Senate for E. L. (Bob) Bartlett.

All the Democrats need for a clean sweep was the election of Ernest Gruening, 71-year-old veteran politician, to the other U.S. Senate seat.

After the tabulating resumed, with an estimated 60 per cent of the ballots counted, the results were:

Governor: (R) John Butrovich Jr. 9,119 (D) Egan 13,519.

Congress: (R) Henry A. Benson 9,340 (D) Rivers 12,469.

Gruening was running a close race with Stepovich, 39, who was governor of the territory at the time Congress voted to make Alaska a state.

Alaska and its 200,000 citizens, 34,000 of them native Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts, will become a state officially when President Eisenhower issues a formal proclamation.

The proclamation can come at any time after the President receives official certification of the election.

Admission of Alaska into the Union will change the structure of Congress for the first time since Feb. 4, 1912, when Arizona became the 48th state.

TWA Rejects Union Proposal

CHICAGO (UPI) — Trans World Airlines turned down a union's strike - settling offer Wednesday and Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa took a hand in the nation's other major air walkout.

The twin strikes against TWA and Eastern Air Lines appeared certain to last through the Thanksgiving holiday season, when an estimated 150,000 Americans had planned to travel by air. Airline sources figured one third of the nation's domestic airliners were grounded during one of the year's busiest travel periods.

Strikes against American Airlines and National Airlines were staved off at the last minute, although 1,491 American pilots may walk out after Friday. Eastern was also battling to get a court order ending its three - day - old strike by flight engineers and machinists.

But he hopes for a letup in the Thanksgiving air jam took a nose dive when TWA refused to accept a "compromise" proposal from nearly 7,000 machinists who have been on strike for six days.

TWA headquarters at Kansas City said the offer from the International Assn. of Machinists was no compromise at all, but "simply reduced to writing the offer made to the company last Saturday and which was found unacceptable."

The union offer, made late Tuesday, actually increased some of the IAM's demands, the TWA spokesman said. He indicated the proposal made no mention of the key issue of job classification.

Cliff Miller, general chairman of the Machinists' Union, retorted "apparently management does not realize or recognize what has been involved in this dispute, for certainly the proposal I gave them is a modification of a previous proposal."

Prospects for a TWA settlement remained alive, however, as company and union negotiators continued to meet through the day.

On the other major strike front, an important new figure appeared in the walkout of 550 flight engineers and 7,500 mechanics which has grounded Eastern Air Lines, the nation's busiest air carrier.

The new figure was James R. Hoffa, controversial and powerful leader of the monolithic Teamsters' Union. He revealed the teamsters are giving the engineers "moral and financial help in their dispute with Eastern." And engineers President George R. Petty Jr. said he had a promise that Teamster-driven trucks would not cross the union's picket lines to deliver gasoline to Eastern planes.

Big Strato-Lab Balloon Splits

RAPID CITY, S. D. (UPI)—A giant strato-lab balloon split from top to bottom Wednesday a half hour before it was to carry two spacemen 80,000 feet above the earth.

The balloonists, Prof. John Strong of Johns Hopkins University and Navy Cmdr. Malcolm D. Ross, were already sealed inside their gondola when the balloon crumped about them.

Cause of the failure was not immediately determined. The Navy said it had a spare balloon on hand and might try another ascension soon, possibly Thursday.

The balloon, 172 feet around, was fully inflated in the stratobowl near Rapid City and poised for flight when the split tore up its silken side.

Within moments, it was spread across the ground.

The "Man-High" project, designed to give scientists their first closeup look at the planet Mars, has been dogged by repeated postponements.

Originally scheduled more than two weeks ago, the flight had been postponed almost every day since then.

Nixon Says Red Defeat Not Main Objective

LONDON (AP)—Vice President Nixon said the defeat of communism should not be the West's main objective.

"Let us speak less of the threat of communism and more of the promise of freedom," he said at a banquet Wednesday night in London's ancient Guildhall. Prime Minister Macmillan was in the audience.

"Let us adopt as our primary objective not the defeat of communism but the victory of plenty over want, of health over disease, of freedom over tyranny."

Bomber With Atom Weapon Aboard Burns

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UPI) — An Air Force B-47 with a nuclear weapon aboard caught fire and burned on the flight line at Chennault Field here Wednesday.

First reports indicated all personnel except fire fighters were evacuated from the Strategic Air Command base until the fire was brought under control at 3:30 p.m. c.s.t. due to an "ammunition hazard."

The base information officer at that time said the fire was "under control and the situation was returning to normal," but declined to say if there were casualties or if the plane was loaded with a nuclear device.

(However, in Washington the Air Force said there was a nuclear weapon aboard.

The Air Force said there was "no danger of a nuclear explosion and no harmful nuclear radiation is present."

"Well established procedures for handling such mishaps were carried out as a matter of routine," the Air Force said.)

He said the plane caught fire on the flight line, burned, "and there was no further damage to other planes."

The plane is one of the SAC's weapons primed for instant retaliation with nuclear weapons in an around-the-clock vigil against enemy attack.

Observers at Lake Charles noted that it was the second time a B-47 had burned at the base but the first time an evacuation alert had been sounded.

The nuclear devices aboard SAC aircraft are normally not armed until the plane has been airborne for more than one hour.

There have been two cases of B47s accidentally dropping atomic devices in flight. One Air Force bomber dropped a nuclear weapon in the sea off Savannah, Ga. The other accident occurred over Florence, S.C., when a B47 dropped an atomic weapon near a church. The incidents occurred within the last year. There were no explosions because authorities said the weapons were not armed.

Workshop Blast Kills Student, 16

ASHLAND, Wis. (AP)—A 16-year-old boy died Wednesday after an explosion in his basement workshop sent a shrapnel - like piece of steel crashing into his head.

The boy, Paul Lamal, died without regaining consciousness in the hospital where his mother is a nurse.

Described as an exceptional science student, the boy often made model airplanes, rockets, missiles and explosives in his workshop.

Russ Official Confers With German Reds

Talks Apparently Deal With Transfer Of Soviet Powers

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communists disclosed Wednesday that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko has been conferring with East German leaders in East Berlin. It was assumed he was discussing the transfer of Russia's occupation powers in Berlin to the East German regime.

The East German radio announced Gromyko had been in Berlin "in recent days" to discuss "current political questions concerning the two countries" with East German Communist leaders.

A Soviet Embassy spokesman said the talks dealt with the "status of Berlin." The spokesman said the Soviet foreign minister left Berlin "today or yesterday."

Gromyko met with East German Premier Otto Grotewohl, Foreign Minister Lothat Bolz and Communist Party Chief Walter Ulbricht, the East German radio announcement said. It added that Soviet Ambassador Mikhail G. Pervukhin also sat in on the meetings.

Army Tests Blockade

Disclosure of Gromyko's talks came as an East German newspaper accused the United States of shipping war materials through the Soviet zone from West Berlin to West Germany.

The U. S. Army also announced it had tested Soviet blockade intentions by successfully sending a covered Army truck from Berlin to West Germany through two Soviet checkpoints.

In other developments:

—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a news conference in Washington that Premier Nikita Khrushchev might be having second thoughts on his plan to give the East German Communists control of the Soviet sector of Berlin.

Dulles also said that the United States, Britain and France reserved the right to use all means, including force if necessary, to keep open rail, road and air communications to Red - encircled West Berlin.

Must Preserve Status

—In Bad Kreuznach, Germany, French Premier Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced after a one-day conference they believed Berlin's international status must be preserved despite the Soviet threats.

—In West Berlin, the U.S., British and French commandants met for more than two hours in their first session since Khrushchev's speech of Nov. 10 provoked the crisis by demanding an end to the four-power status of Berlin. Troop commanders and political advisers also attended the meeting to map plans for any eventualities.

The Gromyko visit to East Berlin was cloaked in the strictest secrecy and place of the conversations was not disclosed.

Allied officials in West Berlin declined comment on the surprise Gromyko visit. One U. S. command official suggested the Gromyko talks and the delay in publication of a formal Soviet note on the projected handover might indicate the Russians were backing down on the plan.

Benson Not For Or Against Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson gave the same answer Wednesday to questions whether he is (A) for or (B against Vice President Nixon for the 1960 GOP presidential nomination:

"I am not."

The questions were put separately to Benson at a news conference.

While he said he has not joined the Nixon bandwagon, Benson said "He is a good man and there are a lot of good men."

As he has done many times in the past, Benson again disclaimed any political aspirations of his own including the vice presidential nomination.

NASA Planning Weather Satellite, Venus Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's new civilian space agency plans 8 to 12 rocket launchings next year, including an attempt to place a satellite in orbit around the planet Venus, a spokesman said Wednesday.

He also said the agency, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), planned to put a weather satellite in orbit over the North and South Poles.

Other 1959 launchings by NASA were expected to include three or four Vanguard earth satellite rockets, the first of which has been set for February.

The possibility of sending an instrumented robot on the 50-million-mile, 151-day trip to Venus was receiving top attention.

The agency said previously that Venus, nearest planet to the earth, would be in a favorable position for a launching in mid-1959. The Air Force's Thor - Able moon rocket has the power to make the trip.

The Air Force, meanwhile, was planning to send up several experimental military reconnaissance satellites that could bring the total U.S. space launchings next year to a score or more.

The Air Force launchings will be from its Vandenberg base on the West Coast. "Aviation Week" magazine predicted Sunday the first would take place Dec. 15. The Air Force had no comment on this.

The NASA spokesman said the agency was "very conscious" of the advantage of placing a weather satellite in a north-south orbit. With the earth turning evenly beneath it, a polar satellite could observe every spot on the globe once every 24 hours.

ROK Warship Seizes Red Vessel In Battle

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—A spy-running North Korean vessel was captured by a Republic of Korea warship in the Japan Sea Tuesday after a battle in which four Communists were killed, it was announced Wednesday.

A Navy announcement said the Red vessel had picked up an espionage agent when it was intercepted in South Korean territorial waters off Korea's east coast two miles south of the demilitarized zone extension.

The ROK warship ordered the Red vessel to halt. But when it drew near, the Reds opened machinegun fire, the navy said.

Four Reds were killed and two more captured. Also seized were a Russian-made machinegun and several other weapons, a quantity of grenades, and a rubber raft and South Korean currency, the announcement said.

Season's Coldest Spell Ushers In Thanksgiving

By United Press International

The coldest weather of the season closed over most of the nation at the start of the Thanksgiving holiday Wednesday night.

Temperatures hit 23 degrees below zero at Cutbank, Mont., and a Northern Plains blizzard left 14-inch snows and drifts 6½ feet deep across the Dakotas.

Weathermen said these wintry figures were the pace setters for a frigid holiday.

Only Southern California could look forward to a relatively warm holiday. Cold air was driving out of the west, promising the first freeze of the year in the southland, November's coldest night in upstate New York, and snow flurries and squalls from the Great Lakes to the mountains of West Virginia. Along the New England coast, winds were expected to reach gale force.

Americans were on the move Wednesday night, despite the weather and two airline strikes which grounded one third of the nation's domestic airliners.

The National Safety Council declined to issue a prediction of holiday traffic deaths during the 102-hour period starting at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ending at midnight Sunday. Thanksgiving, traditionally, is not the kind of holiday when drinking parties and wild driving boost the traffic toll, the Council said.

However, the Council pointed out that on an average non-holiday period of the same length at this time of year, 470 persons could be expected to die in traffic smashups.

After last year's 102 - hour Thanksgiving holiday, the United Press International had counted 554 traffic deaths—84 over the normal.

Today's Weather

CHICAGO (UPI) — Trans World Airlines turned down a union's strike - settling offer Wednesday and Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa took a hand in the nation's other major air walkout.

The twin strikes against TWA and Eastern Air Lines appeared certain to last through the Thanksgiving holiday season, when an estimated 150,000 Americans had planned to travel by air. Airline sources figured one third of the nation's domestic airliners were grounded during one of the year's busiest travel periods.

Strikes against American Airlines and National Airlines were staved off at the last minute, although 1,491 American pilots may walk out after Friday. Eastern was also battling to get a court order ending its three - day - old strike by flight engineers and machinists.

But he hopes for a letup in the Thanksgiving air jam took a nose dive when TWA refused to accept a "compromise" proposal from nearly 7,000 machinists who have been on strike for six days.

TWA headquarters at Kansas City said the offer from the International Assn. of Machinists was no compromise at all, but "simply reduced to writing the offer made to the company last Saturday and which was found unacceptable."

The union offer, made late Tuesday, actually increased some of the IAM's demands, the TWA spokesman said. He indicated the proposal made no mention of the key issue of job classification.

Cliff Miller, general chairman of the Machinists' Union, retorted "apparently management does not realize or recognize what has been involved in this dispute, for certainly the proposal I gave them is a modification of a previous proposal."

Prospects for a TWA settlement remained alive, however, as company and union negotiators continued to meet through the day.

On the other major strike front, an important new figure appeared in the walkout of 550 flight engineers and 7,500 mechanics which has grounded Eastern Air Lines, the nation's busiest air carrier.

The new figure was James R. Hoffa, controversial and powerful leader of the monolithic Teamsters' Union. He revealed the teamsters are giving the engineers "moral and financial help in their dispute with Eastern." And engineers President George R. Petty Jr. said he had a promise that Teamster-driven trucks would not cross the union's picket lines to deliver gasoline to Eastern planes.

Big Strato-Lab Balloon Splits

RAPID CITY, S. D. (UPI)—A giant strato-lab balloon split from top to bottom Wednesday a half hour before it was to carry two spacemen 80,000 feet above the earth.

The balloonists, Prof. John Strong of Johns Hopkins University and Navy Cmdr. Malcolm D. Ross, were already sealed inside their gondola when the balloon crumped about them.

Cause of the failure was not immediately determined. The Navy said it had a spare balloon on hand and might try another ascension soon, possibly Thursday.

The balloon, 172 feet around, was fully inflated in the stratobowl near Rapid City and poised for flight when the split tore up its silken side.

Within moments, it was spread across the ground.

The "Man-High" project, designed to give scientists their first closeup look at the planet Mars, has been dogged by repeated postponements.

Originally scheduled more than two weeks ago, the flight had been postponed almost every day since then.

Nixon Says Red Defeat Not Main Objective

LONDON (AP)—Vice President Nixon said the defeat of communism should not be the West's main objective.

"Let us speak less of the threat of communism and more of the promise of freedom," he said at a banquet Wednesday night in London's ancient Guildhall. Prime Minister Macmillan was in the audience.

"Let us adopt as our primary objective not the defeat of communism but the victory of plenty over want, of health over disease, of freedom over tyranny."

Bomber With Atom Weapon Aboard Burns

LAKE CHARLES, La. (UPI) — An Air Force B-47 with a nuclear weapon aboard caught fire and burned on the flight line at Chennault Field here Wednesday.

First reports indicated all personnel except fire fighters were evacuated from the Strategic Air Command base until the fire was brought under control at 3:30 p.m. c.s.t. due to an "ammunition hazard."

The base information officer at that time said the fire was "under control and the situation was returning to normal," but declined to say if there were casualties or if the plane was loaded with a nuclear device.

(However, in Washington the Air Force said there was a nuclear weapon aboard.

The Air Force said there was "no danger of a nuclear explosion and no harmful nuclear radiation is present."

"Well established procedures for handling such mishaps were carried out as a matter of routine," the Air Force said.)

He said the plane caught fire on the flight line, burned, "and there was no further damage to other planes."

Observers at Lake Charles noted that it was the second time a B-47 had burned at the base but the first time an evacuation alert had been sounded.

The nuclear devices aboard SAC aircraft are normally not armed until the plane has been airborne for more than one hour.

There have been two cases of B47s accidentally dropping atomic devices in flight. One Air Force bomber dropped a nuclear weapon in the sea off Savannah, Ga. The other accident occurred over Florence, S.C., when a B47 dropped an atomic weapon near a church. The incidents occurred within the last year. There were no explosions because authorities said the weapons were not armed.

Workshop Blast Kills Student, 16

ASHLAND, Wis. (AP)—A 16-year-old boy died Wednesday after an explosion in his basement workshop sent a shrapnel - like piece of steel crashing into his head.

The boy, Paul Lamal, died without regaining consciousness in the hospital where his mother is a nurse.

Described as an exceptional science student, the boy often made model airplanes, rockets, missiles and explosives in his workshop.

NASA Planning Weather Satellite, Venus Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's new civilian space agency plans 8 to 12 rocket launchings next year, including an attempt to place a satellite in orbit around the planet Venus, a spokesman said Wednesday.

He also said the agency, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), planned to put a weather satellite in orbit over the North and South Poles.

Other 1959 launchings by NASA were expected to include three or four Vanguard earth satellite rockets, the first of which has been set for February.

The possibility of sending an instrumented robot on the 50-million-mile, 151-day trip to Venus was receiving top attention.

The agency said previously that Venus, nearest planet to the earth, would be in a favorable position for a launching in mid-1959. The Air Force's Thor - Able moon rocket has the power to make the trip.

The Air Force, meanwhile, was planning to send up several experimental military reconnaissance satellites that could bring the total U.S. space launchings next year to a score or more.

The Air Force launchings will be from its Vandenberg base on the West Coast. "Aviation Week" magazine predicted Sunday the first would take place Dec. 15. The Air Force had no comment on this.

The NASA spokesman said the agency was "very conscious" of the advantage of placing a weather satellite in a north-south orbit. With the earth turning evenly beneath it, a polar satellite could observe every spot on the globe once every 24 hours.

ROK Warship Seizes Red Vessel In Battle

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—A spy-running North Korean vessel was captured by a Republic of Korea warship in the Japan Sea Tuesday after a battle in which four Communists were killed, it was announced Wednesday.

A Navy announcement said the Red vessel had picked up an espionage agent when it was intercepted in South Korean territorial waters off Korea's east coast two miles south of the demilitarized zone extension.

The ROK warship ordered the Red vessel to halt. But when it drew near, the Reds opened machinegun fire, the navy said.

Four Reds were killed and two more captured. Also seized were a Russian-made machine-gun and several other weapons, a quantity of grenades, and a rubber raft and South Korean currency, the announcement said.

Season's Coldest Spell Ushers In Thanksgiving

By United Press International

The coldest weather of the season closed over most of the nation at the start of the Thanksgiving holiday Wednesday night.

Temperatures hit 23 degrees below zero at Cutbank, Mont., and a Northern Plains blizzard left 14-inch snows and drifts 6½ feet deep across the Dakotas.

Weathermen said these wintry figures were the pace setters for a frigid holiday.

Only Southern California could look forward to a relatively warm holiday. Cold air was driving out of the west, promising the first freeze of the year in the southland, November's coldest night in upstate New York, and snow flurries and squalls from the Great Lakes to the mountains of West Virginia. Along the New England coast, winds were expected to reach gale force.

Americans were on the move Wednesday night, despite the weather and two airline strikes which grounded one third of the nation's domestic airliners.

The National Safety Council declined to issue a prediction of holiday traffic deaths during the 102-hour period starting at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ending at midnight Sunday. Thanksgiving, traditionally, is not the kind of holiday when drinking parties and wild driving boost the traffic toll, the Council said.

However, the Council pointed out that on an average non-holiday period of the same length at this time of year, 470 persons could be expected to die in traffic smashups.

After last year's 102 - hour Thanksgiving holiday, the United Press International had counted 554 traffic deaths—84 over the normal.

Russ Official Confers With German Reds

Talks Apparently Deal With Transfer Of Soviet Powers

BERLIN (UPI) — The Communists disclosed Wednesday that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko has been conferring with East German leaders in East Berlin. It was assumed he was discussing the transfer of Russia's occupation powers in Berlin to the East German regime.

The East German radio announced Gromyko had been in Berlin "in recent days" to discuss "current political questions concerning the two countries" with East German Communist leaders.

A Soviet Embassy spokesman said the talks dealt with the "status of Berlin." The spokesman said the Soviet foreign minister left Berlin "today or yesterday."

Gromyko met with East German Premier Otto Grotewohl, Foreign Minister Lothat Bolz and Communist Party Chief Walter Ulbricht, the East German radio announcement said. It added that Soviet Ambassador Mikhail G. Pervukhin also sat in on the meetings.

Army Tests Blockade

Disclosure of Gromyko's talks came as an East German newspaper accused the United States of shipping war materials through the Soviet zone from West Berlin to West Germany.

The U. S. Army also announced it had tested Soviet blockade intentions by successfully sending a covered Army truck from Berlin to West Germany through two Soviet checkpoints.

In other developments:

—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a news conference in Washington that Premier Nikita Khrushchev might be having second thoughts on his plan to give the East German Communists control of the Soviet sector of Berlin.

Dulles also said that the United States, Britain and France reserved the right to use all means, including force if necessary, to keep open rail, road and air communications to Red - encircled West Berlin.

Must Preserve Status

—In Bad Kreuznach, Germany, French Premier Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced after a one-day conference they believed Berlin's international status must be preserved despite the Soviet threats.

—In West Berlin, the U.S., British and French commandants met for more than two hours in their first session since Khrushchev's speech of Nov. 10 provoked the crisis by demanding an end to the four-power status of Berlin. Troop commanders and political advisers also attended the meeting to map plans for any eventualities.

The Gromyko visit to East Berlin was cloaked in the strictest secrecy and place of the conversations was not disclosed.

Allied officials in West Berlin declined comment on the surprise Gromyko visit. One U. S. command official suggested the Gromyko talks and the delay in publication of a formal Soviet note on the projected handover might indicate the Russians were backing down on the plan.

Benson Not For Or Against Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson gave the same answer Wednesday to questions whether he is (A) for or (B against Vice President Nixon for the 1960 GOP presidential nomination:

"I am not."

The questions were put separately to Benson at a news conference.

While he said he has not joined the Nixon bandwagon, Benson said "He is a good man and there are a lot of good men."

As he has done many times in the past, Benson again disclaimed any political aspirations of his own including the vice presidential nomination.

TV Executive Denies Starting Bribe Rumors

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Earl F. Reed, president of Television City, Inc., insisted again Wednesday he did not know the source of bribery rumors involving former F C C Chairman George C. McConnaughey despite new testimony linking him to the reports.

Reed contradicted the sworn testimony of William C. Matta of Matta Enterprises. Matta told the House influence investigating subcommittee Monday he first heard from Reed about the rumors that McConnaughey had solicited a bribe in the Pittsburgh Channel 4 TV contest.

Reed, also testifying under oath, told the subcommittee that, as he recalled it, Matta passed the rumor on to him.

"It was a general rumor that I heard — that he (McConnaughey) wanted $50,000," Reed said. "I don't know when I heard it or how I heard it. If I knew where I had heard these things, I would tell you. I don't know."

Despite persistent questioning, Reed insisted "it would be perfectly ridiculous for me to guess from whom I first heard that rumor."

McConnaughey, who is now practicing law in Ohio, has denied under oath that he ever solicited or received a bribe for his vote in the Channel 4 case. He called the rumors "horrible, vicious."

Reed, who testified earlier this month, was recalled by the subcommittee in its efforts to determine if the rumors were deliberately "manufactured" in an effort to influence the award and whether any action by the Justice Department is warranted. The department has been receiving daily transcripts of the proceedings.

PTA Council Backs Teacher Pay Increase

GAITHERSBURG, Md. (AP) — Higher pay for teachers is proposed by the Montgomery County council of Parent-Teachers Assns.

The council's proposal, adopted at a meeting here Tuesday night, would peg salaries at $5,000 for a new teacher with a B.A. degree to $12,000 for one with a Ph.D. after 12 years.

County Supt. C. Taylor Whittier has called for a new scale ranging from $3,600 to $8,300.

"Work" Sometimes Is Fighting Word

LA PLATA, Md. (AP)—"Work" is sometimes a fighting word in these parts.

James McKinley testified in Magistrate's Court that he fired a shotgun charge at John R. Sellner because "the man kept coming around wanting me to work for him."

"I told him I wouldn't work by the week or the month or the year — only by the day — for any man . . . I told him to stay away and he wouldn't. So I got tired of it."

Seller said he and his son John, who accompanied him to the tenant house McKinley occupies near Bryantown, sought to have him put in a few days work for his rent. He said they ducked the blast of buckshot which hit their truck.

Magistrate LeMorton E. Crist Jr. sentenced McKinley to two years in the Reformatory but suspended it, and gave him a week to get off the Sellner farm.

C Of C Junks Its Days-Weeks List

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said Wednesday it will wash its hands off National Laugh Week in favor of more serious projects. The same goes for Expectant Father's Day and National Long Underwear Week.

A chamber spokesman said beginning next year the organization no longer will issue its list of some 400 special days and weeks so dear to the hearts of businessmen.

He explained chamber officials decided to junk the project because their emphasis has become "more on legislation and less on services of this sort."

Whether advertisements will still blossom with such "national" days, weeks and months will depend on the Apple Tree Press, Flint, Mich. Printer William D. Chase is taking over—and doubling the chamber's 50-cent price to businessmen for the 43-page booklet.

Roadblocks Avert Possible Tragedy

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A possible tragedy was averted Wednesday by quick thinking police who set up road blocks to warn motorists that a tank truck carrying highly explosive and inflammable chemicals had wrecked on U. S. 21 north of here.

Drivers were cautioned not to flip cigarets or matches in the vicinity.

The tanker went over an embankment, spilling acetate and acetone into a small creek paralleling the highway and setting up a hazard.

Driver William G. Lawson, 39, Kingsport, Tenn., and his assistant Neal P. Davis, 27, Churchill, Tenn., en route from Kingsport to Akron, Ohio were not seriously injured.

Most of the chemicals were dumped from the wrecked truck to another tanker.

Italian Rail Strike

ROME (UPI)—A 24-hour nationwide strike by hundreds of thousands of railway and postal workers paralyzed train transport and halted all mail deliveries throughout Italy Wednesday.

Annapolis Names Decency Committee

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Mayor Arthur G. Ellington has named a city-wide decency committee to discourage the sale of obscene magazines to teen-agers.

The group was named Tuesday from 23 civic organizations with Edmond Coughlin of the Knights of Columbus as chairman.

Ellington agreed to name the committee, similar to the Mayor's Committee for Decency in Baltimore City, after representatives of the Severn Town Club complained to him and county officials that Annapolis newstands were loaded with magazines unfit for reading by teen-agers.

Ellington, in appointing the committee, cautioned it against engaging in a "witch hunt" against operators of news stands.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — North American Aviation, Inc. said it has discontinued, by mutual agreement with the Air Force, project "Rise" which made use of the company's Navaho missiles to investigate supersonic environment.

Jobless Plumber Given Lie Test In 1949 Slaying

BALTIMORE (AP) — A lie detector test was given Wednesday to an unemployed plumber being questioned about a nine-year-old slaying.

Police said the man, a 45-year-old native of Hagerstown, had been sought for four months in the strangling of Mrs. Emma Kefalos, a 60-year-old spiritualist.

Mrs. Kefalos was found dead Aug. 8, 1949, in her East Baltimore apartment. A waffle iron cord was around her neck, her feet and hands were bound with a clothesline and her face bore marks of a severe beating. Scattered about the ransacked room were love potions, candles, a crystall ball and books on magic and voodoo.

Homicide detectives said the man arrested yesterday has lived in Baltimore off and on for 25 years and resided in the same block as Mrs. Kefalos at the time of the slaying.

They said he was very evasive during the questioning.

School Enthusiasm "Letdown"

BALTIMORE (AP) — Her leg in a plaster cast, 12-year-old Glenda Bradley got some parental sympathy Wednesday about the sudden, two-story letdown of her enthusiasm for school.

"Maybe," said her mother, "we can arrange for her to go to another school."

Glenda's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bradley, received a visit Tuesday from a truant officer. Something about her being absent for 19 days from her seventh grade class at Patterson Park Junior High School.

When Glenda came home — and not from school — the parents asked where she had been spending her time. Glenda wasn't talking, so she was sent to her room.

A few moments later the Bradleys, sipping coffee and looking out of the living room window, caught a glimpse of something falling. A closer look disclosed their dark-haired daughter, lying on the ground with a broken leg.

"Glenda has always brought home good marks from school," said Mrs. Bradley.

"But for some reason she does not like her school. For one thing she likes to wear dungarees, and at Patterson Park these are permitted only on Tuesday."

Rowe Ruled Not Mentally Capable To Stand Trial

SALISBURY, Md. (AP) — Two circuit judges ruled Wednesday that Willis Case Rowe, a Silver Spring research writer, is not mentally capable to stand trial for the murder of a Wingate boat builder.

Rowe was ruled incapable of defending himself against a charge that he murdered boatbuilder Bronza M. Parks.

Three psychiatrists gave this evaluation to the court in a sanity hearing for Rowe. Chief witness for the defense was Dr. Isadore Tuerke, superintendent of Spring Grove State Hospital.

Dr. Isadore Tuerk, superintendent of Spring Grove State Hospital, presented this evaluation to a two-judge court at a sanity hearing for Rowe, 39-year-old former magazine salesman and research writer from Silver Spring, Md.

Rowe has been a patient at Spring Grove for much of the time since his arrest after the May 13 fatal shooting of Parks, 59-year-old boatbuilder from Wingate, Md.

"His lack of interest in wanting to live makes him incapable, in my belief, of defending himself," Tuerk said of Rowe. "He has made several attempts at suicide."

Chief Judge W. Laird Henry Jr. and Judge Rex A. Taylor heard Tuerk testify in Wicomico County Circuit Court as the first witness in a hearing to determine whether Rowe will be tried on the murder charge.

Investigators said Parks was slain in a dispute over a boat he had been building for Rowe.

The case was transferred to Wicomico from Dorchester County after the defense contended Rowe could not receive a fair trial in Dorchester because of publicity resulting from the shooting.

PLANE CRASH INJURES ONE

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (UPI) — A passenger apparently was injured only slightly Monday when a light plane piloted by Earl C. Million, 64, Danville, Ill., crashed in a nearby field. Robert L. Kirby, 38, also of Danville, suffered minor cuts when the plane, approaching Holzer Airport for a landing, nosed over on the field after brushing a wing against a tree.

History records that Herodotus gave authors' readings in Athens about 446 B. C.

Complaints Of Discrimination In Industry Reach Record High

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's Committee on Government Contracts reported Tuesday that complaints of discrimination in industry rose to a record high in the year ended June 30.

But the committee emphasized in a report to the president on its first five years that the sharp jump in complaints did not necessarily mean discrimination was increasing.

The complaints last year numbered three times higher than in any previous year.

The group, set up in 1953 to wipe out discrimination in firms handling government contracts, said its program was "gaining momentum." It said there was "steady growth" in its fifth year and predicted, "the future holds high promise."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, chairman of the committee, hailed the report in a statement as a "a highly encouraging record of progress in employer recognition of the value of minority group members in responsible positions in American industry."

Of the 351 complaints received last year, 216—mostly from Negroes — charged discrimination because of race, 164 because of religion and 21 because of national origin. Fifteen did not mention the type of alleged discrimination.

Others said they were being discriminated against for more than one reason.

Of the 94 complaints which came from individuals, 74 were filed by Negroes, 12 by whites and 8 by persons of various national origins.

The other 257 complaints came from organizations. Most of them — 205 — were submitted by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. The rest came from the Bureau of Jewish unemployment Problems, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, labor unions and urban league chapters.

One year of a dog's life is about equal to seven years of a man's.

The complaints last year numbered three times higher than in any previous year.

The group, set up in 1953 to wipe out discrimination in firms handling government contracts, said its program was "gaining momentum." It said there was "steady growth" in its fifth year and predicted, "the future holds high promise."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, chairman of the committee, hailed the report in a statement as a "a highly encouraging record of progress in employer recognition of the value of minority group members in responsible positions in American industry."

Of the 351 complaints received last year, 216—mostly from Negroes — charged discrimination because of race, 164 because of religion and 21 because of national origin. Fifteen did not mention the type of alleged discrimination.

Others said they were being discriminated against for more than one reason.

Of the 94 complaints which came from individuals, 74 were filed by Negroes, 12 by whites and 8 by persons of various national origins.

The other 257 complaints came from organizations. Most of them — 205 — were submitted by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. The rest came from the Bureau of Jewish unemployment Problems, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, labor unions and urban league chapters.

Will World's Population Outgrow Supply Of Food?

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's greatest crop right now seems to be babies.

If things keep humming along, 100 years from now six billion or more people will be milling about in a worldwide traffic jam. Already there are 2,737,000,000 of us, and we're increasing at the rate of 47 million annually. Each year more babies are born than the entire population of France.

Naturally, thinking of crowded 2058 brings up this question:

Will there be enough to eat?

The Smithsonian Institution replied to this question Tuesday, but tacked on a surprising qualification.

"The answer is yes," G. V. Jacks said in an annual report put out by the Smithsonian, "provided most (of the six billion persons) live in towns and produce enough wealth to pay for the food they need.

"If they offer enough money for their food, the food will be produced."

Jacks, one of Europe's leading soil experts, is the director of Britain's chief center for agricultural research.

He contends that not until man moves into town, and starts to prosper, is it worthwhile for the farmer to begin proper conservation practices.

"The countries showing the highest average soil fertility," he says, "are the most densely populated and highly industrialized—Britain, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Japan — and agricultural Denmark, the exception that proves the rule."

Well, man long has worred about future population.

In 1798, Thomas Robert Malthus wrote "An Essay on the Principle of Population as it Affects the Future Improvement of Society."

Malthus took the gloomy view that population, if unchecked, tends to increase much faster than the food supply. Wars, famine, pestilence, misery and vice, he said, help whack down the population and keep it within bounds.

The experts have been kicking Malthus around ever since, and there has been only one real difficulty: Most of the people don't consult the experts before having babies.

For example, Robert C. Cook, director of the Population Reference Bureau, a private organization, makes a point.

"Unfortunately, population is now increasing most rapidly precisely in those already overcrowded parts of the world where economic prospects are least favorable," he says.

Possibly the worst view of the future came in a story by Flora Lewis, a foreign correspondent writing for the Washington Post & Times-Herald.

She said some Eastern European Communists were in China this year, talking over raising their standards of living with Mao Tze-tung.

"Why do you worry about the standard of living?" he asked them. "It can only go down. In a few thousands years, there will be two billion in China and your country will have at least 10 times its present population.

"You'll have to have passes rationing the right to go out on the street for a breath of air.

"Forget the standard of living. Teach the people music."

So there you are. Jacks saying, Let 'em live in the city. Mao saying, Let 'em hear Beethoven. Take your choice, but don't crowd. It's getting stuffy here already.

Begging was so rampant in Paris during the 1650s that some forty thousand professional beggars "worked" the city's streets daily.

Grants Made By Foundation

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Carnegie Corporation of New York announced grants totalling almost $3,000,000 Tuesday.

The foundation also announced the election of C.D. Jackson, vice president of Time, Inc., to its board of trustees.

The largest grant announced Tuesday was $590,000 to the University of Illinois to develop new programs for teaching mathematics in elementary and secondary schools.

The new Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, to be constructed in New York City, received $500,000 for the Juilliard School of Music for scholarships and other aids to young artists.

Research on sub-Sahara Africa will be conducted at Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a $200,000 grant. Barbara Ward, British economist and writer, will review technical and economic assistance programs under an $88,000 grant to Radcliffe College.

Worker Falls 110 Feet And Lives

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—A construction worker fell 110 feet Tuesday and lived.

The workers, H. D. Oliver, 49, broke his right thigh and suffered possible internal inuries, hospital spokesmen said.

Oliver was at work on a bridge being built over the entrance to the port of Corpus Christi. He fell into a mudhole, cushioning the fall.

Western Policy Often Encourages Military Dictatorship

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

A good many people, moaning over recent setbacks to democratic governmental experiments in newly independent countries, are overlooking the fact that Western policy frequently encourages military dictatorship.

It is almost axiomatic that, if a dictator is sufficiently loud in his condemnation of communism, he will have the support of the United States and Britain.

Indeed, sufficient neutralism or moderation in the East-West conflict now seems to be accepted by the West as a basis for cooperation.

There has been no change in American help for Pakistan since the recent overturn there.

The British have recognized the new Sudanese government.

Both Britain and the United States are largely ignoring the Iraq purges in the hope that the new dictatorship there can be held to its professed middle road between Moscow and Cairo.

The United States has for years pursued this course in Latin America to the point of seriously damaging its standing with liberal elements there.

It is a matter of expediency of a type learned early in all political dealings. It is justified by its exponents as the choice of the lesser-evil.

There is no question that the practice has contributed to coups before, as well as after, their occurrence.

After a period of standoffishness during the most active period of rebellion in Indonesia, the United States resumed limited military aid to the Indonesian government despite its acceptance of local Communist cooperation and its defenses of Soviet communism.

This aid has strengthened the military faction which surrounds President Sukarno, and encouraged its suppression of the Red influence which the President had virtually accepted.

There is now the expectation that this aid will be increased. Inherently, this will further enhance the power of the military faction. It will be able either to suppress the Communists or to suppress Sukarno, although the latter remains a great popular figure.

Court Decides Indian Treaty Must Be Broken

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An envoy of President George Washington told the Seneca Indians in 1794 that "as long as the moon rises, the grass is green, the river flows and the sun shines this land is yours until you choose to sell it."

The moon still rises, the grass is still green and the sun still shines. But the U.S. Court of Appeals told the Indians Tuesday that Congress wants to build a dam across the river. So they must give up their land.

The court ruled the government can go ahead with a dam that would flood most of a Seneca reservation on the Allegheny River despite a 1794 treaty in which the United States promised "never to claim" their lands.

The flood control dam near Kinzua, Pa., is designed to protect Pittsburgh. The reservation is about 12 miles upstream in New York State and much of it would be flooded by the resulting lake.

The Indians cited the treaty signed by President Washington which they said pledged the United States never to disturb the Senecas in the use of their lands.

But both sides agreed in recent court arguments that Congress can unilaterally break an Indian treaty and that Indians are subject to land condemnation with just compensation the same as anyone else.

Judges Henry W. Edgerton, Wilbur K. Miller and Walter M. Bastian said the only issue was whether Congress specifically intended to revoke the treaty in authorizing the Kinzua Dam.

Congress did not mention the treaty in so many words. But the judges held unanimously that hearings before congressional committees showed that Congress knew the Seneca lands were to be flooded.

They quoted Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) as saying in Senate debate that "the government has the legal right to do what is proposed. But what distresses me is the moral responsibility we have."

Edward E. O'Neill, attorney for the Indians, said he probably would take the case to the Supreme Court.

"The Seneca Council has authorized me to fight this thing to the end, and the end is the Supreme Court," he said. "If this stands, no Indian treaty is worth the paper it's written on. They're all out the window."

$8 Million In Non-State Funds Spent By U. Of Md.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Nearly eight million dollars in research funds from non-state sources has been spent by the University of Maryland in the past five years, the Board of Regents was told Tuesday.

Dr. Wilson H. Elkins, president of the university, said the funds were received from the federal government, foundations and private industry.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, $2,345,264 was spent for research sponsored by those groups, or about twice the amount allotted five years ago, Dr. Elkins said.

The regents, at their regular meeting Tuesday, also heard plans for making a piecemeal beginning in clearing out deteriorated neighborhoods near the professional schools here to make room for expansion.

Dr. Albin O. Kuhn, executive vice president of the university, said present plans call for a $1,200,000 to $1,300,000 clearance project. He explained the university administration and Baltimore urban renewal officials had to plan on the lesser amount after "we had no luck" in asking for 6 million dollars in federal funds.

Dr. Elkins announced that an adult evening program will be started on the College Park campus in February.

He said it would begin in modest fashion and would have to be self-supporting since no state funds are available for the project now.

Court Decides Indian Treaty Must Be Broken

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An envoy of President George Washington told the Seneca Indians in 1794 that "as long as the moon rises, the grass is green, the river flows and the sun shines this land is yours until you choose to sell it."

The moon still rises, the grass is still green and the sun still shines. But the U.S. Court of Appeals told the Indians Tuesday that Congress wants to build a dam across the river. So they must give up their land.

The court ruled the government can go ahead with a dam that would flood most of a Seneca reservation on the Allegheny River despite a 1794 treaty in which the United States promised "never to claim" their lands.

The flood control dam near Kinzua, Pa., is designed to protect Pittsburgh. The reservation is about 12 miles upstream in New York State and much of it would be flooded by the resulting lake.

The Indians cited the treaty signed by President Washington which they said pledged the United States never to disturb the Senecas in the use of their lands.

But both sides agreed in recent court arguments that Congress can unilaterally break an Indian treaty and that Indians are subject to land condemnation with just compensation the same as anyone else.

Judges Henry W. Edgerton, Wilbur K. Miller and Walter M. Bastian said the only issue was whether Congress specifically intended to revoke the treaty in authorizing the Kinzua Dam.

Congress did not mention the treaty in so many words. But the judges held unanimously that hearings before congressional committees showed that Congress knew the Seneca lands were to be flooded.

They quoted Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) as saying in Senate debate that "the government has the legal right to do what is proposed. But what distresses me is the moral responsibility we have."

Edward E. O'Neill, attorney for the Indians, said he probably would take the case to the Supreme Court.

"The Seneca Council has authorized me to fight this thing to the end, and the end is the Supreme Court," he said. "If this stands, no Indian treaty is worth the paper it's written on. They're all out the window."

Oral Vaccine For Polio Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — An oral vaccine against polio — employing living but modified virus — is expected to pass final safety trials within a few months, a Philadelphia scientist said Tuesday.

If it does so, said Dr. Hilary Koprowski, director of the Wistar Institute, he feels it could be used right away to immunize people of all ages in underdeveloped countries where he said use of the Salk vaccine requiring injection is practically impossible on a mass basis.

As for other countries, such as the United States, Koprowski said he felt the vaccine could be given to infants with possible "creation of and immunity almost from birth.

The present Salk vaccine cannot be administered until a child is six months of age, he told reporters after addressing a meeting of the Medical Society of the District of Columbia.

Salk vaccine is made of killed virus. The new oral vaccine is made of living virus which has been modified in a way designed to take away its disease-producing punch but still leave if capable of generating protective antibodies. The vaccine may be given in capsule form, by spoon, or by oral spray.

Nancy Loses Power

TOKYO (UPI) — Nancy, the latest of the off-season Pacific storms, lost much power Wednesday and was downgraded from a typhoon to a tropical storm. The storm, which caused at least 15 deaths in the Philippines earlier, was not expected to threaten any big land areas.

She Could Have Been Democrat

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — City Clerk Josephine Melton did fine until she got to the signature of a letter she was reading at Monday night's council meeting.

The letter praised the Tacoma Police Department for its cooperation during President Eisenhower's recent brief stay here.

"Dwight...er, Dwight..." Mrs. Melton faltered as she started to read the signature, then turned to the mayor and asked for help on the scrawled last name.

It brought down the house.

Insurance Benefits Increase In W.Va.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Institute of Life Insurance disclosed Tuesday that $17,246,000 in life insurance death benefit payments were made to 10,944 West Virginia claimants during the first three quarters of the year.

The Institute said these figures compare with $15,290,000 paid out during the corresponding nine-month period in 1957 and $9,572,000 distributed in West Virginia during a comparable period in 1948.

Of the payments made during the latest nine-month period in West Virginia, $9,467,000 was under 3,273 ordinary insurance policies, $6,091,000 under 2,638 group life insurance certificates, and $1,688,000 under 5,033 industrial insurance policies.

Determined Enlistee

SOUTHAMPTON, England (UPI) — Pakhar Singh, 21, told army recruiters he hitch - hiked 12,000 miles across Asia and Europe to join the British army because he wanted to see the world. Singh said he came to Britain from Malaya via India, Afghanistan, Turkey, Greece, Yugoslavia, Italy, Switzerland and France.

Expel Students

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI)—The government Wednesday announced expulsion of more than 200 South African students from the Natal Amanzimtoti Training College, formerly operated by American missionaries. The American missionaries moved out rather than submit to the Bantu (native) Education Act under which the government recently took control of all African education. Government officials said the expelled students had show; "dissaffection and insolence" and were being spurred on by agitators.

City Considers Moving Permits To Bar Skipouts

FALLS CHURCH, Va. (AP) — An ordinance pending in City Council would require residents to get a permit from the city if they wanted to move away.

The idea is to prevent people from slipping out without paying taxes and other municipal debts. Falls Church, a Washington suburba, loses more than $2,000 a year that way.

The ordinance, up for final reading Dec. 8, would provide a fine or jail sentence, the amount yet undetermined, for those who try to move away without a permit.

The measure would require the cooperation of moving companies in asking to see permits before loading their trucks.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♦.

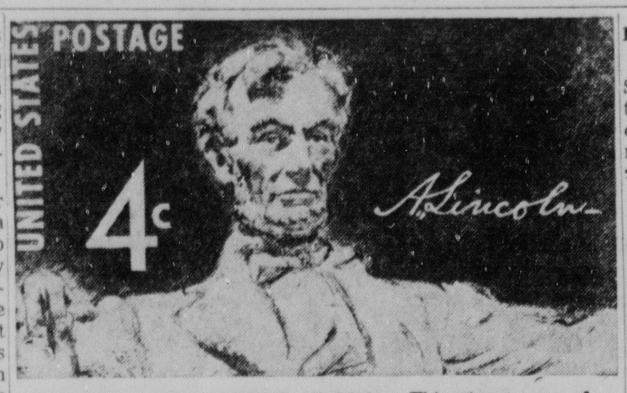
Declarer's seemingly lucky guess today was actually based on proper application of the percentages.

Against four hearts, West led the ace of diamonds and in compliance with East's signal continued the suit. Declarer could not afford to ruff with the jack of hearts. If he did so and then cashed the king of trumps, he would have to lose, in all, one heart, one club and two diamonds. If he refrains from cashing the king of trumps but drives out the ace of clubs instead, the defense can lead a third round of diamonds and force dummy's king of hearts. This action will build up two trump tricks for the defense. So declarer had to permit the diamond lead to ride.

East, upon winning with the king of diamonds, returned the suit, and declarer won with the queen. Attacking trumps immediately, he led a heart to the jack, which held. The heart king was cashed, dropping the queen, and declarer returned to his hand with a spade and drew the remaining trumps in two rounds. He now drove out the ace of clubs in fulfilment of the contract.

South had chosen the proper play. He must avoid the loss of a heart trick. If the suit happens to break 3-3, the hand can be won by finessing for the queen in the proper direction. But if, as is more probable, the suit breaks 4-2, it will avail declarer nothing to guess the location of the queen if it is in the hand with four, for the defense will have one sure trick in the suit however declarer plays. If East has the queen and one other heart, the hand cannot be won, for as the jack is returned from dummy the cover will set up a trick for West, who will then hold the 9 and three little hearts.

But if West has the queen and one heart or the queen and two, declarer can pick up the entire suit by finessing the jack on the first round.



ONE OF THREE HONORING LINCOLN — This stamp, one of three to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, will be placed on sale May 30, 1959. It features a facsimile of Lincoln's signature and a portion of the famed statue by Daniel Chester French in the Lincoln memorial in Washington, D. C. The actual subject matter was taken from a line and pastel drawing by Fritz Busse.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
5 ♦	Pass	6 ♦	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ♥.

North's overbid paid a handsome reward today when West did not get off to the best lead.

South's five diamond opening was aggressive but not too unreasonable when considered in the light of favorable vulnerability, and the 150 honors he expected to apply against the cost of a sacrifice. North's raise to six was a distinct gamble since, it depended on his partner having a singleton club not to mention a solid trump holding.

West chose for his opening lead the deuce of hearts, reasoning that he must set up a trick before his ace of clubs was dislodged. Declarer had no choice but to let it ride and when the jack of hearts won the trick the hand became routine. Declarer discarded one club on the second spade and repeated the heart finesse.

West berated himself for having made the only lead to give declarer the hand. In light of the somewhat blind nature of the bidding we feel that the ace of clubs is a sounder choice. It should be noted that declarer could have won the hand with any lead except the immediate cashing of the two clubs.

Suppose, for example a spade is opened. Declarer takes a club discard and leads a club. If East plays low, the queen forces West's ace. It is now a simple matter for declarer to finesse the queen of hearts and play the jack of clubs through East to set up the 10 for the discard of his other low heart.

If East is inspired enough to rise with the king on the first lead of clubs declarer takes a heart finesse against West and then by leading out all the trumps succeeds in trapping West, who will be unable to hold on to the ace of clubs and also retain protection in hearts.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♦.

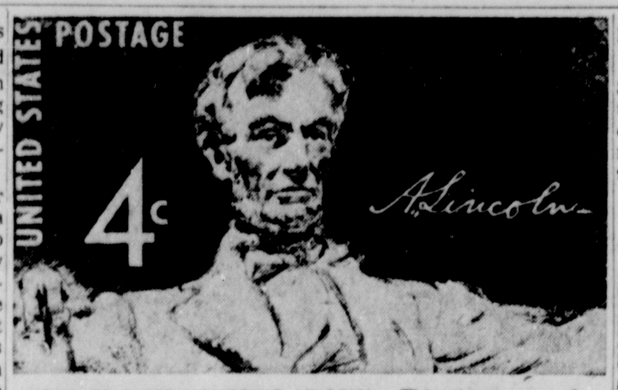
Declarer's seemingly lucky guess today was actually based on proper application of the percentages.

Against four hearts, West led the ace of diamonds and in compliance with East's signal continued the suit. Declarer could not afford to ruff with the jack of hearts. If he did so and then cashed the king of trumps, he would have to lose, in all, one heart, one club and two diamonds. If he refrains from cashing the king of trumps but drives out the ace of clubs instead, the defense can lead a third round of diamonds and force dummy's king of hearts. This action will build up two trump tricks for the defense. So declarer had to permit the diamond lead to ride.

East, upon winning with the king of diamonds, returned the suit, and declarer won with the queen. Attacking trumps immediately, he led a heart to the jack, which held. The heart king was cashed, dropping the queen, and declarer returned to his hand with a spade and drew the remaining trumps in two rounds. He now drove out the ace of clubs in fulfilment of the contract.

South had chosen the proper play. He must avoid the loss of a heart trick. If the suit happens to break 3-3, the hand can be won by finessing for the queen in the proper direction. But if, as is more probable, the suit breaks 4-2, it will avail declarer nothing to guess the location of the queen if it is in the hand with four, for the defense will have one sure trick in the suit however declarer plays. If East has the queen and one other heart, the hand cannot be won, for as the jack is returned from dummy the cover will set up a trick for West, who will then hold the 9 and three little hearts.

But if West has the queen and one heart or the queen and two, declarer can pick up the entire suit by finessing the jack on the first round.



ONE OF THREE HONORING LINCOLN — This stamp, one of three to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, will be placed on sale May 30, 1959. It features a facsimile of Lincoln's signature and a portion of the famed statue by Daniel Chester French in the Lincoln memorial in Washington, D. C. The actual subject matter was taken from a line and pastel drawing by Fritz Busse.

East-West vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
5 ♦	Pass	6 ♦	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Deuce of ♥.

North's overbid paid a handsome reward today when West did not get off to the best lead.

South's five diamond opening was aggressive but not too unreasonable when considered in the light of favorable vulnerability, and the 150 honors he expected to apply against the cost of a sacrifice. North's raise to six was a distinct gamble since, it depended on his partner having a singleton club not to mention a solid trump holding.

West chose for his opening lead the deuce of hearts, reasoning that he must set up a trick before his ace of clubs was dislodged. Declarer had no choice but to let it ride and when the jack of hearts won the trick the hand became routine. Declarer discarded one club on the second spade and repeated the heart finesse.

West berated himself for having made the only lead to give declarer the hand. In light of the somewhat blind nature of the bidding we feel that the ace of clubs is a sounder choice. It should be noted that declarer could have won the hand with any lead except the immediate cashing of the two clubs.

Suppose, for example a spade is opened. Declarer takes a club discard and leads a club. If East plays low, the queen forces West's ace. It is now a simple matter for declarer to finesse the queen of hearts and play the jack of clubs through East to set up the 10 for the discard of his other low heart.

If East is inspired enough to rise with the king on the first lead of clubs declarer takes a heart finesse against West and then by leading out all the trumps succeeds in trapping West, who will be unable to hold on to the ace of clubs and also retain protection in hearts.

Tijuana Shows Little Chance Of Reforming

By NORMAN BELL

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego meets the Mexican State of Baja California at its border, and there are those in this city who insist the border gate is a gate to hell.

For beyond lies Tijuana, whose most important business is sin.

Its gaudy night clubs and half-hidden dives attract Americans in droves. Tourist dollars spent on lurid pastimes—and on bullfights and horse and dog racing—provide the border population with just about its only income.

There have been attempts at reform.

Two years ago crusading newspaper publisher Manuel Acosta Mesta was shot down outside his home. His editor, Carlos Ortega, said he was slain because he was threatening to publish the names of those he charged with making Tijuana synonymous with vice and corruption.

Ortega said there were then 8,000 prostitutes in the border city, and that their customers were Americans—"Who come here every time they need drugs, easy women or to satisfy whatever insane desire they may have."

The city police chief resigned under fire in the investigation of Mesta's death. Gov. Braulio Maldonada of Baja California appointed a new chief and ordered an immediate cleanup of vice in Tijuana.

But it is flourishing today as lustily as when Mesta was shot.

In San Diego, prominent churchmen, educators and some public officials have long demanded, thus far unsuccessfully, that the border gate be closed, at least, to American juveniles not escorted by adults.

Officials in Washington have replied that such action would amount to an insult to a friendly country, and that the border gate is more than a gateway to Tijuana. It is one of three — the others are at Tocato and Mexicali —leading to Baja (lower) California.

Baja California is an 800-mile-long peninsula pointing southward like a great finger. The northern half became Mexico's newest state in 1953. Latest estimates give a total 450,000 population. Tijuana has about 165,000; Mexicali, the state capital, 215,000; Ensenada, Pacific port 60 miles south of the border, 25,000.

Mexicali Valley agriculture and Ensenada fishing give employment to a few hundred, but most of the border population depends upon the American tourist dollars.

The rest of the long peninsula is pretty much of a lost desert—cut off from Mexico's mainland by the wide Gulf of California, and from the north by lack of adequate roads. Even the mountains are mostly piled up desert.

At the southern end of the peninsula, in the La Paz area, there are fertile, peaceful valleys where some crops are grown and a few Americans go by air or boat for vacations.

But La Paz and Tijuana are as far apart as day and night.

FIRE DAMAGES PLANT

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) —An estimated $3,000 damage was caused to machinery and other equipment Monday when a fire broke out at the Marbon Chemicals Co. plant at nearby Washington, Wood County. Plant manager Robert Shattuck said aluminum pigment used in coloring materials was ignited by flames which spread to dust collecting machinery at the top of the main processing building before being extinguished.

TO RAISE $25,000

BUCKHANNON, W. Va. (UPI) — A drive to raise $25,000 by Dec. 31 to help increase salaries of faculty members at West Virginia Wesleyan College has been started by the college's Alumni Council. Half the amount will be contributed by the Challenge Club and the other half by the remaining 4,900 alumni members, alumni affairs director James Stansbury said.

Market Climbs To Erase Third Of Recent Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks turned to the upside in earnest Wednesday, scoring their best gain in a year—a rise which added well over 4 billion dollars to market valuations.

The rise erased about one-third of the loss of the three preceding sessions and was the biggest gain for the market since Nov. 27, 1957, the recovery movement following the drop on President Eisenhower's cerebral occlusion.

The move came on good volume, with the day's best levels reached in a rush of buying which had reporting tickers running late at the closing gong. Turnover of 4,090,000 shares compared with 3,940,000 Tuesday.

Chemicals, steels, oils, metals and numerous specialty issues were strong, and the industrial average closed the day up 8.63 points at 549.15.

Rails, too, were in demand and their average showed an even bigger percentage gain than industrials, rising 3.55 to 153.74.

Utilities gained 0.53 to 84.83. The big highlight in this group, however, was Pennsylvania Power & Light, not included in the average, which gained over 4 points on its stock split proposal.

The Dow Jones 65-stock general average improved 2.99 to 191.62 while Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 0.88 to 51.90.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Brokers left grain futures prices slumping weak to steady on Thanksgiving eve on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Liquidation settled in the pits and led the decline in every grain.

December wheat dropped during the crop's dull trade. Some spreaders bought December on the decline and sold deferred contracts.

With small commission house selling orders predominating, corn also faded. Locals bought May and July, but sold December.

December oats also encountered liquidation.

Nearby soybean deliveries were hit harder than deferred. An elevator house sold January and March beans. Meal prices also slipped, although oil markets were firm.

Grains at outside markets were easy. The range:

Market Climbs To Erase Third Of Recent Losses

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks turned to the upside in earnest Wednesday, scoring their best gain in a year—a rise which added well over 4 billion dollars to market valuations.

The rise erased about one-third of the loss of the three preceding sessions and was the biggest gain for the market since Nov. 27, 1957, the recovery movement following the drop on President Eisenhower's cerebral occlusion.

The move came on good volume, with the day's best levels reached in a rush of buying which had reporting tickers running late at the closing gong. Turnover of 4,090,000 shares compared with 3,940,000 Tuesday.

Chemicals, steels, oils, metals and numerous specialty issues were strong, and the industrial average closed the day up 8.63 points at 549.15.

Rails, too, were in demand and their average showed an even bigger percentage gain than industrials, rising 3.55 to 153.74.

Utilities gained 0.53 to 84.83. The big highlight in this group, however, was Pennsylvania Power & Light, not included in the average, which gained over 4 points on its stock split proposal.

The Dow Jones 65-stock general average improved 2.99 to 191.62 while Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 0.88 to 51.90.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Brokers left grain futures prices slumping weak to steady on Thanksgiving eve on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Liquidation settled in the pits and led the decline in every grain.

December wheat dropped during the crop's dull trade. Some spreaders bought December on the decline and sold deferred contracts.

With small commission house selling orders predominating, corn also faded. Locals bought May and July, but sold December.

December oats also encountered liquidation.

Nearby soybean deliveries were hit harder than deferred. An elevator house sold January and March beans. Meal prices also slipped, although oil markets were firm.

Grains at outside markets were easy.

Newly Elected Democrats Causing Real Estate Boom In Washington

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON—The heyday for Washington real estate dealers is at hand. With only six weeks to go until the official opening of the 86th Congress, this capital city is already swarming with ebullient young congressmen-elect who are bent on buying a house.

If anyone doubts the "new look" of the next Senate, he needs only to consider the type of fireside required by the victorious Democrats.

Nearly all of the replacements for the aging Republican solons are youthful heads of large families. Instead of snapping up the hotel apartments being vacated by the GOP grandfathers, therefore, these Democratic lads are badgering the bemused real estate agents for suburban ramblers with "lots of bedrooms."

Money will probably be no object for Senator-elect Philip A. Hart of Michigan, since his wife, Jane, is a Briggs heiress who pilots their own helicopter. Money is exactly what they will need when they arrive next week to find the ranch-type dwelling they want, in high-priced Washington. Their burgeoning family boasts eight high-spirited youngsters.

Former Gov. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine—the first senator elected in this fall's Democratic landslide—has already laid cash on the line for a new abode in Washington, and returned home to pack.

The affable Democrat who upset Maine's Republican applecart was wise in wasting no time, since his wife will shortly present him with his fourth heir.

Senator-elect Vance Hartke of Indiana, the current mayor of Evansville, spent nearly a week house-hunting for his attractive young family, but dashed home recently to the bedside of two ailing youngsters. Real estate men are assured that he'll be back again soon, to resume the quest.

Senator-elect Gale McGee of Wyoming, the brilliant young college professor who is the father of four, put the down payment on his Washington dream-house this week—a Dutch colonial with four bedrooms.

McGee's house, like those for which most of the new legislators are shopping, is in the $30,000-$40,000 price bracket.

Another victor who arrives next week to look for a "permanent" abode is Senator-elect Frank E. Moss of Utah. Father of three sons and a daughter, the former president of the National Assn. of County and Prosecuting Attorneys has let it be known that he will want a "big" place suitable for entertaining.

Some of the new senators are lucky enough to have their housing situation well in hand, thanks to the fact that they are merely moving up from the House of Representatives. One of these — New York's Republican Sen. Keating—has already been leasing the attractive, roomy "guest house" on the grounds of the fabulous Forrestal Estate in historic Georgetown.

The Forrestal house, occupied by the late Defense Secretary James Forrestal and later leased to the U.S. government as an official guest house for visiting heads of states, is now owned by the attractive widow of the late Rep. Thurmond Chatham of North Carolina.

The fact that so many of the new senators—elected for six year terms—have decided to buy instead of rent bespeaks their party confidence.

Most of these youngsters frankly expect to be in the driver's seat for a long, long time, and have decided that in the face of an inflationary trend, they might as well invest and reap the real estate harvest.

Buying property here is much more of a gamble for the scores of newly arriving representatives, who must face a re-election campaign in two years.

Except for the easterners, most of the legislators are staggered by the high price of Washington real estate. A member of the congressional campaign staff who has been putting them in touch with local real estate agents mused sadly:

"After they've seen how little you can get here for $30,000 or $40,000, they suddenly realize that their $22,500 salary is considerably less than it looked to them back home."

TOKYO (UPI) — The United States Tuesday turned back to Japan the Palace Heights housing area for U.S. servicemen and their families. The Japanese government had announced tentative plans to use the area near the Imperial Palace in Tokyo for a national theater and a new Supreme Court building. The area was headquarters of Japan's Air force during World War II.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—Here are some things to be thankful for, in case you can't lay your hands or thoughts on any:

The sun continues to rise each morning. Just think of that! Never misses. It heats the earth, enables the plants and you and all you love to survive, makes jobs for a lot of Florida and California publicity men.

The moon is around, too, inspiring lovers, still unpunctured despite the efforts of the finest missile experts on both sides of the Iron Curtain to do it in.

The tides rise and fall, cleansing the shore lines and keeping the Bay of Fundy in the crossword puzzles.

Strange little packages of electronic gear, flying through space, are telling us more about our universe than we knew in the first million years of man's existence. You know more than Galileo.

Conrad Hilton is opening a new hotel in the middle of Berlin, and suddenly it is a monument to the West's determination to stay in business there.

Khrushchev is beginning to get a little nervous about China.

The TV Westerns have run their cycle and will soon give way to the Civil War. Maybe one day we'll get around to Mr. Peppers again, and Herb Shriner, Sid Caesar and Wide Wide World and Peter Donald's "Can You Top This?"—which will be okay with me.

The paper you are reading is a bona fide miracle, purchased for a few pennies. To gather its news, men and women roamed the earth, composed the prose, got it to you—and damn the torpedoes.

We enjoy the fruit of the genius of Charles Kettering, who passed away the other day in Dayton, Ohio. Ket made it possible for women (and many men) to operate automobiles, by his invention of the self-starter. He devised the first electric home refrigerator that worked well. He gave most of his great fortune to the research department of the Sloan-Kettering cancer laboratories in New York—out of which could one day come his ultimate gift to mankind.

We are not ruled by Mao Tse-tung who in the past eight months, according to Time magazine, "has herded more than 90 per cent of mainland China's 500-million peasants into vast human poultry yards, called 'people's communes.' If Mao's historic gamble succeeds, the ordinary Chinese of day after tomorrow will have no fixed job, no home and no real family."

We can go to the church of our choice today and thank the dear Lord that there's no one around to bar the path, or direct us where we don't want to go.

We can sleep tonight with no fear that there will be a pistol butt slammed against the door. It will just be the riveter, building the new office next door.

We can write a letter to the editor and state exactly what you like or dislike about the president, the vice president, the Supreme Court, Congress, the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, motherhood and Westbrook Pegler.

The bomb hasn't dropped. Know how big the bomb is? Well, just one of them — the large economy sized megaton type—packs more devastation in its trim hide than all the aerial bombs dropped by all the combatants throughout World War II. And then some. Just one. Suddenly it's too big to throw.

There's one more thing to be thankful for this Thanksgiving. You can be thankful there's now law requiring you to be thankful if you'd prefer to be unthankful this thanksgiving, Anno Domini 1958.

WVU Physicists Find New Spectral Lines

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Two West Virginia University physicists have published results of a study which may help explain hitherto unknown spectral lines observed in the universe.

Results of the study conducted by Dr. Oleg Jefimenko, assistant professor of physics, and Joel A. Gwinn, physics instructor, were published in a recent issue of The Journal of Chemical Physics.

The study indicates that some of the unknown spectral lines which have been detected upon the sun and certain other stellar objects may be due to collisions of particles of elements already discovered, rather than indicating the presence of unknown elements.

Competition Keen Among Symphony Orchestras At Carnegie Hall

By DELOS SMITH
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—So far in this season's round of competition among America's great symphony orchestras in New York's Carnegie Hall, only one issue has been settled for sure. Charles Munch, conductor of the Boston Symphony, is the best tailored of the conductors and he has the longest tails on his conductorial coat.

The Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, and, of course, the New York orchestras have now all been heard in their 1958 states in the only hall where comparisons are possible, since they all play there at least once every season. In fact, the Philadelphia and the Boston orchestras are season-long competitors there of New York's.

The Philadelphia and the Boston retain their incredibly high polish. Everything they do is done with a technical excellence approaching perfection. Beneath the Philadelphia polish is high tension like the tightly wound spring. Beneath the Boston polish is a relaxed serenity as though there couldn't be the slightest doubt of its every endeavor achieving the ultimate.

That's Munch. He's now been the Boston's music director long enough for the orchestra to be Munch and vice versa. He's the imperturbably serene conductor, and the light-bringer. You have to be impressed by the way he opens up the orchestral textures so the light can get through and the structural layers are all discernible, like elegant French pastry.

But Munch's serenity was hard put by the first symphony of the 25-year-old American composer, Easley Blackwood, which the Boston played once in its first series of Carnegie Hall concerts of the season. It is musical dismalness in four movements—a what-the-devil symphony in which there is neither strive nor hope.

It was vaguely disturbing because the music was so clearly a personal expression by a creative composer, and you wondered if the artist, by the well-known intuitive perceptions of the creative artist, was expressing attitudes widespread in America's youth. However, the Bostonians submerged it under Bach, Beethoven, Brahms and Debussy, and the question wasn't pressed.

The Pittsburgh, under its drama - happy conductor, William Steinberg, played a new piece by Nikolai Lopatnikoff, professor of music at Pittsburgh's Carnegie Institute of Technology, which removed the Blackwood taste by showing that America's contemporary composers by and large compose for other composers — and others technically equipped to follow technical finesse. But Steinberg also presented his drama-charged interpretation of Beethoven's Eroica and of Ravel's Bolero and stirred his audience.

Currently the New York Philharmonic is under the guest conductorship of Herbert Von Karajan, who is director of the Vienna State Opera, the Berlin Philharmonic, the Salzburg Festival, and of the German wing of La Scala, Milan. He is the traditional grand manner of Europe; the music he conducts has to be grand and if it isn't, really, it comes out that way.

The Philadelphia orchestra and its music director, Eugene Ormandy, began their New York season with an unforgettable performance of Handel's "Messiah," collaborating with the Mormon Tabernacle Choir. This week they will play Vincent D'Indy's "Symphony on a French Mountain Air" and Cesar Franck's Symphonic Variations, with Robert Casadesus as the piano soloist.

Thanksgiving — From Age-Old Roots

Thanksgiving Day is the American variant—it would be incorrect to say equivalent—of the harvest festivals of Europe. And this holiday which Americans know as a family feast with a strong element of worship in it may seem widely separated from the folk celebrations that, in older lands, hark back to pagan lands and pagan ways.

But there is no question that the roots of Thanksgiving Day are to be found in such festivities. Even the austere Pilgrim Fathers, giving thanks that autumn day in 1621, were gay because the harvest had been good.

"Our corne did prouve well, & God be praysed we had a good increase of Indian corne," wrote Edward Winslow. Governor Bradford sent "foure men on fowling, so we might after a more special manner rejoice together, after we had gathered the fruit of our labors."

More than 80 Indians, bringing venison and wild turkeys, joined with the colonists in the general feasting.

That first American Thanksgiving Day came after a good summer had followed a bitter winter that killed nearly half of the little company of settlers. There was a poor harvest the next year, and so there was no celebration, but there was one in 1623 and others followed.

The custom of giving thanks to God for blessings received became a part of the New England background and in time a part of the American cosmos.

The fruits of the earth are life itself, as our pagan forefathers knew and as we still know in these times when few of us know what it is to till the soil. They are part of the cycle of the seasons, the cycle of human existence, to be accepted as God-given.

It is good to pause on Thanksgiving Day and return our gratitude to the Creator.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Our Unfortunates

There are no titles of birth or aristocracy or nobility in the United States perhaps only because they are forbidden by the Constitution. This appears in Article I, Section 9 and reads:

"No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States: and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state."

Of course, plenty of American women have gone abroad and had themselves married to various titled persons in foreign lands. While they are in this country, they may be addressed by their foreign status, but the title has no particular meaning in this country except as a courtesy.

Titles are on the wane, anyhow. Russia, Germany, Italy, the Austro-Hungarian Empire and other places where once monarchs ruled in medieval splendor are now republics and ancient titles are no longer of any legitimacy in those countries. The British titles are, of course, legitimate and important. The British government awards titles for major achievements in every line of human endeavor. It is therefore not unusual in that country to find a member of the House of Lords wishing that he were a commoner with a good salary to boot.

Distinction by marriage is normal in the human race, most wives basking in their husbands' success. However, a European title often does not indicate particular success, but rather descent from a very remote ancestor who did well for himself in the numerous enterprises available during feudalism, some of which are nowadays regarded as not permissible such as chopping off a head or putting poison in the soup for profit. If all of us got to looking into our ancestries, we might be not a little embarrassed. Certainly those who criticize Frank Costello or the gentlemen of the Apalachin Mafia must not ever have a look at the founder of the house which gives them a grandiloquent name.

New York and Washington, each winter, fill with titled folks, most of whom are delightful people. They form a pleasant society of luncheons, dinners, flirtations and polite conversations. A few are very hard working diplomats. Some are married to American wives and not a few have difficulties arising therefrom.

In the current world, distinction seems to go only to the distinguished, particularly in the sciences and the arts and nobody worries much where anybody was born or from whom. Most of the rulers of the great and powerful nations in the year 1958 have no especially notable ancestors and their wives do not know how to curtsy or to be curtsied to. That makes it all very difficult.

The Russian nobility used to be very noble indeed. And generally, they were rich. They not only owned land but they owned "souls," as they called them, and when they came to Berlin or Paris or London, they had lots of money to spend and they spent it freely. Now, those who still try to maintain something of the old times are a dwindling society that is being merged in the proletariat, except a few who adjusted early and managed to use their intellects to earn a living. The Austrians have gone through the same fate and it is not difficult to meet a scion of 1,000 years of ancestors who is earning an honest living selling this or that.

The phonies are mostly Americans, that is, American women who got some kind of a title by marriage and cling to it grimly. The most favored title in this country is Missus, generally spelled Mrs., and remaining so unchanged until death do us part. It may be a very narrow-minded, provincial, even parochial attitude but it is as American as baked beans on Saturday night in New England.

I should imagine that Mrs. Emily Post who knows about such things has somewhere written a decision as to whether American women, in their own country, are called upon to curtsy to ladies bearing foreign titles and under what circumstances. Curtsying has become quite a business in New York and generally looks silly because to do it beautifully, one needs to be trained in childhood. The normal salutation hereabouts is a handshake which is tough on a lady if the man is indelicate.

Our Thanksgiving Dinner

Mr. Nasser And The Small, Obstinate Voices

By Joseph Alsop

BEIRUT, Lebanon

Gamal Abdel Nasser has not had a particularly merry fortnight. The disastrous failure of the attempt to kidnap King Hussein of Jordan was bad enough. The Khartoum coup d'etat was worse, since it is known to have not only forestalled a virtual Egyptian political take-over in the Sudan, but installed a government committed to keeping the Sudan independent.

All the same, the Egyptian dictator is probably just as much disturbed by another, much less noted current development. For, even within the ranks of the most convinced Nasser-style Arab nationalists, a certain resistance is clearly developing to Nasser's claims to be the unique, all-powerful leader of all the Arab lands.

The core of this resistance is the difficulty Nasser has encountered in Syria, where the cheers for Arab union have died down into a low, ominous grumble about Egyptian rule. But Syria is not the only place where Arab nationalists have been challenging Nasser's unique authority.

For example, Kamal Chaderchi is the Arab nationalist leader with the greatest personal following in Iraq. He was not included in the new Iraqi government of Brig. Gen. Karim Kassem, perhaps because his moderate views on all subjects except Arab union made Chaderchi repugnant to the Iraqi Communists. Yet Chaderchi retains great influence. Hnce he had much to offer Nasser when he went to Cairo after the coup d'etat in Baghdad, to talk about the terms of Iraq's association with the United Arab Republic.

According to highly authoritative reports, however, the Nasser-Chaderchi talks ended in a blazing disagreement. Chaderchi was passionately anxious to help in realizing his long-cherished dream of Arab union under Nasser. But he also dared to insist that Iraq ought to be allowed a certain local autonomy within the union, that political parties ought to continue to exist in Iraq, that a measure of free discussion should be permitted within the press, and so on. Nasser apparently rejected all these claims, insisting his own way was best.

Both Chaderchi's bargaining and Nasser's violence were no doubt motivated by the already-mentioned experience in Syria. Here the development has apparently reached an acute stage, judging by the Cairo radio's recent demure announcement that the Syrian Vice President of the United Arab Republic, Akram Hourani, has been deprived of all his executive powers. In order to understand the extraordinary character of this announcement, a little past history is needed.

In brief, the Kremlin, rather than Nasser, was the prime mover in the first Syrian coup d'etat last summer. Until this coup d'etat occurred, all Soviet dealings with the Arab nationalists in Syria and everywhere else had been channeled through Nasser personally. The Damascus coup d'etat greatly strengthened the Nasserite nationalists in Syria. But it produced an even greater increase of Syrian Communist strength. For example, the coup installed a party member, Gen. Asis Al Bieri, as Army Chief of Staff, and it gave wide new powers to the Kremlin's chief local agent, Defense Minister Khalid Azm.

For just this reason, Akram Hourani was visibly disquieted when this reporter visited Damascus just after the first coup d'etat had taken place there. As the leader of the ultra-Nasserite but non-Communist Baath party, Hourani then enjoyed vastly more influence in Damascus than Chaderchi has ever had in Baghdad. In the person of the formidable Chief of the Syrian Army Intelligence, Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj, Hourani also had a loyal and immensely strong partner in the Army at that time.

Hourani and Serraj, working together, were therefore able to stage what amounted to a second coup d'etat. They nipped the bulk of the Communist strength in Syria in the bud, by the simple device of taking Syria into the United Arab Republic. The effect of this sudden union of Syria with Egypt was so dramatic that the Syrian Communist leader-in-chief, Khalid Baqdash, left the country for a while.

But the temporary absence of Baqdash by no means settled the grave question of the future working relationship between the central government in Cairo and the new Syrian province. Hourani very obviously expected Syria to enjoy the same measure of autonomy that Chaderchi asked for Iraq. He further expected to be recognized as the effective viceroy of Syria, as his service to Nasser demanded, and he was indeed granted great authority when the United Arab Republic was first formed.

Yet even at the outset, still greater authority was concentrated in the hands of the former Egyptian Ambassador to Damascus, Gen. Mahmoud Riad, who now in effect became Nasser's High Commissioner in Syria. If the Hourani-Serraj partnership had nonetheless continued, different arrangements might have been forced upon Nasser in the end. But Serraj now dropped Hourani, and seemed to be content to serve as Nasser's Syrian Deputy-High Commissioner and Police Chief.

Thus the way was prepared for the recent Cairo announcement. It was issued shortly after Akram Hourani had been temporarily called to Cairo and reportedly ordered not to return to Damascus. The announcement transfers all Hourani's former executive authority in Syria to Dr. Nureddine Kahla, the technician who heads the executive council of the "Syrian region." Dr. Kahla is expected to be a pliant tool of Gen. Riad's, without any of Hourani's inconvenient tendencies to have ideas of his own about his country's future.

What happened to Hourani, to whom Nasser owed so much, is ironically and wonderfully Nasser's fundamental dilemma. His dilemma consists in the fact that all the cheers for Arab naitonalism and Arab unity in these last years have not silenced and cannot silence the still, small, obstinate voices of Arab particularism and Arab localism.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

A four-man team is about to set out into the Himalaya mountains on still another expedition seeking the Abominable Snowman. With winter just around the corner, we'd say they picked a good season for it.

Sudan's army chief has made himself premier of that country. Just another politically ambitious fellow who couldn't wait to be elected.

It's predicted a record 200,000 Americans will tour Europe next summer. Good — maybe that'll ease the parking problem hereabouts!

In a health experiment, 400 Midwest college students have been eating three apples daily for two years. Wonder who is conducting the experiment?—surely, not a bunch of doctors!

Two rivals for the hand of an Italian girl staged a duel — a three-hour eating contest. Steaks for two, bicarb for one?

Prince Charles' 10th birthday cake was done to the queen's taste. His mom, Elizabeth II, baked it.

If the plan to establish a third major baseball league goes through Florida's going to be a very crowded place during the spring training season!

Thanksgiving Brings Outpourings Of Help To Dynamited Schools

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It's been 337 years since the Pilgrim Fathers first gave thanks for being able to withstand their first year on the North American continent, and since that time some people have claimed Thanksgiving is getting too commercial.

I don't believe it. Looking over my mail I would say that the American people are a long way from going commercial. Stacks of letters and telegrams are on my desk indicating that people are still thinking very much about their fellow men.

One telegram came from Paul Wintner, the Oceana International Co., of 1331 Halsey Street, Brooklyn. He had seen my column telling of the third grade at the Osage, W. Va., school which was dynamited and how the pictures they had drawn of the Pilgrim Fathers carrying turkeys still remained on the walls amid the broken glass, the broken chandeliers, and the broken plaster. He had also read of the miners out of work in that little town.

So Mr. Wintner wired: "Would like to send 50 or more turkeys to the needy families of Osage. Could you be of assistance in helping us contact the proper individual in Osage?"

I telephoned Mayor Stanley Solomon in Osage and arranged for the turkeys. I telephoned Mr. Wintner. He didn't have time to send his own turkeys from New York, and since he wanted them to be in Osage on Thanksgiving Day, he sent his check direct to Mayor Solomon. Mr. Wintner didn't want any publicity, but I'm ignoring his wish. It seems to me that seeds of good will planted on Thanksgiving Day lead to other seeds on other days.

Hitler's Gangs

Here's another letter from a Polish lady in Philadelphia, Bella Kaplan, 1344 Hellerman Street. It's dated Nov. 11 and is addressed to the Clinton School Board in Tennessee:

"Today is Veterans Day and I thought of wars. I have a good reason to think of it. Hitler's gangs killed every one of my family in Poland. My son, a young and brilliant student, closed his books in Temple University never to open them again, but to linger in a living death in a veterans hospital, and his father dying of sorrow. Thinking of all this, your school came to my mind and I know how you and all the citizens of your city feel—so I send you as much as I can; that it is very little, but will put a couple bricks in a new and I hope the most beautiful school in all the land, for your children of all groups and colors, and these wonderful children will become the citizens and teachers of a peaceful world. Amen."

Clinton's Early Principal

Here's another letter from Mary Roberts Scott, 85 years old, of 330 Winding Way, San Francisco, Calif., whose father was one of the early teachers in Clinton, Tenn. She writes:

"I want to send $10 to Clinton, Tennessee, and with it send a story that happened about 1865 or 1866.

"My father, Thomas Roberts, was a minister and scholar—'egghead' he would be called now. He was chaplain of the 12th Ohio Cavalry and was mustered out in east Tennessee. He was principal of the school in Clinton and my mother taught with him.

"Many adult men attended who wanted to learn 'figgering.' This meant higher arithmetic. (My father introduced elementary algebra which was not well known at that time.)

"One day a man—I think his name was D'Armond—one of the leading families, persisted in disturbing the class. Father asked him to come out in the hall. D'Armond called him an insulting name and accused him of favoring Negroes over whites. Father said he was afraid that was not true, but that he had more respect for a Negro than for a white man that misbehaved. D'Armond knocked him down and mother shoved D'Armond down the stairs and hurt him.

"My parents lost the job. They went to Knoxville and often had hard times all through the Reconstruction period."

Osage, W.Va., Insurance

Some of the best Thanksgiving news came from Bill Hart, editor of the Morgantown Dominion-News, that the school at Osage, W. Va., is almost certain to be completely covered by insurance. At first it was estimated that the school had $91,000 of insurance with damages of $200,000.

However, editor Hart, who is one of the most dynamic figures in the Morgantown-Osage area, claims that the insurance companies, under the county's insurance policy, are liable for the entire damage. Knowing Hart, I predict he and the school board will collect.

With a wonderful response coming in from the building trades unions, the building industry suppliers, and a lot of other people, we should soon be within gunshot of the necessary funds for the Clinton school.

Princeton Professor's Token

Another letter, from a Princeton professor, Melvin Tumin, expresses his sympathy for what many northerners don't realize—the point of view of the south.

"Here in the north it is easy for us to stand off from the day to day troubles involved in desegregating the schools and to berate the south for their slow pace. Perhaps I shall by this letter be able to convey to you the sense that many of us share that your actions and courage are worthy of the most profound admiration."

Warren In 1960?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Lots of things can happen in two years—and one may be that Vice President Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller will not remain the only personalities prominent in the discussion of prospective Republican nominees for the Presidency. For there is always the possibility that the name of Chief Justice Warren will also be tossed into the ring.

Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers Union, told a television audience the other day that, among others, Chief Justice Warren would make a good Presidential nominee in 1960. This is a significant endorsement from the man who is being hailed as having a powerful voice in the American electorate. In view of the signal success of the labor unions recently in electing to Congress a majority of Democrats, the importance of such a tribute cannot be minimized.

Mr. Warren has himself denied any Presidential ambitions and has made his disclaimer about as positive as anyone can. But it will be recalled that Associate Justice Charles Evans Hughes said virtually the same thing several times before he was nominated by the Republican party in 1916. Mr. Hughes told this correspondent in no uncertain terms just a few days before the Republican National Convention that he couldn't conceive of his being nominated. He pointed out that he had not encouraged anyone to get delegates for him—indeed, had disavowed them—and had publicly refused to allow his name to go on the ballot in any primary elections. But he was drafted just the same.

Chief Justice Warren won the governorship in California in 1946 as the nominee of both parties. He is known as an outstanding vote-getter. Noting that Messrs. Knowland and Nixon were unsuccessful in their efforts in the last California campaign, many Californians say Mr. Warren could have won if he had been a candidate this time. He made a speech in San Francisco last month on federal-state relationships which was considered by some observers as having political overtones, since it was delivered during the campaign.

It is true that Mr. Warren would not attract any southern states because of the views he expressed in the desegregation case in 1954, but the Republican Party can write off the possibility of winning any electoral votes in the South no matter who the Republican nominee may be. The sending of federal troops to Little Rock ended for years to come any chance for the Republican Party in the South.

But Chief Justice Warren is the type of political personality who, it would be urged, could get the so-called "liberal" vote and the labor vote and, of course, the Negro vote overwhelmingly in the North. If the criterion is what kind of showing a nominee could make among minority groups generally, then, politically speaking, there are potent reasons for considering Earl Warren.

It is even possible for Mr. Warren to become the Democratic Party nominee—if his record on so-called "liberal" issues is matched against that of any other governor or former governor whose name has been offered thus far on the Democratic side. There was a time not so long ago—1948 and 1951—when in the preconvention talk Dwight Eisenhower was often mentioned for both tickets, and indeed he was endorsed for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1948 by prominent Democratic leaders, including some from the ranks of labor. Since Mr. Warren has been so popular in the Democratic Party in California, his name is one the Democrats might toss about, just as they did that of General Eisenhower only a few years ago.

The one drawback for the Democrats in considering any Warren-For-President movement is that the "Solid South" would truly rebel at the polls if he were named. But judging by the strategy of some of the Northern leaders in Congress who are pressing for "cloture" and drastic legislation on "civil rights," those same leaders must feel that the electoral votes of the South are not at all necessary and that the victory in 1960 will be a landslide for the Democratic Presidential nominee without the South's votes.

Earl Warren is a man for whose rise the Republican Party is largely responsible. For he owes his appointment on the high court to the recommendations received by President Eisenhower from influential members of the Republican Party. Also, the desegregation decision of 1954 is in conformity with the Republican Party's protestations on "civil rights" over a long period. Certainly Mr. Nixon's reference in a public speech to "a great Republican Chief Justice Earl Warren" now will be recalled, even if, as the Vice President spoke, there was some doubt whether he intended to put a vocal comma after the word "Republican."

If the Republicans really feel they must go "modern" to win next time, they have in Mr. Warren, as a Presidential nominee, the incarnation of "modernism" in American politics.

Things For Senior Citizens To Be Thankful For

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Thanksgiving should be of particular importance to our senior citizens who have passed their 65th birthday. They should be thankful to be alive—doubly so if in excellent health.

Older individuals need not consider themselves through unless they spend their days aimlessly and have allowed their bodies and minds to deteriorate. A longer life expectancy is encouraged by acquiring objectives and goals that lead to community usefulness.

According to Dr. Edward L. Bortz of Philadelphia, a past president of the American Medical association, training and exercise will increase the industry and vitality of older men and women, as well as their zest for living. But to do the job right, proper motivation is needed.

The activities of the elderly depend upon their personal interests, emotional drives, and sense of values. It is high time for the 15 million men and women over 65 to take a more active role in shaping our destiny. This reservoir of knowledge, experience, and wisdom should not be wasted through retirement and isolation. A few oldsters with a broader and clearer appreciation of human needs could help make the world healthier and happier.

The majority of our oldsters lack the motivation because in America the accent is on youth. Moon rockets, sputniks, and atomic submarines are stealing the show. Still, many are beginning to wonder when our best brains will come up with something to satisfy the inner man.

We need to look into our values, to set up more lofty goals, to live peaceably with our neighbors, and to learn the true meaning of love. Our younger and more brilliant scientists may get us to the moon but it will take the old guard to get us back—into a more balanced life of happiness and contentment.

NO RETURN

L. P. writes: If a cataract has been removed, is there any danger it will return?

REPLY

No, because the cloudy and opaque lens cannot regrow.

REVACCINATION

D. R. writes: I was vaccinated against smallpox as a child and have a big scar on my arm to prove it. Do I need to have this done again, even if I do not plan to visit a foreign country?

REPLY

No law will force you to. But revaccination is advisable every five to seven years, because immunity wanes. It is possible that you have lost all your protection against this disease.

TRACING RADIOACTIVITY

R. J. writes: What is meant by a tracer study?

REPLY

Radioactive chemicals are administered and their course through the body is traced with a geiger counter. Radioactive iodine, for example, ends up in the thyroid. Tracer substances are used in a variety of scientific studies, including agriculture and industry, as well as medicine.

GRIPPE OR FLU

K. V. writes: Is intestinal grippe the same as intestinal flu?

REPLY

Yes. The physician finds the diagnosis convenient as an explanation for the nausea, vomiting, or diarrhea that occurs in conjunction with a respiratory infection.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

A famous movie queen agreed to lead the Thanksgiving Day parade in a Southern city, but cancelled by telegram at the last minute. This is how the local gazette handled the story day by day:

First day: Miss Fifi Whosis, reigning beauty of the screen, will be our guest this year.

Second day: The ravishing Fifi Whosis, irresistible siren of Hollywood, tells the secrets of her beauty.

Third day: Fifi Whosis, who will lead the parade day after tomorrow, will live up to her reputation for charm and affability and sign all autographs.

Fourth day: Fifi Whosis, 53-year-old former motion picture actress, has cancelled her appearance in our fair city.

Thanksgiving — From Age-Old Roots

Thanksgiving Day is the American variant—it would be incorrect to say equivalent—of the harvest festivals of Europe. And this holiday which Americans know as a family feast with a strong element of worship in it may seem widely separated from the folk celebrations that, in older lands, hark back to pagan lands and pagan ways.

But there is no question that the roots of Thanksgiving Day are to be found in such festivities. Even the austere Pilgrim Fathers, giving thanks that autumn day in 1621, were gay because the harvest had been good.

"Our corne did prouve well, & God be praysed we had a good increase of Indian corne," wrote Edward Winslow. Governor Bradford sent "foure men on fowling, so we might after a more special manner rejoice together, after we had gathered the fruit of our labors."

More than 80 Indians, bringing venison and wild turkeys, joined with the colonists in the general feasting.

That first American Thanksgiving Day came after a good summer had followed a bitter winter that killed nearly half of the little company of settlers. There was a poor harvest the next year, and so there was no celebration, but there was one in 1623 and others followed.

The custom of giving thanks to God for blessings received became a part of the New England background and in time a part of the American cosmos.

The fruits of the earth are life itself, as our pagan forefathers knew and as we still know in these times when few of us know what it is to till the soil. They are part of the cycle of the seasons, the cycle of human existence, to be accepted as God-given.

It is good to pause on Thanksgiving Day and return our gratitude to the Creator.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Our Unfortunates

There are no titles of birth or aristocracy or nobility in the United States perhaps only because they are forbidden by the Constitution. This appears in Article I, Section 9 and reads:

"No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States: and no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any king, prince, or foreign state."

Of course, plenty of American women have gone abroad and had themselves married to various titled persons in foreign lands. While they are in this country, they may be addressed by their foreign status, but the title has no particular meaning in this country except as a courtesy.

Titles are on the wane, anyhow. Russia, Germany, Italy, the Austro-Hungarian Empire and other places where once monarchs ruled in medieval splendor are now republics and ancient titles are no longer of any legitimacy in those countries. The British titles are, of course, legitimate and important. The British government awards titles for major achievements in every line of human endeavor. It is therefore not unusual in that country to find a member of the House of Lords wishing that he were a commoner with a good salary to boot.

Distinction by marriage is normal in the human race, most wives basking in their husbands' success. However, a European title often does not indicate particular success, but rather descent from a very remote ancestor who did well for himself in the numerous enterprises available during feudalism, some of which are nowadays regarded as not permissible such as chopping off a head or putting poison in the soup for profit. If all of us got to looking into our ancestries, we might be not a little embarrassed. Certainly those who criticize Frank Costello or the gentlemen of the Apalachin Mafia must not ever have a look at the founder of the house which gives them a grandiloquent name.

New York and Washington, each winter, fill with titled folks, most of whom are delightful people. They form a pleasant society of luncheons, dinners, flirtations and polite conversations. A few are very hard working diplomats. Some are married to American wives and not a few have difficulties arising therefrom.

In the current world, distinction seems to go only to the distinguished, particularly in the sciences and the arts and nobody worries much where anybody was born or from whom. Most of the rulers of the great and powerful nations in the year 1958 have no especially notable ancestors and their wives do not know how to curtsy or to be curtsied to. That makes it all very difficult.

The Russian nobility used to be very noble indeed. And generally, they were rich. They not only owned land but they owned "souls," as they called them, and when they came to Berlin or Paris or London, they had lots of money to spend and they spent it freely. Now, those who still try to maintain something of the old times are a dwindling society that is being merged in the proletariat, except a few who adjusted early and managed to use their intellects to earn a living. The Austrians have gone through the same fate and it is not difficult to meet a scion of 1,000 years of ancestors who is earning an honest living selling this or that.

The phonies are mostly Americans, that is, American women who got some kind of a title by marriage and cling to it grimly. The most favored title in this country is Missus, generally spelled Mrs., and remaining so unchanged until death do us part. It may be a very narrow-minded, provincial, even parochial attitude but it is as American as baked beans on Saturday night in New England.

I should imagine that Mrs. Emily Post who knows about such things has somewhere written a decision as to whether American women, in their own country, are called upon to curtsy to ladies bearing foreign titles and under what circumstances. Curtsying has become quite a business in New York and generally looks silly because to do it beautifully, one needs to be trained in childhood. The normal salutation hereabouts is a handshake which is tough on a lady if the man is indelicate.

Our Thanksgiving Dinner

Mr. Nasser And The Small, Obstinate Voices

By Joseph Alsop

BEIRUT, Lebanon

Gamal Abdel Nasser has not had a particularly merry fortnight. The disastrous failure of the attempt to kidnap King Hussein of Jordan was bad enough. The Khartoum coup d'etat was worse, since it is known to have not only forestalled a virtual Egyptian political take-over in the Sudan, but installed a government committed to keeping the Sudan independent.

All the same, the Egyptian dictator is probably just as much disturbed by another, much less noted current development. For, even within the ranks of the most convinced Nasser-style Arab nationalists, a certain resistance is clearly developing to Nasser's claims to be the unique, all-powerful leader of all the Arab lands.

The core of this resistance is the difficulty Nasser has encountered in Syria, where the cheers for Arab union have died down into a low, ominous grumble about Egyptian rule. But Syria is not the only place where Arab nationalists have been challenging Nasser's unique authority.

For example, Kamal Chaderchi is the Arab nationalist leader with the greatest personal following in Iraq. He was not included in the new Iraqi government of Brig. Gen. Karim Kassem, perhaps because his moderate views on all subjects except Arab union made Chaderchi repugnant to the Iraqi Communists. Yet Chaderchi retains great influence. Hnce he had much to offer Nasser when he went to Cairo after the coup d'etat in Baghdad, to talk about the terms of Iraq's association with the United Arab Republic.

According to highly authoritative reports, however, the Nasser-Chaderchi talks ended in a blazing disagreement. Chaderchi was passionately anxious to help in realizing his long-cherished dream of Arab union under Nasser. But he also dared to insist that Iraq ought to be allowed a certain local autonomy within the union, that political parties ought to continue to exist in Iraq, that a measure of free discussion should be permitted within the press, and so on. Nasser apparently rejected all these claims, insisting his own way was best.

Both Chaderchi's bargaining and Nasser's violence were no doubt motivated by the already-mentioned experience in Syria. Here the development has apparently reached an acute stage, judging by the Cairo radio's recent demure announcement that the Syrian Vice President of the United Arab Republic, Akram Hourani, has been deprived of all his executive powers. "Today is Veterans Day and I thought of wars. I have a good reason to think of it. Hitler's gangs killed every one of my family in Poland. My son, a young and brilliant student, closed his books in Temple University never to open them again, but to linger in a living death in a veterans hospital, and his father dying of sorrow. Thinking of all this, your school came to my mind and I know how you and all the citizens of your city feel—so I send you as much as I can; that it is very little, but will put a couple bricks in a new and I hope the most beautiful school in all the land, for your children of all groups and colors, and these wonderful children will become the citizens and teachers of a peaceful world. Amen."

Clinton's Early Principal

Here's another letter from Mary Roberts Scott, 85 years old, of 330 Winding Way, San Francisco, Calif., whose father was one of the early teachers in Clinton, Tenn. She writes:

"I want to send $10 to Clinton, Tennessee, and with it send a story that happened about 1865 or 1866.

"My father, Thomas Roberts, was a minister and scholar—'egghead' he would be called now. He was chaplain of the 12th Ohio Cavalry and was mustered out in east Tennessee. He was principal of the school in Clinton and my mother taught with him.

"Many adult men attended who wanted to learn 'figgering.' This meant higher arithmetic. (My father introduced elementary algebra which was not well known at that time.)

"One day a man—I think his name was D'Armond—one of the leading families, persisted in disturbing the class. Father asked him to come out in the hall. D'Armond called him an insulting name and accused him of favoring Negroes over whites. Father said he was afraid that was not true, but that he had more respect for a Negro than for a white man that misbehaved. D'Armond knocked him down and mother shoved D'Armond down the stairs and hurt him.

"My parents lost the job. They went to Knoxville and often had hard times all through the Reconstruction period."

Osage, W.Va., Insurance

Some of the best Thanksgiving news came from Bill Hart, editor of the Morgantown Dominion-News, that the school at Osage, W. Va., is almost certain to be completely covered by insurance. At first it was estimated that the school had $91,000 of insurance with damages of $200,000.

However, editor Hart, who is one of the most dynamic figures in the Morgantown-Osage area, claims that the insurance companies, under the county's insurance policy, are liable for the entire damage. Knowing Hart, I predict he and the school board will collect.

With a wonderful response coming in from the building trades unions, the building industry suppliers, and a lot of other people, we should soon be within gunshot of the necessary funds for the Clinton school.

Princeton Professor's Token

Another letter, from a Princeton professor, Melvin Tumin, expresses his sympathy for what many northerners don't realize—the point of view of the south.

"Here in the north it is easy for us to stand off from the day to day troubles involved in desegregating the schools and to berate the south for their slow pace. Perhaps I shall by this letter be able to convey to you the sense that many of us share that your actions and courage are worthy of the most profound admiration."

Warren In 1960?

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Lots of things can happen in two years—and one may be that Vice President Nixon and Nelson Rockefeller will not remain the only personalities prominent in the discussion of prospective Republican nominees for the Presidency. For there is always the possibility that the name of Chief Justice Warren will also be tossed into the ring.

Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers Union, told a television audience the other day that, among others, Chief Justice Warren would make a good Presidential nominee in 1960. This is a significant endorsement from the man who is being hailed as having a powerful voice in the American electorate. In view of the signal success of the labor unions recently in electing to Congress a majority of Democrats, the importance of such a tribute cannot be minimized.

Mr. Warren has himself denied any Presidential ambitions and has made his disclaimer about as positive as anyone can. But it will be recalled that Associate Justice Charles Evans Hughes said virtually the same thing several times before he was nominated by the Republican party in 1916. Mr. Hughes told this correspondent in no uncertain terms just a few days before the Republican National Convention that he couldn't conceive of his being nominated. He pointed out that he had not encouraged anyone to get delegates for him—indeed, had disavowed them—and had publicly refused to allow his name to go on the ballot in any primary elections. But he was drafted just the same.

Chief Justice Warren won the governorship in California in 1946 as the nominee of both parties. He is known as an outstanding vote-getter. Noting that Messrs. Knowland and Nixon were unsuccessful in their efforts in the last California campaign, many Californians say Mr. Warren could have won if he had been a candidate this time. He made a speech in San Francisco last month on federal-state relationships which was considered by some observers as having political overtones, since it was delivered during the campaign.

It is true that Mr. Warren would not attract any southern states because of the views he expressed in the desegregation case in 1954, but the Republican Party can write off the possibility of winning any electoral votes in the South no matter who the Republican nominee may be. The sending of federal troops to Little Rock ended for years to come any chance for the Republican Party in the South.

But Chief Justice Warren is the type of political personality who, it would be urged, could get the so-called "liberal" vote and the labor vote and, of course, the Negro vote overwhelmingly in the North. If the criterion is what kind of showing a nominee could make among minority groups generally, then, politically speaking, there are potent reasons for considering Earl Warren.

It is even possible for Mr. Warren to become the Democratic Party nominee—if his record on so-called "liberal" issues is matched against that of any other governor or former governor whose name has been offered thus far on the Democratic side. There was a time not so long ago—1948 and 1951—when in the preconvention talk Dwight Eisenhower was often mentioned for both tickets, and indeed he was endorsed for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1948 by prominent Democratic leaders, including some from the ranks of labor. Since Mr. Warren has been so popular in the Democratic Party in California, his name is one the Democrats might toss about, just as they did that of General Eisenhower only a few years ago.

The one drawback for the Democrats in considering any Warren-For-President movement is that the "Solid South" would truly rebel at the polls if he were named. But judging by the strategy of some of the Northern leaders in Congress who are pressing for "cloture" and drastic legislation on "civil rights," those same leaders must feel that the electoral votes of the South are not at all necessary and that the victory in 1960 will be a landslide for the Democratic Presidential nominee without the South's votes.

Earl Warren is a man for whose rise the Republican Party is largely responsible. For he owes his appointment on the high court to the recommendations received by President Eisenhower from influential members of the Republican Party. Also, the desegregation decision of 1954 is in conformity with the Republican Party's protestations on "civil rights" over a long period. Certainly Mr. Nixon's reference in a public speech to "a great Republican Chief Justice Earl Warren" now will be recalled, even if, as the Vice President spoke, there was some doubt whether he intended to put a vocal comma after the word "Republican."

If the Republicans really feel they must go "modern" to win next time, they have in Mr. Warren, as a Presidential nominee, the incarnation of "modernism" in American politics.

Things For Senior Citizens To Be Thankful For

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Thanksgiving should be of particular importance to our senior citizens who have passed their 65th birthday. They should be thankful to be alive—doubly so if in excellent health.

Older individuals need not consider themselves through unless they spend their days aimlessly and have allowed their bodies and minds to deteriorate. A longer life expectancy is encouraged by acquiring objectives and goals that lead to community usefulness.

According to Dr. Edward L. Bortz of Philadelphia, a past president of the American Medical association, training and exercise will increase the industry and vitality of older men and women, as well as their zest for living. But to do the job right, proper motivation is needed.

The activities of the elderly depend upon their personal interests, emotional drives, and sense of values. It is high time for the 15 million men and women over 65 to take a more active role in shaping our destiny. This reservoir of knowledge, experience, and wisdom should not be wasted through retirement and isolation. A few oldsters with a broader and clearer appreciation of human needs could help make the world healthier and happier.

The majority of our oldsters lack the motivation because in America the accent is on youth. Moon rockets, sputniks, and atomic submarines are stealing the show. Still, many are beginning to wonder when our best brains will come up with something to satisfy the inner man.

We need to look into our values, to set up more lofty goals, to live peaceably with our neighbors, and to learn the true meaning of love. Our younger and more brilliant scientists may get us to the moon but it will take the old guard to get us back—into a more balanced life of happiness and contentment.

NO RETURN

L. P. writes: If a cataract has been removed, is there any danger it will return?

REPLY

No, because the cloudy and opaque lens cannot regrow.

REVACCINATION

D. R. writes: I was vaccinated against smallpox as a child and have a big scar on my arm to prove it. Do I need to have this done again, even if I do not plan to visit a foreign country?

REPLY

No law will force you to. But revaccination is advisable every five to seven years, because immunity wanes. It is possible that you have lost all your protection against this disease.

TRACING RADIOACTIVITY

R. J. writes: What is meant by a tracer study?

REPLY

Radioactive chemicals are administered and their course through the body is traced with a geiger counter. Radioactive iodine, for example, ends up in the thyroid. Tracer substances are used in a variety of scientific studies, including agriculture and industry, as well as medicine.

GRIPPE OR FLU

K. V. writes: Is intestinal grippe the same as intestinal flu?

REPLY

Yes. The physician finds the diagnosis convenient as an explanation for the nausea, vomiting, or diarrhea that occurs in conjunction with a respiratory infection.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

A famous movie queen agreed to lead the Thanksgiving Day parade in a Southern city, but cancelled by telegram at the last minute. This is how the local gazette handled the story day by day:

First day: Miss Fifi Whosis, reigning beauty of the screen, will be our guest this year.

Second day: The ravishing Fifi Whosis, irresistible siren of Hollywood, tells the secrets of her beauty.

Third day: Fifi Whosis, who will lead the parade day after tomorrow, will live up to her reputation for charm and affability and sign all autographs.

Cold-Shouldered 'Project Plowshare' May Yet Introduce Atom's Biggest Boon To Mankind

By DARRELL GARWOOD
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's "Project Plowshare," cold-shouldered by the allies and bitterly attacked by the Russians, may yet introduce the atom's greatest civilian boon so far.

The promising prospect is that underground H-blasts can release almost unlimited quantities of petroleum from tar sands and oil shales that underlie the surface rock of almost every country.

According to Gerald W. Johson of the University of California radiation laboratory, there are about 500 billion 42-gallon barrels of oil locked in the tar sands of the Athabaska region of Canada.

That alone would be enough to furnish every motor vehicle in the United States with about 7,500 gallons of gasoline. And Athabaska is only a small starter on the vast reserves of petroleum the Project Plowshare scientists think they might provide at costs ranging from a fraction of a cent to two or three cents a gallon.

The project's proposal for making civilian use of peacetime nuclear explosions got icy stares and a few amused smiles at the Geneva atoms-for - peace conference in September. The Russians attacked the idea as a U. S. scheme to evade a ban on nuclear weapons tests.

Not a single country except the United States admitted to seeing any merit in the Plowshare program. Unfortunately, use of the blasts was then tied to the idea of creating a harbor in Alaska.

Atomic Energy Commissioner Willard F. Libby was obliged to concede that no one wanted the Alaska berthing, and that the explosion method might be a little too dangerous for excavation use in the kind of populated area that could use a harbor.

However, there is no question but that nuclear explosions of the largest size can be set off with perfect safety underground.

Johnson, one of the scientists assigned to the project, said in an interview that the world's deepest mining shafts, which go down about 10,000 feet, would completely contain an explosion equal to 30 million tons of TNT.

That would be approximately twice the power of the largest H-bomb ever set off. A bomb equal to a million tons of TNT could be contained at 3,000 feet, while a 10-million-ton blast would be placed at about 6,000 feet. All of this is fairly shallow for oil drilling.

Moreover, the radiation involved can be confined to a small percentage of the affected area, immediately surrounding the bomb. Johnson believes that the petroleum drawn off would be entirely free from radioactivity.

A million-ton bomb costs about one million dollars, which in terms of power is $1 a ton of TNT. If Johnson's calculation is correct, the cost of the explosive for releasing oil at Athabaska would be 10 cents a barrel, or about a fourth of a cent a gallon.

WVU To Ask For $8,165,000 Budget

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—A total budget of $8,165,000, including a 15 per cent salary increase for faculty members, will be sought by West Virginia University for the 1959-60 fiscal year.

Acting president Clyde L. Colson made public the proposed budget, nearly $1,500,000 above the operating budget for the current fiscal year. He also said the university would ask that $1,400,000 be appropriated to complete the teaching hospital at the University Medical Center.

The State Board of Public Works opens hearings on budget requests Dec. 8 in Charleston, and Colson, president-elect Elvis J. Stahr and members of the University Board of Governors will deliver an oral presentation of their proposed budget that day.

Stahr, who will take over as president Feb. 1, recently said Irvin Stewart supervised preparation of the 1959-60 budget proposal before he resigned as president of WVU.

The budget again includes a request for funds for a new administration building but Colson said the university was not very optimistic about chances of board approval of this item.

Special Thanksgiving Prayers By Leaders Of Three Faiths

Protestant

By the Right Rev. James A. Pike
Episcopal Bishop of California
(Written Expressly for UPI)

Almighty God, source of all good things and author of liberty, who hast given us this good land for our heritage, who hast provided us with our very being, our talents, our opportunities and all our material resources:

We yield Thee high praise and hearty thanks for Thine inestimable benefits, and we beseech Thee that we may always prove ourselves a people mindful of Thy favor and glad to do Thy will.

Inspire through Thy Holy Spirit each and every one of us to fulfill his vocation and ministry, and seek to extend increasingly the joy and fruitfulness of Thy benefits to men everywhere.

And, remembering that it is through Thy mighty power that our fathers of old won their liberties, grant that we may, through Thy grace, ever maintain these liberties in righteousness and peace. All of which, we ask through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen.

Catholic

By the Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen
National Director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith
(Written Expressly for UPI)

The tragedy of atheism is there is no one to thank. But the glory of Thanksgiving Day is that living in a country which has a Declaration of Independence, we can make a declaration of dependence on God from whom descend all blessings and favors.

"What powers hast thou that did not come to thee by gift? And if they came to thee by gift, why dost thou boast of them as if there were no gift in question?"

Does a beautiful woman or a gifted singer or a skilled scientist ever thank God for such mercies? Do sinners thank God for time to do penance? Do those who have crosses ever thank God for a more intense oneness with Christ who loved us unto giving his life for our redemption? Music is sweetest when heard over waters and thanks amidst tears makes sweet music to the ears of heaven.

What sweet changes of spirit of thanksgiving produces in our soul: It makes us less hard hearted, for if we have freely received then we must freely give; it deflates our egotism and pride by making us see that our worth depends not on what we have, but on what we are; it produces an ineffable inner joy for Thanksgiving is the beautiful balance between a deep sense of obligation and the glorious happiness of perfect freedom.

A child wishing to thank her mother for favors and prove her love, gathers for her a bouquet of dandelions. The mother does not need the dandelions, but she takes them not because of her insufficiency, but to develop her daughter in gratitude, affection and loving dependence.

God does not need our thanks any more than the mother needs dandelions; He accepts them not for His sake but for ours. Otherwise we would grow up into selfishness, and inconsiderateness which harden into mental unbalance. Therefore,

"Give thanks continually to God, who is our Father.

In the name of Our Lord, Jesus Christ."

Jewish

By Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver
The Temple, Cleveland, Ohio
(Written Expressly for UPI)

Our heavenly Father:

Our hearts turn to Thee in humble gratitude for Thy manifold favors unto us during the past year.

Thou hast prospered the work of our hands on field and farm, in mill and mine, and in all the useful undertakings of the heart and mind. Our harvest has been abundant. We have eaten our bread without scarceness and we have been able to share Thy gifts with the hungry of other lands.

Not unto us, O Lord, but unto Thee, must all glory be given!

How shall we repay Thee for Thy boundless goodness unto us? Thou who renewest the face of the earth, help us to make secure our heritage of freedom for ourselves and for all Thy children and to establish peace in all our habitations. Help us to banish from our midst all wrong and injustice, and all hate and unbrotherliness from our hearts. Our world abounds, O Lord, in tragic chasms which separate men, in deep rivers and their swift, dark currents. Help us to build bridges of justice and compassion across them.

Father of nations! In our blindness we are often moved to put our sole trust and security in strong walls, in formidable armament, and in military alliances. But the very military strength of a nation often brings about its downfall, and its confidence destroys it.

We have been admonished by Thy seers to put our trust in the strength of our moral and intellectual life, the justice and fairness of our laws and institutions, the well-being and contentment of our citizens, the moral training of our youth and the stability of our homes.

Give us the vision and courage to build thy kingdom on earth in friendship, forbearance and trust and so evidence our gratitude to Thee for Thy boundless mercies unto us.

Young 'Pilgrims' Take Mayflower Trip

By WILLIAM R. TEAGUE
United Press International

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Christmas shopping has caused many of us to forget Thanksgiving but one - fourth grade class in Columbus has pushed aside thoughts of Christmas toys in order to relive the first Thanksgiving of the Pilgrims.

Since early October, the class has been hearing of the Pilgrims' Voyage, the Thanksgiving celebration when the Indians popped corn on hot stones and the Pilgrims found cranberries growing wild.

Joan Barrat, a student teacher from Ohio State University who dreamed up the Pilgrim project, climaxed the unit by putting the kids through a simulated voyage to Plymouth Rock.

Here are some of the reactions:

Pretty little Janet Kusky said the crossing was "not much fun because of the mean old storms and I don't like to go through storms on our way home from school."

Wide - eyed Dennis Hogg declared, "The waves were rough. And the water soaked your clothes and food. And there was nothing to eat except just hard bread and old beer."

Quiet, studious Mike Traugh also complained of the "hard bread soaked in beer," while Deena Maxwell summed up the crossing by sighing, "It really was a hard voyage."

Landed at Plymouth, the pseudo - Pilgrims continued to complain.

"There is no good food, no nice toys, no good houses to live in and no cars to drive and no garages to park your car in," said Larry Hayes.

Tiny, 10 - year - old Patricia Welch said, "I want to meet Captain Miles Standish."

Blue-eyed Carol Wheeler found Massachusetts delightful "because the Indians live close and I just love to play Indians."

Margie Holloway called the whole thing "a good advenchur," and a young tough who called himself "Zorro" said he thought Squanto the Indian was a good Joe.

Commercial helicopter operations in the U. S. will total about 326,000 flight hours in 1958, compared with 146,500 in 1956, a 122 per cent increase.

Ship-In-A-Bottle Routine Reversed By Turkey Boner

WESTERLY, R.I. (AP)—Peter Sieczkiewicz has reversed the ship-in-a-bottle routine and takes the bones out of turkeys without marring the exterior of the bird.

Sieczkiewicz then uses his taxidermist's skill to stuff the flabby bird, preferably with an oyster and chestnut mix, so that it resumes its firm shape. And when father goes to cut it on Thanksgiving Day, he won't encounter any resistance.

Under the former Marine's knife-and-finger system everything comes out—wing bone, shoulder bone, breast and rib bones, thigh, back and leg bones; even the wish bone.

The carcass is inside out when he's through and has to be reversed before stuffing.

How does he do it?

Sieczkiewicz, a butcher, isn't saying. He has patented the idea and hopes to make money on it.

Kim and his delegation of political and military leaders flew to Wuhan on the Yangtse River from Peiping. The North Koreans are on a state visit.

WVU To Ask For $8,165,000 Budget

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—A total budget of $8,165,000, including a 15 per cent salary increase for faculty members; will be sought by West Virginia University for the 1959-60 fiscal year.

Acting president Clyde L. Colson made public the proposed budget, nearly $1,500,000 above the operating budget for the current fiscal year. He also said the university would ask that $1,400,000 be appropriated to complete the teaching hospital at the University Medical Center.

The State Board of Public Works opens hearings on budget requests Dec. 8 in Charleston, and Colson, president-elect Elvis J. Stahr and members of the University Board of Governors will deliver an oral presentation of their proposed budget that day.

Stahr, who will take over as president Feb. 1, recently said Irvin Stewart supervised preparation of the 1959-60 budget proposal before he resigned as president of WVU.

The budget again includes a request for funds for a new administration building but Colson said the university was not very optimistic about chances of board approval of this item.

Special Thanksgiving Prayers By Leaders Of Three Faiths

Protestant

By the Right Rev. James A. Pike Episcopal Bishop of California (Written Expressly for UPI)

Almighty God, source of all good things and author of liberty, who hast given us this good land for our heritage, who hast provided us with our very being, our talents, our opportunities and all our material resources:

We yield Thee high praise and hearty thanks for Thine inestimable benefits, and we beseech Thee that we may always prove ourselves a people mindful of Thy favor and glad to do Thy will.

Inspire through Thy Holy Spirit each and every one of us to fulfill his vocation and ministry, and seek to extend increasingly the joy and fruitfulness of Thy benefits to men everywhere.

And, remembering that it is through Thy mighty power that our fathers of old won their liberties, grant that we may, through Thy grace, ever maintain these liberties in righteousness and peace. All of which, we ask through Jesus Christ our Lord, Amen.

Catholic

By the Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen National Director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith (Written Expressly for UPI)

The tragedy of atheism is there is no one to thank. But the glory of Thanksgiving Day is that living in a country which has a Declaration of Independence, we can make a declaration of dependence on God from whom descend all blessings and favors.

"What powers hast thou that did not come to thee by gift? And if they came to thee by gift, why dost thou boast of them as if there were no gift in question?"

Does a beautiful woman or a gifted singer or a skilled scientist ever thank God for such mercies? Do sinners thank God for time to do penance? Do those who have crosses ever thank God for a more intense oneness with Christ who loved us unto giving his life for our redemption? Music is sweetest when heard over waters and thanks amidst tears makes sweet music to the ears of heaven.

What sweet changes of spirit of thanksgiving produces in our soul: It makes us less hard hearted, for if we have freely received then we must freely give; it deflates our egotism and pride by making us see that our worth depends not on what we have, but on what we are; it produces an ineffable inner joy for Thanksgiving is the beautiful balance between a deep sense of obligation and the glorious happiness of perfect freedom.

A child wishing to thank her mother for favors and prove her love, gathers for her a bouquet of dandelions. The mother does not need the dandelions, but she takes them not because of her insufficiency, but to develop her daughter in gratitude, affection and loving dependence.

God does not need our thanks any more than the mother needs dandelions; He accepts them not for His sake but for ours. Otherwise we would grow up into selfishness, and inconsiderateness which harden into mental unbalance. Therefore,

"Give thanks continually to God, who is our Father.

In the name of Our Lord, Jesus Christ."

Jewish

By Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver The Temple, Cleveland, Ohio (Written Expressly for UPI)

Our heavenly Father:

Our hearts turn to Thee in humble gratitude for Thy manifold favors unto us during the past year.

Thou hast prospered the work of our hands on field and farm, in mill and mine, and in all the useful undertakings of the heart and mind. Our harvest has been abundant. We have eaten our bread without scarceness and we have been able to share Thy gifts with the hungry of other lands.

Not unto us, O Lord, but unto Thee, must all glory be given!

How shall we repay Thee for Thy boundless goodness unto us? Thou who renewest the face of the earth, help us to make secure our heritage of freedom for ourselves and for all Thy children and to establish peace in all our habitations. Help us to banish from our midst all wrong and injustice, and all hate and unbrotherliness from our hearts. Our world abounds, O Lord, in tragic chasms which separate men, in deep rivers and their swift, dark currents. Help us to build bridges of justice and compassion across them.

Father of nations! In our blindness we are often moved to put our sole trust and security in strong walls, in formidable armament, and in military alliances. But the very military strength of a nation often brings about its downfall, and its confidence destroys it.

We have been admonished by Thy seers to put our trust in the strength of our moral and intellectual life, the justice and fairness of our laws and institutions, the well-being and contentment of our citizens, the moral training of our youth and the stability of our homes.

Give us the vision and courage to build thy kingdom on earth in friendship, forbearance and trust and so evidence our gratitude to Thee for Thy boundless mercies unto us.

Sentencing Withheld In Mugging Case

Two young men who figured in three "muggings" on November 6 entered pleas of guilty to assault and robbery when they were tried yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The accused men were George Robert Keller, 23, of 239 Henderson Avenue, and Robert E. Flynn, Jr., 22, of Washington, formerly of this city.

They were tried before Judge Morgan C. Harris who withheld sentencing until reports are made on investigation of the two men's background.

The two men had waived their rights to indictment by a grand jury and agreed to be tried on the basis of criminal information furnished by State's Attorney James S. Getty.

County Investigator, Edwin R. Lilya, read statements obtained from the two men—one by Keller on November 7, and the other by Flynn on November 12.

The only descrepancy in the two statements was that each man said the other did the actual beating in the muggings.

The three victims testified of the sudden approach from the rear, being held by one, and having their wallets lifted.

Two of the three, Joseph A. McKenzie, 74, of 208 Columbia Street, and James G. Zink, 47, of 619 North Mechanic Street, said they were beaten, but neither could identify the one who actually hit them in the face.

A third, Herman Dicken, 59, of 219 Bedford Street, was held but was not struck.

Keller and Flynn pleaded guilty to robbing McKenzie and Dicken, and to assault with intent to rob Zink.

McKenzie had $12 stolen from him, and Dicken had the same amount. Zink said he had money in his pocket, but it was not taken. His wallet was taken, however.

McKenzie, the most seriously injured, was hospitalized for two weeks and suffered fractures of the facial bones and nose, and the sight of his left eye has been impaired, according to Dr. Thomas F. Lewis who testified for his patient.

Getty, in summing up the case, had high praise for Chief of Police R. E. Flynn saying that in this case he "put the duties of his office over his natural love and affection for his own son."

Chief Flynn cooperated fully with the state's attorney in apprehending his own son, giving him information the following morning, and reported on his haunts in Washington. He also went to Washington, turned his son over to county authorities, without obtaining counsel for him.

Judge Harris noted that this type of crime, "mugging," has been known only to citizens here by reading of these acts of violence in metropolitan areas.

The people of Cumberland are entitled to walk the streets without fear in their hearts and the only one way to assure them safety is by punishment, he added.

Thomas B. Finan, counsel for Flynn, urged psychiatric treatment for the defendant.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for Keller, pointed out his client and family has suffered as a result, and urged the court's leniency.

First Baptist To Hold Services This Morning

First Baptist Church, 212 Bedford Street, will conduct a Thanksgiving service today at 10 a.m., according to Rev. Archie C. Prevatte, pastor.

Robert Moreland will deliver the Thanksgiving message and music will be provided by Emory Wallis and Miss Elizabeth Weese.

Accidental Shooting

NAHA, Okinawa (UPI)—A U.S. Marine spokesman said Wednesday the fatal shooting of PFC. Earl Stanley Smith, of Madison, Ohio, was accidental. The shooting occurred when Smith and another Marine were on guard duty over military equipment Sunday night. The other Marine, not identified, accidentally discharged his pistol as he was about to telephone the sergeant of the guards. The bullet struck Smith in the chest and he died a short time later, the spokesman said.

The shooting occurred when Smith and another Marine were on guard duty over military equipment Sunday night. The other Marine, not identified, accidentally discharged his pistol as he was about to telephone the sergeant of the guards. The bullet struck Smith in the chest and he died a short time later, the spokesman said.

Schools Prepare For Football Games This Afternoon

Barring the possibilities of ties, there will be only two groups of happy, celebrating football fans today after the pair of traditional Thanksgiving Day games at the stadium and in Frostburg.

However, at the schools involved, a victory-like atmosphere prevailed in all the special pep rally assemblies conducted yesterday. It was capped by the huge bonfires lighted last night by all four of the teams and their rooters.

Allegany had its pep rally in the school gym at noon with Margie Swauger, Camper football queen, being crowned by coach Ed Schwarz. Attendants for the queen, who was chosen by members of the football team, are Vickie Eackler, ninth grade; Frances Shober, tenth grade; Susie Gephart, 11th grade, and Rebecca Haines, 12th grade. The attendants were selected by members of their classes.

Speaking at the rally were Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal; co-captains of the football team, quarterback Gary Shook and fullback Jerry Horton; S. Lua Syckes, bandmaster, and coaches Paul Cuba and Schwarz.

Susie Bell, head cheerleader, led the students in cheers. A large dummy of a football player dressed in Fort Hill's colors was hanged from the ceiling with the gym being decorated in the blue and white school colors of Allegany.

The Camper Club and Senior Class sponsored the bonfire and rally at the school football practice field last night. The effigy of the Fort Hill football player was burned. Dr. Haines, Coaches Schwarz and Cuba and officers of the Camper club gave short pep talks.

At Fort Hill the pep rally was also conducted in the gymnasium with Coach Bill Hahn and assistants Wayne Boor and John Frank delivering short talks. A preview of today's game was given by Beverly Murray and Sharon Feltz in which the Sentinels convincingly whipped Allegany.

A mock crowning of the Football Queen was demonstrated by Gilbert Brisson and Karl Taschenberger, as attendants, and Johnny Johnson who portrayed Queen Joyce Holshey X, this year's queen.

Co-captains Tom Davis, fullback, and Bob Rowley, tackle, accepted a gift on behalf of the football team. Patricia Miller, captain of the cheerleaders, made the presentation. Music was furnished by the school band and cheers were led by the school cheerleaders.

Last night, the annual bonfire sponsored by the Penn-Avenue Fort Hill Alumni Association was held at Constitution Park for the students, coaches, rooters, team, band and cheerleaders.

Raymond Hahne, class of Penn Avenue 1934, was master of ceremonies. Talks were delivered by Victor D. Heisey, school principal; George Holler, president of South Cumberland Businessmen's Association; Clifford Spiker, president of the Fort Hill Booster Club, and the coaching staff.

Queen Joyce Holshey X and her two senior attendants, Barbara Cross and Ronne Grim, addressed the group. The bonfire was lighted by the cheerleaders. A "little" Fort Hill band played several selections under the direction of Robert O. Nutter, band director.

Delbert Proudfoot, Lester Hudson and Howard Brode, officers of the Association, were in charge of the program.

LaSalle's followers met last night at the team practice field on Furnace Street.

Coaches, players and Brother Thomas, director of athletics, gave short talks. As with the other schools, a flaming bonfire was the highlight of the festivities. Following the rally a dance was held at the school auditorium, for students and LaSalle followers.

Today Celeste Madden, Queen Football II, will participate in the pre-game and halftime ceremonies at Frostburg. Attendents are Cindy Parsons and Fay Moore, all seniors at Ursuline Academy and chosen by the members of the LaSalle football squad.

In Frostburg the Beall High students also had a victory-assembly program for the entire student body. The rally was arranged by the cheerleaders, Carolyn Cook and Shirley Conrad, co-captains; Sandy Klosterman, Alice Drew and Bonnie Marshall.

The senior band played to open the rally with a baton twirling exhibition following by the majorettes in full costume. After a period of cheers, Dr. Wayne Hill, school principal, adressed the students.

Coach Jerry Calhoun, assistant coach Frank Munson and the Beall co-captains Bruce Smith, end, and Dick Plummer, halfback, gave short talks. The singing of the Beall High cheering song concluded the program.

Highlight of the ceremonies was the unveiling of the "Explornik" which was burned at the bonfire last night.

The coaches and members of the football team were introduced at the rally with the "Explornik," a dummy representing the LaSalle team, being ignited to wind up the activities.

Tickets for both games are still available with both general admission and reserved seats for the Allegany-Fort Hill contest to go on sale today at 10 a. m. at the main entrance of the stadium.

GOC Organization To End In January

"Because we have a better burglar alarm does not mean the end of burglars," Civil Defense officials said here yesterday in urging more volunteers for the Allegany County Civil Defense organization.

The plea is aimed at the public in general and the 1,200 volunteers who received training as Ground Observer Corps members since 1950 in particular. The GOC will go out of existence January 31 as a result of an announcement by the Air Defense Command that its electronic warning network "Snare," which will intercept enemy aircraft before they could reach North American shores, has been completed.

GOC members were urged by William G. Barger, county CD Director, and Charles G. Smith, assistant director and first GOC coordinator, to turn their efforts to other phases of Civil Defense work. Development of new weapons makes the need for Civil Defense programs and volunteers even more acute today, they said.

The GOC program, which served as the "eyes of the Air Force" in spotting of aircraft, was just one phase of the Civil Defense effort, Barger said, but he quoted Lt. Gen. Atkinson, commander of the Air Defense Command, as saying the observer program was "the greatest peacetime civilian volunteer defense organization in the history of the nation."

Barger and Smith, paying tribute to Allegany County's outstanding GOC organization, said they could never express the full measure of their personal gratitude to the volunteers who "served so many hours sometimes at great, personal sacrifice; and showed their sincerity and interest without opportunity of being thanked or knowing the value of their contribution."

Barger and Smith also paid tribute to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners. The GOC was one phase of the county CD program and the commissioners provided facilities.

Jet Liner Sets Record

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland (UPI)—A Pan American World Airways jet liner flew from New York to Shannon airport Wednesday in a record time of 5 hours 37 minutes, officials of the airline said here. The officials said the Boeing 707 airliner bettered by one half hour the previous record time for the flight of 6 hours 7 minutes set three weeks ago by another Pan American jet. The airliner carried 78 passengers and a 12-member crew.

Sen. Beall To Introduce C&O Canal Bill Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The controversial Chesapeake and Ohio Canal park project will be back before Congress again next year.

Sen. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md) said he will offer another bill to establish the national historical park. He predicted that this time the proposal will win congressional approval.

A bill by Beall cleared the Senate this year but died in the House Interior Committee. The committee held hearings but took no action before Congress adjourned.

"I consider this legislation most desirable," Beall said. "I'm putting this bill at the top of my agenda."

Beall said the bill probably will be identical to the one he offered in 1957. It would authorize the government to purchase about 10,000 acres to add to the 4,760 acres it already owns along the historic canal route.

It would provide also for a parkway along scenic Town Hill from a point on Maryland 51 near Paw Paw, W. Va., to the Long Ridge Road near Woodmont, Md.

Proponents of the project say it would give a poor man's park near big centers of population, would preserve the historic C & O Canal, and would provide a scenic parkway along the Potomac River gorge.

Some opponents have taken the stand that the park project should be delayed at least until a master plan for development of the Potomac is prepared. Concern has been expressed also by some that there would be interference with fishing and hunting in the Potomac River basin.

Beall said the airing of views in the last two years should give momentum to the project this year.

"I'll do all I can to get this project approved, and I believe the Congress will see the wisdom and merits of this proposal," he added.

"This time, I predict the Congress will accept it."

GOC Organization To End In January

"Because we have a better burglar alarm does not mean the end of burglars," Civil Defense officials said here yesterday in urging more volunteers for the Allegany County Civil Defense organization.

The plea is aimed at the public in general and the 1,200 volunteers who received training as Ground Observer Corps members since 1950 in particular. The GOC will go out of existence January 31 as a result of an announcement by the Air Defense Command that its electronic warning network "Snare," which will intercept enemy aircraft before they could reach North American shores, has been completed.

GOC members were urged by William G. Barger, county CD Director, and Charles G. Smith, assistant director and first GOC coordinator, to turn their efforts to other phases of Civil Defense work. Development of new weapons makes the need for Civil Defense programs and volunteers even more acute today, they said.

The GOC program, which served as the "eyes of the Air Force" in spotting of aircraft, was just one phase of the Civil Defense effort, Barger said, but he quoted Lt. Gen. Atkinson, commander of the Air Defense Command, as saying the observer program was "the greatest peacetime civilian volunteer defense organization in the history of the nation."

Barger and Smith, paying tribute to Allegany County's outstanding GOC organization, said they could never express the full measure of their personal gratitude to the volunteers who "served so many hours sometimes at great, personal sacrifice; and showed their sincerity and interest without opportunity of being thanked or knowing the value of their contribution."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Happy Thanksgiving to each and every one of you—and all of us should remember to thank God that we live in free America away from the tyranny of a cruel dictator who doesn't believe in any power greater than his own.

Buddy Adler will give a special Thanksgiving both for his miraculous return to health and the way 20th Century-Fox' motion pictures are lining up. The latest move at this studio is an offer to Bishop Fulton J. Sheen's favorite charity of a goodly sum if the bishop will play himself in "Say One For Me" with Bing Crosby, Debbie Reynolds and Bob Wagner.

Lew Schreiber made a special trip to New York to contact Bishop Sceen, who didn't say no." He did say, "send me the script." So director Frank Tashlin is hoping the answer will be in the affirmative.

John Wayne has changed his mind about starting "The Alamo" as soon as he finished "Horse Soldiers" in Louisiana. He's fallen for a script by Burt Kennedy called "Yellowstone Kelly" and wants to activate it first for his Bajac company.

I have a hunch the real reason for the switch is that "Yellowstone" gives Duke a chance to costar with his popular offspring, Pat Wayne. Story concerns the adventures of a trapper in our fabulous national park back in 1887 soon after Yellowstone opened, who takes a young boy under his wing. You can't be surprised that the director Wayne wants is—John Ford, who else?

The good book says "cast thy bread upon the water etc."—well, that's what happened to Mala Powers. George Cukor told me that she voluntarily offered to make a test with Keith Larson, young MGM actor, for one of the smaller roles in "Heller With a Gun", Sophia Loren's picture.

Mala was so good, George told me, that one of the top agents saw her and promptly wanted to sign her.

I had heard that John Gavin was going to be borrowed from U-I, to play opposite Sophia, but this is not definite. George told me the script was not yet finished. I always enoy talking to George. He's so enthusiastic about his motion pictures, and he won't accept a story he doesn't believe in.

Poor Debbie Power had one more blow in the sudden death of her grandfather in Memphis. Her mother, Mrs. Freddie Hungerford, was staying with Debbie at the Bel Air Hotel when the telephone call came summoning her home.

Debbie and TY's sister, Ann Hardenburg, have moved in with Watson Webb and will stay there temporarily.

Ty's will will be read in a few days and the figure of one million dollars given by Linda Christian is as false as some of the other statements she's made. On one pretext or another last summer she kept the two little girls from seeing their father, and this she should regret to the longest day she lives.

It's powerful friendly, as they say in Westerns, the way Audie Murphy is putting in a pitch for his one-time wife, Wanda Hendrix, to get her career going again. Specifically, Audie has gone to the Mirisch Brothers asking that they give Wanda the lead opposite him in "Cast a Long Shadow."

Wanda is hoping for a full scale acting comeback now that her marriage to Jim Stack is on the rocks. It would't be the first time she'd teamed with Audie on the screen. About 10 years ago they did a Western "Sierra." But even so, I imagine she's surprised at the helping hand from her exhusband. They weren't too friendly at the time of their divorce.

It's a very happy Thanksgiving Day for Betsy Drake, who said at the time she and Cary Grant parted that she wanted more than anything else to return to her career.

Well, she has her first job since she and Cary said adieu. She'll star in "Wanted Dead or Alive" opposite Steve McQueen. She plays a violent, sweet-faced, murderous dressmaker. Sounds awful! Of course, as you TV watchers know, this is one of Steve's series.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Pioneering Was Easier

Coming back from London where television is still in a state of simple monied primitive splendor, I was struck by two things: the acceptance speech of William S. Paley at the Broadcast Pioneers' luncheon and what I'm afraid is going to be a savagely controversial article in Fortune magazine called "TV: The Light That Failed."

In accepting a plaque as a broadcast pioneer, Paley spoke of the early days of broadcasting and told marvelous mellow stories that made those days seem as distant and remote as the moon. Paley's story about listening to a young man on shipboard play a record made by an unknown young singer named Bing Crosby and wiring his artists bureau to sign him up, shows how far we have come from those easygoing days when singers were discovered by network heads so casually. Or at all.

Paley told tales about how CBS happened to broadcast Lowell Thomas, the Philharmonic, the Metropolitan Opera, and in each case in those rustic early days of broadcasting, the simple criterion was that it would make good listening. The beginnings of CBS's famed news gathering operations were stunningly simple and very effective. But this was back when Paley pretty much ran his own network programming by himself and ran it brilliantly.

Nothing is that simple any more, as the opening paragraph of the Paley speech well recognizes: "There's a line in Bill Inge's play, 'The Dark At the Top of the Stairs,' in which the bewildered hero says, 'Damned if I don't sometimes think it's easier to pioneer a country than to settle down in it.' Most of us here, I believe, know something of what he means."

The "Fortune" article is the sad tale of what happens after the pioneer days are over. It's a rough tough piece from the Luce empire which views broadcasting with violent condescension. But the article sheds a lot of light in some dark corners.

The simple veracities of merit or lack of merit are almost totally missing from this piece. The magic ingredient is money or the lack of money. The piece reeks of the complexities of high finance and low finance and already the upper echelons of the broadcast industry have loudly cried "Foul!" My own feeling is that the piece states some things that need stating and that it may be a little unfair only in not giving television credit where credit is due. Television has done some marvelous things in the past and —despite its many warts—will do some in the future.

At the heart of the matter and of the article lies the charge that television has abdicated its responsibility to the package producer and to the Hollywood B picture makers and to the advertising men. It is just here that the cry of foul is loudest. The reason, I think, is that there is a fundamental misunderstanding between broadcaster and journalist on just where responsibility should begin and end. It has always seemed to me that the broadcaster should originate all his programs in his shop and simply let the advertiser pay for them.

This is the English system. The commercial networks originate their own programs. There is no sponsorship. There are advertisements something like our magazine advertisements and mercifully brief. It would be wrong to say this system has brought nothing but happiness to the viewer or nothing but high art to the screen. It has done no such thing. But at least it has kept television in the simple pioneer days Mr. Paley spoke of and it has left the responsibility squarely where it belongs: in the lap of the broadcaster and nobody else. And it is marvellously prosperous for the broadcaster and satisfying to the advertiser.

Kuttawa, Ky. To Be Flooded For New Dam

By PAUL JORDAN

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Progress has doomed the sleepy town of Kuttawa. And dissension seems destined to kill its chances for rebirth.

Kuttawa is a western Kentucky hamlet of neat white homes in the wooded valley of the Cumberland River. Four years from now the waters of the river will rise slowly behind the Barkley Dam and engulf the town.

The 1,200 townspeople would preserve the town name and their cherished traditions by founding a new Kuttawa on another site. But they are finding it hard enough to accept the town's fate. They appear hopelessly divided on the question of the future.

"It appears at this time that Kuttawa will die," says Walter Shouse, director of the state's planning and zoning agency here in the capital. He says the townspeople probably will scatter to places of their individual choice.

The waters of Barkley Dam—named for the late Alben W. Barkley, veteran member of the Senate and onetime vice president—also will flood Kuttawa's neighbor, Eddyville.

Shouse heads a team assigned to help the federal government plan new locations for the two towns.

Like people everywhere, the citizens of Kuttawa and Eddyville are reluctant to turn their backs for the last time on homes, businesses and landmarks many have known for a lifetime.

The Cumberland's rising waters will destroy the old Leclede Hotel In Eddyville, where Jenny Lind sang more than a century ago.

The waters will approach, if not flood, the site of Kelly Furnace near Kuttawa. It was here in the late 1800s that William Kelly developed the steel-making formula that was to become known as the Bessemer process and revolutionize the industry.

There is sadness too in Eddyville. But the townspeople there apparently have solved their relocation problem.

"We'd like to stay where we are but you can't fight progress," says Mayor Frank Tanner.

A maority of the Eddyville property owners and the City Council voted to move the town to land nearby owned by Lee S. Jones, a Louisville attorney.

The federal government will pay for the property it floods, giving the owners funds to build anew. It also will build on a new site such city facilities as streets, sidewalks, water and sewer systems.

The necessary 51 per cent of Kuttawa property owners agreed to move a short distance away to land owned or optioned by the town. But this plan was abandoned when it was discovered the relocated highways would bypass the site.

The Kuttawa City Council then obtained an option on a site which will be served by the highways. But a controversy developed.

The Eddyville City Council invited Kuttawa folk to join them in forming a single municipality called Fairview on the 1,800-acre tract owned by Jones.

Some Kuttawans wanted to accept, others objected to the site.

Jones himself says he is pushing consolidation of the towns on his land because "I want to build a community up there." He says he would make little profit, if any, for many years.

And there the stormy dispute lies, with folks wondering what the outcome will be when the official petition is circulated by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Happy Thanksgiving to each and every one of you—and all of us should remember to thank God that we live in free America away from the tyranny of a cruel dictator who doesn't believe in any power greater than his own.

Buddy Adler will give a special Thanksgiving both for his miraculous return to health and the way 20th Century-Fox' motion pictures are lining up. The latest move at this studio is an offer to Bishop Fulton J. Sheen's favorite charity of a goodly sum if the bishop will play himself in "Say One For Me" with Bing Crosby, Debbie Reynolds and Bob Wagner.

Lew Schreiber made a special trip to New York to contact Bishop Sceen, who didn't say no." He did say, "send me the script." So director Frank Tashlin is hoping the answer will be in the affirmative.

John Wayne has changed his mind about starting "The Alamo" as soon as he finished "Horse Soldiers" in Louisiana. He's fallen for a script by Burt Kennedy called "Yellowstone Kelly" and wants to activate it first for his Bajac company.

I have a hunch the real reason for the switch is that "Yellowstone" gives Duke a chance to costar with his popular offspring, Pat Wayne. Story concerns the adventures of a trapper in our fabulous national park back in 1887 soon after Yellowstone opened, who takes a young boy under his wing. You can't be surprised that the director Wayne wants is—John Ford, who else?

The good book says "cast thy bread upon the water etc."—well, that's what happened to Mala Powers. George Cukor told me that she voluntarily offered to make a test with Keith Larson, young MGM actor, for one of the smaller roles in "Heller With a Gun", Sophia Loren's picture.

Mala was so good, George told me, that one of the top agents saw her and promptly wanted to sign her.

I had heard that John Gavin was going to be borrowed from U-I, to play opposite Sophia, but this is not definite. George told me the script was not yet finished. I always enoy talking to George. He's so enthusiastic about his motion pictures, and he won't accept a story he doesn't believe in.

Poor Debbie Power had one more blow in the sudden death of her grandfather in Memphis. Her mother, Mrs. Freddie Hungerford, was staying with Debbie at the Bel Air Hotel when the telephone call came summoning her home.

Debbie and TY's sister, Ann Hardenburg, have moved in with Watson Webb and will stay there temporarily.

Ty's will will be read in a few days and the figure of one million dollars given by Linda Christian is as false as some of the other statements she's made. On one pretext or another last summer she kept the two little girls from seeing their father, and this she should regret to the longest day she lives.

It's powerful friendly, as they say in Westerns, the way Audie Murphy is putting in a pitch for his one-time wife, Wanda Hendrix, to get her career going again. Specifically, Audie has gone to the Mirisch Brothers asking that they give Wanda the lead opposite him in "Cast a Long Shadow."

Wanda is hoping for a full scale acting comeback now that her marriage to Jim Stack is on the rocks. It would't be the first time she'd teamed with Audie on the screen. About 10 years ago they did a Western "Sierra." But even so, I imagine she's surprised at the helping hand from her exhusband. They weren't too friendly at the time of their divorce.

It's a very happy Thanksgiving Day for Betsy Drake, who said at the time she and Cary Grant parted that she wanted more than anything else to return to her career.

Well, she has her first job since she and Cary said adieu. She'll star in "Wanted Dead or Alive" opposite Steve McQueen. She plays a violent, sweet-faced, murderous dressmaker. Sounds awful! Of course, as you TV watchers know, this is one of Steve's series.

Television and Radio

Pioneering Was Easier

Coming back from London where television is still in a state of simple monied primitive splendor, I was struck by two things: the acceptance speech of William S. Paley at the Broadcast Pioneers' luncheon and what I'm afraid is going to be a savagely controversial article in Fortune magazine called "TV: The Light That Failed."

In accepting a plaque as a broadcast pioneer, Paley spoke of the early days of broadcasting and told marvelous mellow stories that made those days seem as distant and remote as the moon. Paley's story about listening to a young man on shipboard play a record made by an unknown young singer named Bing Crosby and wiring his artists bureau to sign him up, shows how far we have come from those easygoing days when singers were discovered by network heads so casually. Or at all.

Paley told tales about how CBS happened to broadcast Lowell Thomas, the Philharmonic, the Metropolitan Opera, and in each case in those rustic early days of broadcasting, the simple criterion was that it would make good listening. The beginnings of CBS's famed news gathering operations were stunningly simple and very effective. But this was back when Paley pretty much ran his own network programming by himself and ran it brilliantly.

Nothing is that simple any more, as the opening paragraph of the Paley speech well recognizes: "There's a line in Bill Inge's play, 'The Dark At the Top of the Stairs,' in which the bewildered hero says, 'Damned if I don't sometimes think it's easier to pioneer a country than to settle down in it.' Most of us here, I believe, know something of what he means."

The "Fortune" article is the sad tale of what happens after the pioneer days are over. It's a rough tough piece from the Luce empire which views broadcasting with violent condescension. But the article sheds a lot of light in some dark corners.

The simple veracities of merit or lack of merit are almost totally missing from this piece. The magic ingredient is money or the lack of money. The piece reeks of the complexities of high finance and low finance and already the upper echelons of the broadcast industry have loudly cried "Foul!" My own feeling is that the piece states some things that need stating and that it may be a little unfair only in not giving television credit where credit is due. Television has done some marvelous things in the past and —despite its many warts—will do some in the future.

At the heart of the matter and of the article lies the charge that television has abdicated its responsibility to the package producer and to the Hollywood B picture makers and to the advertising men. It is just here that the cry of foul is loudest. The reason, I think, is that there is a fundamental misunderstanding between broadcaster and journalist on just where responsibility should begin and end. It has always seemed to me that the broadcaster should originate all his programs in his shop and simply let the advertiser pay for them.

This is the English system. The commercial networks originate their own programs. There is no sponsorship. There are advertisements something like our magazine advertisements and mercifully brief. It would be wrong to say this system has brought nothing but happiness to the viewer or nothing but high art to the screen. It has done no such thing. But at least it has kept television in the simple pioneer days Mr. Paley spoke of and it has left the responsibility squarely where it belongs: in the lap of the broadcaster and nobody else. And it is marvellously prosperous for the broadcaster and satisfying to the advertiser.

Kuttawa, Ky. To Be Flooded For New Dam

By PAUL JORDAN

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Progress has doomed the sleepy town of Kuttawa. And dissension seems destined to kill its chances for rebirth.

Kuttawa is a western Kentucky hamlet of neat white homes in the wooded valley of the Cumberland River. Four years from now the waters of the river will rise slowly behind the Barkley Dam and engulf the town.

The 1,200 townspeople would preserve the town name and their cherished traditions by founding a new Kuttawa on another site. But they are finding it hard enough to accept the town's fate. They appear hopelessly divided on the question of the future.

"It appears at this time that Kuttawa will die," says Walter Shouse, director of the state's planning and zoning agency here in the capital. He says the townspeople probably will scatter to places of their individual choice.

The waters of Barkley Dam—named for the late Alben W. Barkley, veteran member of the Senate and onetime vice president—also will flood Kuttawa's neighbor, Eddyville.

Shouse heads a team assigned to help the federal government plan new locations for the two towns.

Like people everywhere, the citizens of Kuttawa and Eddyville are reluctant to turn their backs for the last time on homes, businesses and landmarks many have known for a lifetime.

The Cumberland's rising waters will destroy the old Leclede Hotel In Eddyville, where Jenny Lind sang more than a century ago.

The waters will approach, if not flood, the site of Kelly Furnace near Kuttawa. It was here in the late 1800s that William Kelly developed the steel-making formula that was to become known as the Bessemer process and revolutionize the industry.

There is sadness too in Eddyville. But the townspeople there apparently have solved their relocation problem.

"We'd like to stay where we are but you can't fight progress," says Mayor Frank Tanner.

A maority of the Eddyville property owners and the City Council voted to move the town to land nearby owned by Lee S. Jones, a Louisville attorney.

The federal government will pay for the property it floods, giving the owners funds to build anew. It also will build on a new site such city facilities as streets, sidewalks, water and sewer systems.

The necessary 51 per cent of Kuttawa property owners agreed to move a short distance away to land owned or optioned by the town. But this plan was abandoned when it was discovered the relocated highways would bypass the site.

The Kuttawa City Council then obtained an option on a site which will be served by the highways. But a controversy developed.

The Eddyville City Council invited Kuttawa folk to join them in forming a single municipality called Fairview on the 1,800-acre tract owned by Jones.

Some Kuttawans wanted to accept, others objected to the site.

Jones himself says he is pushing consolidation of the towns on his land because "I want to build a community up there." He says he would make little profit, if any, for many years.

And there the stormy dispute lies, with folks wondering what the outcome will be when the official petition is circulated by the Army Corps of Engineers.

B&O To Limit Keyser Crossing Blocks To 20 Minutes

KEYSER — Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company officials told Mayor Richard E. Romig, members of City Council and several interested citizens at a recent meeting that they would do their best to alleviate the lengthy blocking of crossings here, but added that it was impossible to make up eastbound coal trains and not block the crossings for several minutes at a time.

T. J. Klauenburg, Cumberland Division superintendent, said the plan suggested by one local citizen that the head end of the train be pulled further down the tracks and the middle and rear ends be hooked on beyond the crossing could not work.

Klauenburg said that in the first place rules of the Interstate Commerce Commission would prevent that procedure, and in the second place it would cause even more delay which in turn costs the B&O money.

He did say that every effort would be made to not block the crossings any longer than 20 minutes at a time, and asked that when the crossings are blocked longer than 20 minutes that he be notified.

Klauenburg said the suggestion that "walkie talkies" be used so trainmen could communicate with each other might expedite the movement of the trains sounded feasible. He said the experiment was being tried at other places on the B&O, and indicated an experiment may be conducted here.

The trains will be cut at the Main Street crossing around the clock in the future, instead of up to midnight, as in the past, Klauenburg said.

Representing the B&O, besides Klauenburg, at the meeting were several local officials including W. W. Frey, general trainmaster; W. L. Smith, general yardmaster; F. J. Crockett, general superintendent of car repair shops, and Arthur Tenney, road foreman of engines.

Blood Bank Group Meets

FROSTBURG—Thirty members of the Frostburg branch of the American Red Cross met recently at the home of Mrs. James C. Cobey, chairman, for a coffee hour to welcome Mrs. G. Franklin Martens, who has been chosen chairman of the Frostburg Blood Bank for 1958-59.

Former chairmen of the blood bank, started here in 1952, include Mrs. Kathleen Todd, Mrs. Charles Meehan, Mrs. William S. Jenkins and Mrs. Perry Myers.

Mrs. Cobey received reports from chairmen of all branches of work in the blood bank: Motor Corps, Mrs. Edward J. Ryan; canteen, Mrs. George Hale, Miss Katherine Close and Miss Annie B. Gray; secretarial group, Mrs. Ralph Race and Edward Flanigan; nurses group, Miss Elizabeth Ruge; donors contact committee, Mrs. John Ives.

Mrs. Walter Jeffries gave a financial report and it was learned that the United Fund has assigned the group $800 annually, most of which is used by the blood bank.

Mrs. Perry Myers stated that out of a quota of 480 pints for the past year, 475 had been donated. She stressed the need for more donors.

Charter members present were Mrs. James Cobey, Mrs. Kathleen Todd, Mrs. J. Carter Shryock, Mrs. George Hale, Mrs. Ralph Race, Mrs. James Taylor, Miss Katherine Close, Mrs. Edward J. Ryan, Mrs. H. Reford Aldridge, Miss Annie B. Gray, Mrs. Rudolph Mendelsohn, Mrs. Robert Glotfelty and Mrs. James Shryock.

Chinese Steel Industry Still In Its Infancy

By THOMAS WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

Fifty million peasants are sweating at forced labor all over China to turn out millions of tons of iron in primitive forges by handicraft methods.

Whether this iron will be usable for anything except the simplest tools seems unlikely, and probably not even Mao Tze-tung himself will ever have the foggiest idea of how much was actually turned out.

But although this metal may not make good machine tools, it makes excellent propaganda at home and abroad. The inflated figures of steel production which it permits Peiping to release exaggerate greatly the rapid enough industrial progress which Red China is actually making.

Day and night the steel campaign goes on. Millions of coolies toil away hauling sacks and baskets of what they hope is iron ore. Brick is piled on brick to make tens of thousands of little miniature blast furnaces. To keep one of these operating and producing a few tons a day takes the work of perhaps two to three score farmers, many of them employed at pumping up and down on big bellows not unlike those used in old village blacksmith shops.

Reports roll into Peiping from all the provinces.

"Until Oct. 18 Sishui County in northern Kweichow had only a baby iron and steel works that could produce steel . . . on that day thousands of local people came out to build local type steel-making furnaces in response to the call of the Communist party committee of the county. Some 1,185 furnaces went into operation the next day. They turned out 1,340 tons of steel on Oct. 20 and 5,421 tons Oct. 25."

"This year's total number of native-method steel-smelting furnaces will reach at least 200,000."

These are typical quotations from recent broadcasts of Radio Peiping.

The campaign to produce iron and steel in small furnaces all over the country is the most dramatic phase of the campaign of the Chinese Communist government to increase Red China's steel output.

As part of the same program construction workers labor day and night to put into operation new big blast furnaces and open hearths at the big Japanese-built combine at Anshan, or at the plants under construction at Wuhan and Paotow.

The stated goal is to double Red China's steel output in one year—to increase it from 5,350,000 metric tons in 1957 to 10,700,000 in 1958.

The way this goal was arrived at however, and the methods by which it is being realized suggest rather obviously that the primary aim in setting it at this figure was political and that it was proclaimed in large part for its propaganda value in making an impression on the outside world, particularly underdeveloped countries.

Modern steel works do not grow like mushrooms. It takes years to build them, along with the transportation, mine, chemical, firebrick and other facilities they require. Steel output in existing facilities cannot be jumped rapidly. Analysis shows that about the most Red China can expect from modern steel works in 1958 is about seven million tons. This leaves almost five million to come from handmade forges.

But the catch with steel produced by handicraft methods is that by and large it is not really steel at all but iron with many impurities and not standardized in its chemical composition—which determines its qualities and usefulness. Even if it were possible to tranport this "steel" to modern steel and processing plants it is questionable whether it could be used for any modern technological purpose

Heart Institute Research May Find New Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Basic research at the National Heart Institute is leading to development of drugs which may be useful against hypertension, epilepsy and mental illness.

The institute said Monday the research involves the functions of amines as brain hormones and the enzymes that make and destroy these chemicals in the human body.

Study now centers on the amines serotonin and norepinephrine. They are found in the brain and other body tissues, where they may influence blood pressure, emotions and other functions beyond conscious control.

The drugs under study are compounds which counteract monoamine oxidase, an enzyme that the scientists refer to as mao. This enzyme normally destroys amines in the body. Many of the effects of the mao inhibiting drugs are thought to be due to the accumulation of serotonin and norepinephrine in tissues.

One unusually powerful inhibiter which has been given the name JB 516 (instead of its chemical name of 1-phenyl-2-hydrazinopropane) has been found to lower blood pressure in hypertensive patients.

The origin of insurance has been ascribed to the Roman emperor Claudius in 43 A. D.

Modern steel works do not grow like mushrooms. It takes years to build them, along with the transportation, mine, chemical, firebrick and other facilities they require. Steel output in existing facilities cannot be jumped rapidly. Analysis shows that about the most Red China can expect from modern steel works in 1958 is about seven million tons. This leaves almost five million to come from handmade forges.

But the catch with steel produced by handicraft methods is that by and large it is not really steel at all but iron with many impurities and not standardized in its chemical composition—which determines its qualities and usefulness. Even if it were possible to tranport this "steel" to modern steel and processing plants it is questionable whether it could be used for any modern technological purpose

Heart Institute Research May Find New Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Basic research at the National Heart Institute is leading to development of drugs which may be useful against hypertension, epilepsy and mental illness.

The institute said Monday the research involves the functions of amines as brain hormones and the enzymes that make and destroy these chemicals in the human body.

Study now centers on the amines serotonin and norepinephrine. They are found in the brain and other body tissues, where they may influence blood pressure, emotions and other functions beyond conscious control.

The drugs under study are compounds which counteract monoamine oxidase, an enzyme that the scientists refer to as mao. This enzyme normally destroys amines in the body. Many of the effects of the mao inhibiting drugs are thought to be due to the accumulation of serotonin and norepinephrine in tissues.

One unusually powerful inhibiter which has been given the name JB 516 (instead of its chemical name of 1-phenyl-2-hydrazinopropane) has been found to lower blood pressure in hypertensive patients.

The origin of insurance has been ascribed to the Roman emperor Claudius in 43 A. D.

W. Va. Auditor Refuses Paychecks To Road Unit

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Auditor Edgar B. Sims again refused Wednesday to honor a full month's payroll for the West Virginia Road Commission before the end of the month.

"Your requisition is false," Sims wrote Road Commissioner Pat C. Graney in explaining his refusal to accept the payroll. "The month of November has not elapsed yet."

Sims repeated his contention that the requisition called for "services not rendered." Starting with October, Sims maintained he could not legally process payrolls until after the pay period had been completed, thus delaying distribution of checks several days beyond the usual first-of-the-month.

Departments and agencies had for years submitted payrolls in advance of the end of each month in order that employes could be paid on the first of the ensuing month.

On Oct. 23, the SRC submitted a full October payroll, Sims refused to accept it and the commission took the matter to the State Supreme Court to test the auditor's authority to regulate pay policies. A decision has not yet been rendered by the court.

The State Finance and Administration Department also planned to submit a November payroll before the end of the month.

Crews Checking Equipment For Dial Conversion

Crews of the Chesapeake and the Potomac Telephone Company are busy making final preparations for the change-over to dial operation in the Frostburg area early Sunday morning.

Robert L. Crabtree, manager of the Frostburg office, said 40 tons of equipment and over 1,000 miles of wire have been installed to make the conversion from manual to dial service.

The new exchange in Frostburg will be called OVerbrook, and 3,236 telephones have been converted for the dial operation.

Wesley Washburn, Cumberland central office foreman, has been in Frostburg all week testing and checking the equipment to assure its proper operation Sunday morning.

Mr. Crabtree said when the switch-over is made Sunday it will be possible for Frostburg subscribers to dial numbers within the OVerbrook exchange and also to dial directly to Cumberland, Lonaconing, Mt. Savage and Wellersburg, Pa.

The actual planning to provide Frostburg with modern dial service began in November 1955 when the engineering work was started.

The land for the new building was purchased in September 1956 and on March 10, 1958, ground was broken for the new exchange building. The building was completed in early August and the central office work started immediately.

A demonstration booth has been placed on Main Street in Frostburg, and Mr. Crabtree suggested telephone subscribers visit the booth to familiarize themselves with the dial operation.

Fire Damages Building, Cars

Firemen from Central station and West Side station yesterday morning fought a blaze which damaged a one-story frame building and two autos at Harold Waingold's Used Car Lot, Dingle Hill. No one was injured.

The blaze was believed to have started when sparks from an acetylene torch being used by an employe set fire to flammable liquid.

Shortly after 10:30 a. m. West Side received a call from the office of the used car lot and afterward Central was called. Firemen said the blaze was "going good" when they arrived on the scene, and could have been worse due to gasoline, oil and grease located in the building.

About 1,000 feet of hose was laid at the scene, firemen said. The tires and upholstery of the two automobiles were damaged, as was the building itself.

The structure is used for a sales and service building.

W.Va. Man Killed In Auto Crash

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI)—Albert Kerns of nearby Uffington was killed Wednesday when a car carrying four West Virginia University students crashed into a second automobile five miles south of here on W. Va. 73.

The students apparently were heading home for the Thanksgiving holiday weekend when their car crashed into the vehicle in which Kerns was riding about 2 p.m. The latter car, driven by the victim's son-in-law, was preparing to turn off the road.

William S. Lundin, a student from Williamstown, W. Va., and Kerns' daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Howell, received minor injuries.

Westvaco Gets License To Make 'Clupak'

Licensing agreements to manufacture stretchable paper have been signed by two of the nation's leading producers, it was announced by Gerald E. Amerman, President of Clupak, Inc., which owns the trademark "Clupak" and patents on the revolutionary process and product.

The first license was signed by International Paper Company, the country's largest producer of paper and paperboard. This company will install its first extensible papermaking unit on a large kraft paper machine at its Camden, Ark., mill.

The other signer is West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, which has one extensible paper unit operating on a kraft machine at its Charleston, S. C., mill and has a second unit ready for installation on another kraft machine at this same location.

The agreement for International Paper was executed by Stuart E. Kay, vice president, and for West Virginia by David L. Luke, president. Mr. Amerman acted for Clupak, Inc.

"Just as soon as licensing is fully under way in the United States," Mr. Amerman said, "it is the intention of Clupak, Inc., to initiate a licensing program extending to all the paper-producing countries of the world."

Regarded as a scientific breakthrough, "Clupak" paper is made by a mechanical process which imparts stretch to the paper without affecting its normal surface smoothness. The paper is made from regular woodpulp on a conventional paper machine equipped with extensible papermaking units, which are part of an in-line operation.

The built-in stretch, which can be controlled with precision, gives "Clupak" paper greater toughness and makes it able to withstand considerably more impact than conventional paper.

The process is the invention of Sanford L. Cluett, vice president of Cluett, Peabody & Co. Commercial development of the process was accomplished by West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Although the first "Clupak" paper to be produced under license will be unbleached kraft grades, used in the manufacture of bags of all kinds and other types of packaging, and for hundreds of industrial applications, research and development work being carried out by Clupak, Inc., is aimed at adapting the process to virtually all grades of paper now being manufactured.

Along with its toughness, "Clupak" paper has a different feel than conventional paper. It is softer and more pliable and it has less rattle than conventional paper, qualities which add to its advantages in many applications.

Police Quickly Arrest Gunman

FRANKLIN, W. Va. (UPI) — A general store at nearby Upper Tract was held up Tuesday night but the alleged gunman was arrested less than an hour later at a roadblock by state police from Petersburg.

The suspect was identified as George Cleveland Bailey, 22, Baltimore, Md. He was charged with armed robbery.

W. J. Harold, 72, told police he was closing his store when a man approached him and asked to buy some candy. Harold said that when he re-opened the store and started in, the man pulled a gun.

The bandit bound and gagged Harold and took between $300 and $400 in cash from a cash register and from a safe, took a number of $2 bills Harold had been saving. Harold freed himself quickly after the bandit left and called State Police.

Members of the Petersburg detachment set up a roadblock on U. S. 220 and arrested Bailey. Police said the bearded man was wearing a mask and was traveling in a car rented in Baltimore. Authorities said Bailey was on parole for armed robbery from Maryland.

None of the money has been recovered, police said.

Bowman Bags Deer

MOOREFIELD — Jimmy Shobe is the first local hunter to bag his deer with a bow and arrow. Shobe, using a 35 pound bow, bagged a 100 pound buck near his father's camp in the Trough Saturday.

The bow season on deer continues until January 1. A special bow hunters license is required.

Over $1,000 Collected In MD Canvass

Partial returns in the house-to-house canvass of Cumberland Tuesday night show that over $1,000 was collected by some 200 volunteer women working in conjunction with the current Muscular Dystrophy Drive.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, chairman, said that by yesterday afternoon some $1,044.18 had been returned. About 25 kits were still out and will be picked up.

Chairman Parker said drive officials are "well satisfied with the response" from those persons who were asked for contributions during the canvass.

Several local men collected kits at various points including the local fire stations. Taking part were Albert Doub, Chester Moody, Edward Bucy, Robert Moore, Arthur Nave and Edward Trost.

Herman Myers, H. H. Johnson and three other members of Cumberland Aerie 245, FO Eagles also participated. Mrs. Nell Kennedy of Frostburg is now conducting a similar canvass in that community and returns as yet have not been tabulated.

Canisters placed in business establishments recently will be collected about mid-December, Chairman Parker said.

The drive is being sponsored by the Allegany-Garrett Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Volunteer firemen of the two counties are cooperating in the campaign.

W.Va. Land Owners To Get Protection

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Land owners in at least three West Virginia Counties in the Eastern Panhandle area will be protected from trespassers by additional Conservation Commission officers during the six-day deer season which opens Dec. 1, Director Warden M. Lane said yesterday.

Lane said additional men were being sent to Grant, Hardy and Pendleton Counties because "conflicts between landowners and hunters, complicated by too few conservation officers to do the job of patrolling, are sure to arise."

The director observed that the commission, under state law, is required to keep hunters off posted land if the land owner asks for such action in writing. Lane said he was going to visit personally with landowners this weekend.

"It is expected that some 10,000 hunters will enter Hardy County alone in deer season," he said.

Fort Hill Shoots For Double Title In Game With Allegany

Bill Hahn's Team Favored In 23rd Game

City, CVAL Crowns At Stake In Battle Here Today At 1:30

Cumberland's top schoolboy football teams of 1958 are all set for their championship battle today at 1:30 o'clock in the Greenway Avenue bowl.

Fort Hill's defending champions, unbeaten and tied but once in 19 games since late in the 1956 season, and Allegany, winless on Thanksgiving day since 1945, will be meeting in the annual holiday contest for the twenty-third consecutive year in a series that shows 11 wins for the Sentinels, nine for the Campers and two tie games. The ties, incidentally, are the only games in which Allegany has barged into the championship picture in the past twelve years.

Fort Hill Favorite

Coach William P. Hahn's Hilltoppers have been installed a two-touchdown favorite today as they strive to finish their second season undefeated. Last year the Hahnmen reeled off 10 wins in a row. This season they've won seven and played a 6-6 tie with North High of Hagerstown.

Edward Schwarz, former University of Maryland player, is rounding out his first season as coach of the Campers and has done an excellent job. Allegany has won seven games and lost two and is enjoying its best season since 1955 when Roy Lester's last team at Campobello wound up with a 7-1 mark.

Comparative Scores

Allegany and Fort Hill qualified to play for city honors by eliminating LaSalle. The West Siders won by the score of 19-6 after Fort Hill had clobbered the Explorers 45-7.

Fort Hill larruped Frederick, 53-14, while Allegany just managed to edge the Cadets, 13-12. The Sentinels routed Martinsburg, 52-7 and Allegany trimmed the Bulldogs, 34-18. The Campers topped Beall, 31-0 and Fort Hill duplicated to the tune of 27-0. Fort Hill skunked winless South High of Hagerstown, 34-0, after Coach Schwarz's outfit downed the Rebels 32-12.

The Greenway Avenue boys went on their biggest scoring spree of the season when they clobbered Westminster, 65-28, but Allegany fell before the Owls, 33-25. The Campobello eleven suffered its worst beating of the season at the hands of North Hagerstown, 39-14, a team that Fort Hill battled to a 6-6 draw.

Fort Hill's 40-points-a-game average for eight contests is an all-time high locally and the Sentinels could shatter their own city record of 361 points for a season set in 1949 if they can roll up more than 41 tallies today. Thus far they've collected 320. The most points they scored against Allegany was 37 in the 1952 Turkey Day game.

Shoot For Double Title

A victory today would enable Fort Hill to bag city honors outright the fifth straight year and would tie them with North High of Hagerstown for the Cumberland Valley Athletic League championship. The Hubs have closed their season with a 5-0-1 record while Fort Hill now stands 4-0-1 in the seven school circuit. The locals went all the way last year with 7-0 and shared title honors with North High in 1956 when the league was revived.

29 Seniors On Squads

Twenty-nine seniors appear on the rosters of the teams and a majority will get an opportunity to play their final high school game today. Fourteen on the Allegany squad are Garland Hiser, John Marvin, James O'Neal, Bud Allison, Gerald Horton, Gary Shook, Cliff Montgomery, Bob Roeder, Mike McKenzie, Dick Paye, Lamar Martin, Jay Kaplon, Russell Campbell, Ronald Riggs and Rod Sanders. The 15 Fort Hillians are Bill Koerner, Robert Rowley, Gene Counihan, Charles Robinson, Tom Davis, Walter Reed, Lawrence Cosgrove, Jim Hammond, Donnie Lewis, William D. Hahn, Gary Holtzman, Dennis Stoops, LeRoy Henry, Jack Weltman and Kenneth Gray.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 persons are expected to attend the game which will be handled by four officials from West Virginia. Bands of both schools will add to the colorful spectacle and will participate in the halftime show.

Austin Named Back Of Week

Rutgers Star Plays With Broken Hand

By The Associated Press

Billy Austin, whose playing status was not known until shortly before the kickoff, Wednesday was named back of the week for the sensational finish he put on his Rutgers football career.

Playing with a heavy bandage on his broken left hand, the slender single wing tailback scored five touchdowns and ran for two conversions in the 11 times he handled the ball as Rutgers routed Columbia 61-0.

Despite the remarkable showing, Austin was the pick of Associated Press sports writers and broadcasters by only a narrow margin over halfback Billy Cannon of Louisiana State, Dick Bass of College of the Pacific, and Southern Methodist's Don Meredith.

Austin's 34 points gave him a season's total of 106.

Cannon received solid support for his work in the 62-0 rout of Tulane which enabled LSU to conclude its regular season unbeaten. He scored three times including the lid-lifting touchdown, gained 108 yards in 14 carries and intercepted a pass deep in Tiger territory.

Bass romped for six touchdowns and 191 rushing yards as COP smothered San Diego State.

In SMU's 33-29 hair-raiser over Baylor, Meredith as the difference—and more. The lever junior quarterback ran for two touchdowns and 50 yards while passing for a third score and 206 yards.

Clemson May Be Sugar Bowl Foe

ATLANTA (AP)—The Atlanta Journal said Wednesday that Clemson will play in the Sugar Bowl next Jan. 1 if it defeats Furman this weekend.

A story by Gregory Favre said it was learned that Clemson had received and accepted an invitation to meet LSU in the New Orleans football classic.

The story added the agreement contains a stipulation that if Clemson should lose to Furman, the pact will be broken, but it added that a Clemson victory "is considered a mortal lock."

In New Orleans, Claude Simons, president of the Sugar Bowl, said no invitation had been extended to Clemson.

Campy To Have Holiday With Family At Home

Accident Victim Is 'Glad To Be Alive'

By JOE REICHLER

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP)—"It's great to be alive."

Those were Roy Campanella's grateful words Wenesday as the former Dodger catcher, still paralyzed from the neck down, was to spend his first Thanksgiving Day at home following his tragic automobile accident of 10 months ago.

"I've got so many things to be thankful for," said the wheelchair bound Campanella, who only a week ago was able to discard the brace that had held his head in place ever since operation for a fractured neck last January.

"I'm thankful I'm alive. I'm thankful that no member of my family was with me at the time of the crack-up. I'm thankful the car didn't burn up when it overturned. I'm thankful I didn't die on the operating table. I'm thankful I've got all my sense. I'm thankful just to be home with my family. I just can't begin to tell you how lucky I am."

This from a man who on last Thanksgiving was eagerly looking forward to the Dodgers' move to Los Angeles because "it will add 10 years to my baseball career.

This from the once great catcher who is learning all over again to catch a ball as part of his rehabilitation program. This from a once robust, agile athlete who now is limited to only the use of his arm and shoulders.

Make no mistake about it, Campy was happy and sincere as he counted his blessings. His eyes glistened as he looked up at his wife, Ruthe, busily preparing the table for the evening dinner. He was surrounded by four of his six children, David 15, Roy Jr., 10, Tony 8 and Princess 5. The other two, 18- and 19-year-old daughters attending out of town colleges, were expected momentarily.

"Look at these kids," Roy exclaimed. "They're not worried a bit about me being in a wheel chair. 'Daddy's home!' that's all they care about. I have trouble keeping the little ones out of the wheel chair. When I'm in bed, they're in there with me. I've got no time to sulk with them around."

"You know something," he said. "I held a glass in my hand yesterday . . . full of water. That was the first time. And I picked up a hamburger. My boy, Tony, made it for me, too. It may not seem like much to the average guy but it meant a great deal to me. It proved to me that I'm making progress."

Schultz To Pilot Omaha Ball Club

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Joe Schultz, former major league catcher and veteran minor league manager, Wednesday was named to manage Omaha of the triple A American Assn. next year.

Schultz was given the pilot's job by the St. Louis Cardinals, operators of the Omaha club. At present, he is managing the Licey team in the Dominican Republic Winter Baseball League.

Schultz, 40, takes over from Johnny Keane who was recently named coach of the Cardinals.

Y. The former Dodgers catcher is living at home now after his long hospital siege. From left to right are Mrs. Ruthe Campanella; Princess, 5; Tony, 8; Roy and Roy Jr., 10 years old. The Sports Patrol

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's Army over Navy in college football's game of the week.

On the theory three passers are better than one, the Cadets from West Point rate the nod in the annual service classic. In addition to quarterback Joe Caldwell, Army has another pair of passers in starting halfbacks Pete Dawkins and Bob Anderson—both of whom figure to cut loose against the Middies.

Down the line on the final regular season forecast of the year:

Thanksgiving

Brown over Colgate — Finney passes should make it easy.

Pennsylvania over Cornell — Quakers in a close one.

Cincinnati over Miami, Ohio — Sectional toughie.

South Carolina over Wake Forest—Edge to home team.

Virginia Tech over VMI—Don't bet the rent.

Mississippi Southern over Chattanooga — "Little giant" rolls again.

Texas over Texas A&M—Longhorns in high scoring game.

Utah over Utah State — Grosscup breaks losing streak.

Richmond over William & Mary —Scores better.

College of Pacific over Fresno State—Big one for Bass.

Saturday

Army over Navy—Figures cut caution advised as usual.

Auburn over Alabama—Defense should stall 'Bama.

Arizona State U. over Marquett —Offense in high gear.

Rice over Baylor—Could be a wild one.

Clemson over Furman—Furman in over head.

Air Force over Colorado—May be danger here.

Florida over Miami—More misery for Miami.

Georgia Tech over Georgia — Dandy showdown.

Houston over Texas Tech—But odds look too long.

Mississippi over Mississippi State—By a touchdown.

Oklahoma over Oklahoma State —Sooners, probably easy.

Notre Dame over Southern Cal —Favored by 10 and that's a lot.

Texas Christian over Southern Methodist — Methodical as usual for TCU.

Vanderbilt over Tennessee — Both need this one badly.

And for a wrapup on Dec. 6: Holy Cross over Boston College, Utah over Hawaii, Oregon over Miami.

Retton, Smith Will Captain WVU Cagers

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Bob Smith and Ronnie Retton will co-captain the West Virginia University basketball team this season, Coach Fred Schaus has announced.

The 6-4 fast-break operator from Charleston, who has been described as the most underrated player in the Southern Conference, will lead the Mountaineers along with the "Little Champ," Retton, 5-7 mitey mite who wows the crowds wherever he appears.

Both, of course, are seniors according to Schaus's policy of having two or three old heads to lead his club.

The Mountaineers will open the 1958-59 season on Monday, Dec. 1, against Furman in the dedicatory game for the new Greenville (S. C.) Memorial Auditorium. The next night they will take on VMI at Bluefield, W. Va., in another Southern Conference contest.

Remenar To Coach

Buchholz Gains Net Semi-Final

Meets Roy Emerson In Junior Event

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, the outstanding United States player in the New South Wales tennis tournament, swept into the semifinals in the junior boys' singles and doubles Wednesday.

Buchholz, who will meet Australia's Roy Emerson in the men's singles semifinals Thursday, gained the boys' semifinals by crushing Bob Pearson of Australia, 6-0, 6-1.

Buchholz, 18-year-old United States junior champion, teamed with Jose Arilla of Spain to gain the boys' doubles semifinals with a 6-3, 8-6 victory over Dennis Coletee and Ron Davies of Australia.

Buchholz will play Australian junior champion Martin Mulligan in the boys' semifinals. Mulligan advanced with a 12-10, 0-6, 6-2 victory over Frank Gorman.

Darkness halted play in the men's doubles semifinals with Ashley Cooper and Rod Laver of Australia engaged in a marathon match with Ham Richardson of Arlington, Va., and Alex Olmedo, the Peruvian who lives in Los Angeles. The Aussies led, 3-6, 10-8, 11-9, 14-16, 5-4. The winners will play top-seeded Anderson and Neale Fraser in the final.

In World War II, members of more than 30 individual religious bodies were listed as conscientious objectors.

Fort Hill Shoots For Double Title In Game With Allegany

Bill Hahn's Team Favored In 23rd Game

City, CVAL Crowns At Stake In Battle Here Today At 1:30

Cumberland's top schoolboy football teams of 1958 are all set for their championship battle today at 1:30 o'clock in the Greenway Avenue bowl.

Fort Hill's defending champions, unbeaten and tied but once in 19 games since late in the 1956 season, and Allegany, winless on Thanksgiving day since 1945, will be meeting in the annual holiday contest for the twenty-third consecutive year in a series that shows 11 wins for the Sentinels, nine for the Campers and two tie games. The ties, incidentally, are the only games in which Allegany has barged into the championship picture in the past twelve years.

Fort Hill Favorite

Coach William F. Hahn's Hilltoppers have been installed a two-touchdown favorite today as they strive to finish their second season undefeated. Last year the Hahnmen reeled off 10 wins in a row. This season they've won seven and played a 6-6 tie with North High of Hagerstown.

Edward Schwarz, former University of Maryland player, is rounding out his first season as coach of the Campers and has done an excellent job. Allegany has won seven games and lost two and is enjoying its best season since 1955 when Roy Lester's last team at Campobello wound up with a 7-1 mark.

Comparative Scores

Allegany and Fort Hill qualified to play for city honors by eliminating LaSalle. The West Siders won by the score of 19-6 after Fort Hill had clobbered the Explorers 45-7.

Fort Hill larruped Frederick, 53-14, while Allegany just managed to edge the Cadets, 13-12. The Sentinels routed Martinsburg, 52-7 and Allegany trimmed the Bulldogs, 34-18. The Campers topped Beall, 31-0 and Fort Hill duplicated to the tune of 27-0. Fort Hill skunked winless South High of Hagerstown, 34-0, after Coach Schwarz's outfit downed the Rebels 32-12.

The Greenway Avenue boys went on their biggest scoring spree of the season when they clobbered Westminster, 65-28, but Allegany fell before the Owls, 33-25. The Campobello eleven suffered its worst beating of the season at the hands of North Hagerstown, 39-14, a team that Fort Hill battled to a 6-6 draw.

Fort Hill's 40-points-a-game average for eight contests is an all-time high locally and the Sentinels could shatter their own city record of 361 points for a season set in 1949 if they can roll up more than 41 tallies today. Thus far they've collected 320. The most points they scored against Allegany was 37 in the 1952 Turkey Day game.

Shoot For Double Title

A victory today would enable Fort Hill to bag city honors outright the fifth straight year and would tie them with North High of Hagerstown for the Cumberland Valley Athletic League championship. The Hubs have closed their season with a 5-0-1 record while Fort Hill now stands 4-0-1 in the seven school circuit. The locals went all the way last year with 7-0 and shared title honors with North High in 1956 when the league was revived.

Bill Koerner, Fort Hill back, a shoo in for city and CVAL scoring honors, gets an opportunity to boost his point totals today. 29 Seniors On Squads

Twenty-nine seniors appear on the rosters of the teams and a majority will get an opportunity to play their final high school game today. Fourteen on the Allegany squad are Garland Hiser, John Marvin, James O'Neal, Bud Allison, Gerald Horton, Gary Shook, Cliff Montgomery, Bob Roeder, Mike McKenzie, Dick Paye, Lamar Martin, Jay Kaplon, Russell Campbell, Ronald Riggs and Rod Sanders. The 15 Fort Hillians are Bill Koerner, Robert Rowley, Gene Counihan, Charles Robinson, Tom Davis, Walter Reed, Lawrence Cosgrove, Jim Hammond, Donnie Lewis, William D. Hahn, Gary Holtzman, Dennis Stoops, LeRoy Henry, Jack Weltman and Kenneth Gray.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 persons are expected to attend the game which will be handled by four officials from West Virginia. Bands of both schools will add to the colorful spectacle and will participate in the halftime show.

This from the once great catcher who is learning all over again to catch a ball as part of his rehabilitation program. This from a once robust, agile athlete who now is limited to only the use of his arm and shoulders.

Make no mistake about it, Campy was happy and sincere as he counted his blessings. His eyes glistened as he looked up at his wife, Ruthe, busily preparing the table for the evening dinner. He was surrounded by four of his six children, David 15, Roy Jr., 10, Tony 8 and Princess 5. The other two, 18- and 19-year-old daughters attending out of town colleges, were expected momentarily.

"Look at these kids," Roy exclaimed. "They're not worried a bit about me being in a wheel chair. 'Daddy's home!' that's all they care about. I have trouble keeping the little ones out of the wheel chair. When I'm in bed, they're in there with me. I've got no time to sulk with them around."

"You know something," he said. "I held a glass in my hand yesterday . . . full of water. That was the first time. And I picked up a hamburger. My boy, Tony, made it for me, too. It may not seem like much to the average guy but it meant a great deal to me. It proved to me that I'm making progress."

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's Army over Navy in college football's game of the week.

On the theory three passers are better than one, the Cadets from West Point rate the nod in the annual service classic. In addition to quarterback Joe Caldwell, Army has another pair of passers in starting halfbacks Pete Dawkins and Bob Anderson—both of whom figure to cut loose against the Middies.

Down the line on the final regular season forecast of the year:

Thanksgiving

Brown over Colgate — Finney passes should make it easy.

Pennsylvania over Cornell — Quakers in a close one.

Cincinnati over Miami, Ohio — Sectional toughie.

South Carolina over Wake Forest—Edge to home team.

Virginia Tech over VMI—Don't bet the rent.

Mississippi Southern over Chattanooga — "Little giant" rolls again.

Texas over Texas A&M—Longhorns in high scoring game.

Utah over Utah State — Grosscup breaks losing streak.

Richmond over William & Mary—Scores better.

College of Pacific over Fresno State—Big one for Bass.

Saturday

Army over Navy—Figures cut caution advised as usual.

Auburn over Alabama—Defense should stall 'Bama.

Arizona State U. over Marquett—Offense in high gear.

Rice over Baylor—Could be a wild one.

Clemson over Furman—Furman in over head.

Air Force over Colorado—May be danger here.

Florida over Miami—More misery for Miami.

Georgia Tech over Georgia — Dandy showdown.

Houston over Texas Tech—But odds look too long.

Mississippi over Mississippi State—By a touchdown.

Oklahoma over Oklahoma State—Sooners, probably easy.

Notre Dame over Southern Cal—Favored by 10 and that's a lot.

Texas Christian over Southern Methodist — Methodical as usual for TCU.

Vanderbilt over Tennessee — Both need this one badly.

And for a wrapup on Dec. 6: Holy Cross over Boston College, Utah over Hawaii, Oregon over Miami.

Retton, Smith Will Captain WVU Cagers

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Bob Smith and Ronnie Retton will co-captain the West Virginia University basketball team this season, Coach Fred Schaus has announced.

The 6-4 fast-break operator from Charleston, who has been described as the most underrated player in the Southern Conference, will lead the Mountaineers along with the "Little Champ," Retton, 5-7 mitey mite who wows the crowds wherever he appears.

Both, of course, are seniors according to Schaus's policy of having two or three old heads to lead his club.

The Mountaineers will open the 1958-59 season on Monday, Dec. 1, against Furman in the dedicatory game for the new Greenville (S. C.) Memorial Auditorium. The next night they will take on VMI at Bluefield, W. Va., in another Southern Conference contest.

Remenar To Coach

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—Gene Remenar of Bridgeport, Ohio, has been named coach of the Ohio squad for the Ohio-West Virginia scholastic all-star football game here next August.

Mountaineers Seeking Third Straight Win

Teams Clash 13th Time; 21 Seniors In Final Contest

A pair of evenly matched teams will battle it out on the gridiron for the thirteenth straight year on Thanksgiving Day when the Explorers of LaSalle High School and the Mountaineers of Beall High School tangle today at 1:30 p. m., at Beall High School Stadium in Frostburg.

Seek 3rd Win In Row

Beall High School will be shooting for its third straight victory of the series and needs this one to complete its second winning season since Gerard "Jerry" Calhoun took over the reins at the start of the 1957 season. Beall is playing .500 ball to date with a 3-3-1 record. A setback would send the Mountaineers below the 50-50 mark. Last year's team finished with a 6-4 mark.

LaSalle leads in the series that was launched in 1946 with an 8-3-1 record but has gone down to defeat in the past two seasons in a pair of 7-6 battles. Coach Norman Geatz's Explorers won only one of their first seven games but showed a complete reversal of form in their last two outings by winning both games by the margin of the point-after-touchdown. Moorefield and Altoona Catholics were the victims, 14-13 and 7-6. LaSalle can't finish the season in the .500 class but a victory will enable the North Centre Street school to better its 1957 record of three wins and seven losses. LaSalle's last winning season was 1954 when the Explorers won eight and lost two.

21 Seniors In Final

Twelve Beall and nine LaSalle seniors will be playing their final high school football game today. The Mountaineers are Ed Finn, Jim Folk, Larry Fresh, Bill Hyde, Joe McGowan, Frank Parry, George Perkins, Dick Plummer, John Schultheis, Bruce Smith, Dale Thomas and Gene Zumpano. The Explorers are Joe Footen, Rich Murray, James Werner, Jack Bahen, Jack Baar, Reggie Lennox, Jim Delany, Bill Blake and Jim Ternent.

Today's game will attract between 1,500 and 2,000 persons to the Mountain City stadium.

Midwest Dominates UPI All-America Grid Team

Cannon, Dawkins Top Voting; Pitt's John Guzik Named

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Midwest boasted numerical domination of the 1958 college football All - America team announced Wednesday by United Press International, but the top individual vote getters came from other sections of the country.

Halfbacks Billy Cannon, who led Louisiana State to the only perfect record among major colleges, and Pete Dawkins, who will perform for an unbeaten Army team against Navy on Saturday, finished 1-2 in a neck-and-neck race for the greatest number of votes.

But the Midwest nailed down four places on the first team compared to just two for the East and one each from the Southwest, Pacific Coast, Midlands, Rockies, and South.

Hard-hitting fullback Bob White of Ohio State and passing ace Randy Duncan of Iowa, the national leader in total offense, joined Cannon and Dawkins in the perfect-balanced backfield.

Pitt Player Picked

The All-America line included Buddy Dial of Rice and Sam Williams of Michigan State at ends; Ted Bates of Oregon State and Brock Strom of the Air Force Academy at tackles; John Guzik of Pittsburgh and Al Ecuyer of Notre Dame at guards; and Bob Harrison of Oklahoma at center.

Of the 33 places at stake on the first three teams the Midwest captured 11, exactly one - third. The South had seven, the East six, the Southwest four, the Pacific Coast three, and the Midlands and the Rockies one each.

Cannon Pulls Most Votes

Cannon, the triple-threat ace of Sugar Bowl bound LSU, nipped Dawkins by just 12 points for top vote-getting honors, drawing 2,276 points out of a possible perfect score of 3,058.

Ecuyer, the far-ranging 205-pound Irish star, was the only holdover from the 1957 squad and also the most popular lineman in the balloting by 278 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation. He polled 1,562 points against 1,551 for Guzik and 1,438 for Harrison.

All of the first team selections were seniors, except for juniors Cannon and White.

Bob Anderson, who teamed up with Dawkins to give Army perhaps the most explosive halfback combination in the land, failed to retain the first-team honors he won last year as a sophomore. However, he was the top vote-getter among backs on the second team.

The closest race was for the second end position on the first team, where Monty Stickles of Notre Dame polled 1,021 points to fall just below Dial and Williams.

Team Sketches

Here are brief sketches of the first-team players:

Dial—A great pass-catcher last year who became a star blocker and defender this year when Rice shifted to a running game, lightest man on the honor squad at 185 pounds; Williams — tallest (six-five) and heaviest (225) man on the squad, called by Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty "best all-around player I've ever had."

Ecuyer — exceptionally good all-America center in five years, great at diagnosing enemy plays and shooting through line gaps for key tackles.

Cannon—200-pounder who averaged 5.9 yards per carry and was extremely dangerous on punt and kickoff returns; Dawkins—a southpaw who runs like an express train and occasionally disrupts the defense with an option pass; Duncan—Nifty passer who completed 58.7 per cent of his tosses for 11 touchdowns and led the nation in yards gained with 1,406, with a 8-2 season record, was undefeated in conference play, Pearl River, with a 7-2 record, was smasher who averaged nearly four yards per whack at the line, tied for runnerup in the Mississippi Junior College Conference.

Anderson's mates in the second team backfield were Dick Bass of College of Pacific, Joe Kapp of California, and Don Meredith of SMU. Up front were ends Stickles and Rich Kreitling of Illinois, tackles Ron Luciano of Syracuse and Val Heckman of Florida, guards George Deidrich of Vanderbilt and Zeke Smith of Auburn, and center Max Fugler of LSU.

Wharton To Play

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — The Hospitality Bowl Wednesday selected Wharton County Junior College, Pioneer Conference champion, as the Texas representative in the fourth annual game here.

Wharton will meet the Pearl River Junior College Wildcats of Poplarville, Miss., Dec. 6. Wharton, w'th a 8-2 season record, was undefeated in conference play. White — a bone - crunching line- backer who averaged nearly four yards per whack at the line.

Midwest Dominates UPI All-America Grid Team

Cannon, Dawkins Top Voting; Pitt's John Guzik Named

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Midwest boasted numerical domination of the 1958 college football All-America team announced Wednesday by United Press International, but the top individual vote getters came from other sections of the country.

Halfbacks Billy Cannon, who led Louisiana State to the only perfect record among major colleges, and Pete Dawkins, who will perform for an unbeaten Army team against Navy on Saturday, finished 1-2 in a neck-and-neck race for the greatest number of votes.

But the Midwest nailed down four places on the first team compared to just two for the East and one each from the Southwest, Pacific Coast, Midlands, Rockies, and South.

Hard-hitting fullback Bob White of Ohio State and passing ace Randy Duncan of Iowa, the national leader in total offense, joined Cannon and Dawkins in the perfect-balanced backfield.

Pitt Player Picked

The All-America line included Buddy Dial of Rice and Sam Williams of Michigan State at ends; Ted Bates of Oregon State and Brock Strom of the Air Force Academy at tackles; John Guzik of Pittsburgh and Al Ecuyer of Notre Dame at guards; and Bob Harrison of Oklahoma at center.

Of the 33 places at stake on the first three teams the Midwest captured 11, exactly one - third. The South had seven, the East six, the Southwest four, the Pacific Coast three, and the Midlands and the Rockies one each.

Cannon Pulls Most Votes

Cannon, the triple-threat ace of Sugar Bowl bound LSU, nipped Dawkins by just 12 points for top vote-getting honors, drawing 2,276 points out of a possible perfect score of 3,058.

Ecuyer, the far-ranging 205-pound Irish star, was the only holdover from the 1957 squad and also the most popular lineman in the balloting by 278 sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation. He polled 1,562 points against 1,551 for Guzik and 1,438 for Harrison.

All of the first team selections were seniors, except for juniors Cannon and White.

Bob Anderson, who teamed up with Dawkins to give Army perhaps the most explosive halfback combination in the land, failed to retain the first-team honors he won last year as a sophomore. However, he was the top vote-getter among backs on the second team.

The closest race was for the second end position on the first team, where Monty Stickles of Notre Dame polled 1,021 points to fall just below Dial and Williams.

Team Sketches

Here are brief sketches of the first-team players:

Dial—A great pass-catcher last year who became a star blocker and defender this year when Rice shifted to a running game, lightest man on the honor squad at 185 pounds; Williams — tallest (six-five) and heaviest (225) man on the squad, called by Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty "best all-around player I've ever had."

Ecuyer — exceptionally good when plays linebackers, an expert at sniffing out and wrecking rivals' plays; Strom—the first All-America in the Air Force's three-year gridiron history is a missile expert in academics and a remarkable blocker and inspirational team leader in football.

Harrison — Oklahoma' third All-America center in five years, great at diagnosing enemy' plays and shooting through line gaps for key tackles.

Cannon—200-pounder who averaged 5.9 yards per carry and was extremely dangerous on punt and kickoff returns; Dawkins—a southpaw who runs like an express train and occasionally disrupts the defense with an option pass; Duncan—Nifty passer who completed 58.7 per cent of his tosses for 11 touchdowns and led the nation in yards gained with 1,406. White — a bone - crunching line-smasher who averaged nearly four yards per whack at the line.

Anderson's mates in the second team backfield were Dick Bass of College of Pacific, Joe Kapp of California, and Don Meredith of SMU. Up front were ends Stickles and Rich Kreitling of Illinois, tackles Ron Luciano of Syracuse and Val Heckman of Florida, guards George Deidrich of Vanderbilt and Zeke Smith of Auburn, and center Max Fugler of LSU.

Aggies-Texas Battle Feature Of Grid Slate

Thanksgiving Day Series Began In 1894

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International

College football clashes that are almost as traditional as Thanksgiving turkey will be played Thursday with the Texas - Texas A & M hassel featuring the day for well-stuffed armchair quarterbacks.

Sports fans who can spare the time from their turkey may stagger to their TV sets at 2:45 p.m., e.s.t. That's when NBC will begin a national telecast of the Texas-Texas A&M game from Austin's Texas Memorial Stadium.

This series began in 1894 and nothing is at stake Thursday except Texas' determination to maintain its traditional domination over the Aggies. Texas holds a whopping lead in the series with 42 victories and is a seven-point choice to win its 65th game with Texas A & M. The Aggies have won 17 times and five games ended in ties.

Texas Uses Split-T

Coach Darrell Royal's Texas squad uses the split-T attack. Bobby Lackey, who scored a touchdown and kicked a field goal for the victory margin in a 9-7 triumph over Texas A & M last year, is Royal's key back. Coach Jim Myers has installed the single wing at Texas A & M. His key performer is Charley Milstead, a tailback who is fifth in the nation in total offense with 1,189 yards.

There is one bowl contest Thursday with an all-star team from the Midwest meeting a squad of eastern standouts in the first Gem City game at Erie, Pa. Coach Frank Regan of Villanova will direct the East squad while Ara Parseghian of Northwestern will coach the Midwesterners. This game will begin at 11 a.m., e.s.t.

The east also will have its usual Thanksgiving features with Pennsylvania meeting Cornell for the 65th time, Pittsburgh playing Penn State for the 58th time and Brown playing Colgate for the 40th time. Penn is favored by seven points, Pitt by five and Brown by 14.

Pitt Hosts State

Penn, with a 4-4 record, will try for its first winning season since 1952 and first since Steve Sebo began coaching the team in 1953. Pennsylvania and Cornell have 4-2 Ivy League records and the winner will finish in a tie for second place. Penn leads in the series with 42 victories against 18 defeats and four ties.

Pitt is the host in a series dating back to 1893. The Panthers have won the game 32 times. Penn State won 22 times and three games ended in deadlocks.

Colgate leads in its series with Brown with 19 victories against 13 losses and seven ties but Brown has won the last two clashes.

Bowl Bid May Be-At-Stake

Virginia Military and Virginia Tech, which began football relations in 1894, meet for the 54th time. Wake Forest and South Carolina meet for the 30th time in the other game involving major southern schools. VMI is a slim, one-point choice while South Carolina is favored by 6½.

A bowl bid may be at stake at Chattanooga, Tenn., where Chattanooga entertains Mississippi Southern. Mississippi Southern (8-0) is ranked No. 1 among small colleges in the nation by the United Press International Board of Coaches and is one of the teams being considered by the Gator Bowl Committee. Chattanooga is No. 7 in the UPI small college ratings. Both clubs have beaten major colleges this season.

Johansson Confident He Can Defeat Patterson

Swede's Manager Seeks Title Bout

By JACK CUDDY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, probably the most confident heavyweight since John L. Sullivan, declared at his first American press conference Wednesday, 'no man can take my punch."

The big, dark - haired, pug-nosed champion of Europe stated definitely, "I'll knock out Floyd Patterson if he defends his title against me."

Unbeaten Ingemar and his advisor, Edwin Ahlqvist, then set March 1 as a tentative deadline for the completion of negotiations for a million-dollar Patterson-Johansson world title fight "somewhere in the United States" next summer.

Ahlqvist said, "I know of no barrier that will prevent making the match, now that the first phase of negotiations has been completed."

Johansson and Ahlqvist, who flew in from Sweden last Thursday and who have been kept incommunicado during the negotiations, will fly back to their homes at Goteburg, Sweden, Thursday.

Meet The Press

They meet the press Wednesday in the jammed office-apartment of Cus D'Aamato, Patterson's manager, who took the blame for keeping the two Swedes hidden since Thursday.

D'Amato said the current negotiations had "successfully clarified" the situation regarding champion Patterson and challenge Johansson. However, when asked if there was any barrier that might prevent closing the match later, D'Amato said, "no comment."

Ahlqvist said, "the next step in the negotiations will be for me to come back here in January and make any appearance before the Washington State Boxing Commission, if necessary. And later, if all terms are agreed upon, Ingemar will come over and sign for the match."

However, if the match is not signed by March 1 he said, "we'll probably begin discussing a European title defense against the winner of the Brian London-Henry Cooper fight in London."

No Process Servers

No process servers had appeared at the D'Amato quarters when the conference had ended. There had been rumors the real reason the Swedes remained in hiding was to evade process servers in connection with suits threatened by the managers of heavyweight contenders Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif., and Pat McMurtry of Tacoma, Wash.

Machen's manager, Sid Flaherty, claims Ahlqvist signed an agreement guaranteeing Machen a return bout if he lost to Johansson at Goteburg, Sept. 14. Johansson, weighing 198¼ and standing six feet and onehalf inch, knocked out Mac Hen in the first round. It was his 21st straight professional victory and 14th knockout.

Ahlqvist explained Wednesday: "On the day before the fight, Flaherty thratened to pull Machen out of the bout unless I signed the returnbout agreement. We were already sold out for 54,500 tickets at about $300,000. So I signed. But I made clear to Flaherty that I wasn't Johansson's manager because our contract had expired, and I was only the promoter and his advisor. Also that he was obtaining the agreement under duress. It won't hold water in court".

TOP LINEMAN — Buddy Dial, swift, hard-tackling Rice Institute end, has been named lineman of the week by the Associated Press. Dial was selected on the basis of his performance last Saturday against Texas Christian University. (AP Wirephoto)

Fay's Ace Wins Third Time In Last 4 Races

JAMAICA, N. Y., Nov. 26 (AP) —Lawrence H. Thompson's Fay's Ace won his third race in the last four starts by taking the Tuckahoe Purse at Foggy Jamaica Race Track today.

The 3-year-old son of Ace Admiral-Fay Foo, ridden by Larry Gilligan, was rated off the pace set by Jan Burke's Drum Beater and then came on in the stretch to win handily by a length and a half over George Zauderer's Trim Beau, who finished a length to the good of Alvin Handmacher's Icy Day.

Fay's Ace stepped the six furlongs in the moderate time of 1:12 2/5.

Solid choice with the crowd of 15,485, Fay's Ace returned mutuels of $5.30, $3.20 and $2.20. Trim Beau paid $3.60 and $2.50 and Icy Day was $2.40 to show.

Dr. Herb Cops Feature Race At Pimlico

Wins Hagerstown Purse Handily

BALTIMORE, Nov. 27 (AP) — Dr. Herb, fast-stepping 2-year-old owned and trained locally by Joe Serio Jr., completely outclassed rivals in the featured Hagerstown Purse here at Pimlico today when he won without being fully extended.

Working under a $13,000 claim tag and ridden by Steve Brooks, leading rider of the meeting, Dr. Herb reached the finish of the five-and-a-half furlong run about three lengths in front of Cedar Farm's Fire Captain while Allen B. Hummer's Kiperic took the show award.

Dr. Herb returned a $3.80 for each $2 on his nose and the son of Buy and Sell and Sename ran the abbreviated distance in 1:07 3/5. It was obvious the colt could have gone faster had it been necessary.

It was one of the most comfortable rides of the meeting for Brooks, who has chalked up 14 tallies as compared to seven winners each for Nick Shuk and David Gorman, who are tied for the runner-up spot in the local saddle contest.

Most of the races on the 12th program of the Maryland Jockey Club's 30-day meeting were won by frontrunners and, in the seventh race, Big Winner, owned by P. M. Grissom, of Detroit, stepped to the lead on the clubhouse turn and ran a mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 3/5 to win handily.

In fact, the three-year-old was being eased up by Joe Regalbuto when he crossed the finish three panels in front of Kermac Stable's Albia with Sky Light finishing third under the Julray Stable silks.

The first race went to the Curragh ($26.80) and the second heat went to Can's Sag ($11.20) for a daily double return of $159.40 on the lucky numbers 5 and 3.

Ed Tutwiler Gains Honor

Beats West As W.Va. Amateur Of Year

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Golf ace Ed Tutwiler of Charleston edged West Virginia basketball star Jerry West for 1958 West Virginia amateur athlete-of-the-year honors, it was announced Wednesday.

Tutwiler, winner of the amateur title eight times in 11 years, received 17 votes to 16 for West in the annual State Sports Writers Assn. poll.

He will be honored at the association's 14th annual Victory Awards Dinner in Huntington, tentatively scheduled for next January.

Tutwiler, father of three children, began his golfing career at the age of 10. His first tournament victory came at the age of 15 when he won the White Oak Club championship at Oak Hill.

Only other nominees to receive more than one vote for the amateur honor were Marshall College basketball star Hal Greer and state women's golf champion Berridge Long of Huntington.

Other nominees included Marshall College basketball star Leo Byrd; Terry Fairbanks, Lloyd Sharrar and Dave Tork, all of West Virginia University sports teams; Dieter Garrett, ex - Dunbar high track star, and Princeton High School basketball player Rod Thorn.

Boxing Rackets Probe Continued

NEW YORK (AP) — General Sessions Judge Charles Marks Wednesday extended until next April 30 the life of the New York County grand jury which is investigating charges of racketeering and corruption in professional boxing.

The extension of the grand jury's life, which began last April, was requested by Alfred J. Scotti, chief assistant district attorney.

Scotti told the court that the grand jury had not completed its work. Since its inception, the grand jury has indicted several alleged figures of the underworld as undercover fight managers, including Frankie Carbo, reputed underworld czar of boxing, who still is a fugitive from the indictment.

It is a far cry from the scene of the first Thanksgiving to the festive tables in modern, efficient homes at which we celebrate the holiday today. But, basic to the proper observance of the Day is the same spirit of devout thanksfulness for the blessings vouchsafed to us by a Divine Providence . . . the same steadfast dedication to maintaining those freedoms for which the founders of our country braved the hazards of the New World.

Aggies-Texas Battle Feature Of Grid Slate

Thanksgiving Day Series Began In 1894

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International

College football clashes that are almost as traditional as Thanksgiving turkey will be played Thursday with the Texas - Texas A & M hassel featuring the day for well-stuffed armchair quarterbacks.

Sports fans who can spare the time from their turkey may stagger to their TV sets at 2:45 p.m., e.s.t. That's when NBC will begin a national telecast of the Texas-Texas A&M game from Austin's Texas Memorial Stadium.

This series began in 1894 and nothing is at stake Thursday except Texas' determination to maintain its traditional domination over the Aggies. Texas holds a whopping lead in the series with 42 victories and is a seven-point choice to win its 65th game with Texas A & M. The Aggies have won 17 times and five games ended in ties.

Texas Uses Split-T

Coach Darrell Royal's Texas squad uses the split-T attack. Bobby Lackey, who scored a touchdown and kicked a field goal for the victory margin in a 9-7 triumph over Texas A & M last year, is Royal's key back. Coach Jim Myers has installed the single wing at Texas A & M. His key performer is Charley Milstead, a tailback who is fifth in the nation in total offense with 1,189 yards.

There is one bowl contest Thursday with an all-star team from the Midwest meeting a squad of eastern standouts in the first Gem City game at Erie, Pa. Coach Frank Regan of Villanova will direct the East squad while Ara Parseghian of Northwestern will coach the Midwesterners. This game will begin at 11 a.m., e.s.t.

The east also will have its usual Thanksgiving features with Pennsylvania meeting Cornell for the 65th time, Pittsburgh playing Penn State for the 58th time and Brown playing Colgate for the 40th time. Penn is favored by seven points, Pitt by five and Brown by 14.

Pitt Hosts State

Penn, with a 4-4 record, will try for its first winning season since 1952 and first since Steve Sebo began coaching the team in 1953. Pennsylvania and Cornell have 4-2 Ivy League records and the winner will finish in a tie for second place. Penn leads in the series with 42 victories against 18 defeats and four ties.

Pitt is the host in a series dating back to 1893. The Panthers have won the game 32 times. Penn State won 22 times and three games ended in deadlocks.

Colgate leads in its series with Brown with 19 victories against 13 losses and seven ties but Brown has won the last two clashes.

Bowl Bid May Be-At-Stake

Virginia Military and Virginia Tech, which began football relations in 1894, meet for the 54th time. Wake Forest and South Carolina meet for the 30th time in the other game involving major southern schools. VMI is a slim, one-point choice while South Carolina is favored by 6½.

A bowl bid may be at stake at Chattanooga, Tenn., where Chattanooga entertains Mississippi Southern. Mississippi Southern (8-0) is ranked No. 1 among small colleges in the nation by the United Press International Board of Coaches and is one of the teams being considered by the Gator Bowl Committee. Chattanooga is No. 7 in the UPI small college ratings. Both clubs have beaten major colleges this season.

Johansson Confident He Can Defeat Patterson

Swede's Manager Seeks Title Bout

By JACK CUDDY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, probably the most confident heavyweight since John L. Sullivan, declared at his first American press conference Wednesday, 'no man can take my punch."

The big, dark - haired, pug-nosed champion of Europe stated definitely, "I'll knock out Floyd Patterson if he defends his title against me."

Unbeaten Ingemar and his advisor, Edwin Ahlqvist, then set March 1 as a tentative deadline for the completion of negotiations for a million-dollar Patterson-Johansson world title fight "somewhere in the United States" next summer.

Ahlqvist said, "I know of no barrier that will prevent making the match, now that the first phase of negotiations has been completed."

Johansson and Ahlqvist, who flew in from Sweden last Thursday and who have been kept incommunicado during the negotiations, will fly back to their homes at Goteburg, Sweden, Thursday.

Meet The Press

They meet the press Wednesday in the jammed office-apartment of Cus D'Aamato, Patterson's manager, who took the blame for keeping the two Swedes hidden since Thursday.

D'Amato said the current negotiations had "successfully clarified" the situation regarding champion Patterson and challenge Johansson. However, when asked if there was any barrier that might prevent closing the match later, D'Amato said, "no comment."

Ahlqvist said, "the next step in the negotiations will be for me to come back here in January and make any appearance before the Washington State Boxing Commission, if necessary. And later, if all terms are agreed upon, Ingemar will come over and sign for the match."

However, if the match is not signed by March 1 he said, "we'll probably begin discussing a European title defense against the winner of the Brian London-Henry Cooper fight in London."

No Process Servers

No process servers had appeared at the D'Amato quarters when the conference had ended. There had been rumors the real reason the Swedes remained in hiding was to evade process servers in connection with suits threatened by the managers of heavyweight contenders Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif., and Pat McMurtry of Tacoma, Wash.

Machen's manager, Sid Flaherty, claims Ahlqvist signed an agreement guaranteeing Machen a return bout if he lost to Johansson at Goteburg, Sept. 14. Johansson, weighing 198¼ and standing six feet and onehalf inch, knocked out Mac Hen in the first round. It was his 21st straight professional victory and 14th knockout.

Ahlqvist explained Wednesday: "On the day before the fight, Flaherty thratened to pull Machen out of the bout unless I signed the returnbout agreement. We were already sold out for 54,500 tickets at about $300,000. So I signed. But I made clear to Flaherty that I wasn't Johansson's manager because our contract had expired, and I was only the promoter and his advisor. Also that he was obtaining the agreement under duress. It won't hold water in court".

Fay's Ace Wins Third Time In Last 4 Races

JAMAICA, N. Y., Nov. 26 (AP) —Lawrence H. Thompson's Fay's Ace won his third race in the last four starts by taking the Tuckahoe Purse at Foggy Jamaica Race Track today.

The 3-year-old son of Ace Admiral-Fay Foo, ridden by Larry Gilligan, was rated off the pace set by Jan Burke's Drum Beater and then came on in the stretch to win handily by a length and a half over George Zauderer's Trim Beau, who finished a length to the good of Alvin Handmacher's Icy Day.

Fay's Ace stepped the six furlongs in the moderate time of 1:12 2/5.

Solid choice with the crowd of 15,485, Fay's Ace returned mutuels of $5.30, $3.20 and $2.20. Trim Beau paid $3.60 and $2.50 and Icy Day was $2.40 to show.

Dr. Herb Cops Feature Race At Pimlico

Wins Hagerstown Purse Handily

BALTIMORE, Nov. 27 (AP) — Dr. Herb, fast-stepping 2-year-old owned and trained locally by Joe Serio Jr., completely outclassed rivals in the featured Hagerstown Purse here at Pimlico today when he won without being fully extended.

Working under a $13,000 claim tag and ridden by Steve Brooks, leading rider of the meeting, Dr. Herb reached the finish of the five-and-a-half furlong run about three lengths in front of Cedar Farm's Fire Captain while Allen B. Hummer's Kiperic took the show award.

Dr. Herb returned a $3.80 for each $2 on his nose and the son of Buy and Sell and Sename ran the abbreviated distance in 1:07 3/5. It was obvious the colt could have gone faster had it been necessary.

It was one of the most comfortable rides of the meeting for Brooks, who has chalked up 14 tallies as compared to seven winners each for Nick Shuk and David Gorman, who are tied for the runner-up spot in the local saddle contest.

Most of the races on the 12th program of the Maryland Jockey Club's 30-day meeting were won by frontrunners and, in the seventh race, Big Winner, owned by P. M. Grissom, of Detroit, stepped to the lead on the clubhouse turn and ran a mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 3/5 to win handily.

In fact, the three-year-old was being eased up by Joe Regalbuto when he crossed the finish three panels in front of Kermac Stable's Albia with Sky Light finishing third under the Julray Stable silks.

The first race went to the Curragh ($26.80) and the second heat went to Can's Sag ($11.20) for a daily double return of $159.40 on the lucky numbers 5 and 3.

The picture has changed, but the spirit abides . . .
It is a far cry from the scene of the first Thanksgiving to the festive tables in modern, efficient homes at which we celebrate the holiday today. But, basic to the proper observance of the Day is the same spirit of devout thankfulness for the blessings vouchsafed to us by a Divine Providence . . . the same steadfast dedication to maintaining those freedoms for which the founders of our country braved the hazards of the New World.

Better Athletes

ATLANTA (AP) — "College football teams are more nearly matched in potential than ever before," says Coach Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech. "Every college has so many good players that they can click on a certain day and beat any of the others. Look at the upsets every week. It all goes back to the fact that high school coaching is so improved because of coaching clinics and other factors, and they are sending better prepared athletes to college."

Dodd calls the improved balance of power from coast to coast the outstanding development in college football for 1958.

Students Put On Probation

Michigan Group Sold Spot Cards

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Five University of Michigan students have been placed on probation for their part in the sale of football spot cards.

Better Athletes

ATLANTA (AP) — "College football teams are more nearly matched in potential than ever before," says Coach Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech. "Every college has so many good players that they can click on a certain day and beat any of the others. Look at the upsets every week. It all goes back to the fact that high school coaching is so improved because of coaching clinics and other factors, and they are sending better prepared athletes to college."

Dodd calls the improved balance of power from coast to coast the outstanding development in college football for 1958.

George Hosh Victor At 'Gansett

156th Winner Of Year For Trainer

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 26 (AP)—C. F. Chapman's George Hosh today became the 156th winner of the year for F. H. Merrill, Jr., leading North American trainer this season, when he won the Bristol Handicap No. 4 at Narragansett Park.

The 4-year-old son of Helidorus scored by two lengths over the favorite of the crowd of 6,646, Mrs. Julie Miron's Collision, finishing the mile and three-quarters in 3:03 4/5.

The entry of George Hosh and Mrs. N. C. Harrington's Miss Elena paid $8 to win, $3 to place and $2.80 to show. Collision returned $2.40 and $2.60. Eight lengths back of the favorite was N. J. Nichols' Twos Company, paying $4.40 to show.

The double payoff, $639.40, was the second highest at the meeting, the peak having been on Nov. 4 when it was $839.20. There were 63 two-dollar tickets sold on the winning combination, G. S. Colella's Switcherette, winner of the first at 28 to 1, and K. D. Smith's Fight Inflation which took the second at 4½ to 1.

Students Put On Probation

Michigan Group Sold Spot Cards

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Five University of Michigan students have been placed on probation for their part in the sale of football spot cards.

Included in the group are two athletes, basketball captain Jack Lewis and football fullback Tony Rio.

The probation action was taken by the university on recommendation of the Joint Judiciary Council, a 10-member student government group.

Probation prohibits taking part in any extra curricular activity.

The probation will be effective for the remainder of the school year. Thus Rio would be eligible for football next season provided the athletic department and the Big Ten Conference approved. Lewis must miss the basketball season.

Others placed on probation were Michael Dodgson of Grand Rapids, Nick Mitea of Ecorse and John Miller of Utica. All were charged with conduct unbecoming a student.

Reindeer are being raised in Scotland for the first time in 800 years.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Appreciatively Yours

Every year around Thanksgiving time we are reminded to count our blessings—and most of us do gratefully recount the material and spiritual gains from which we have benefited. But the older I grow the more convinced I am that we are often tempted to a surface show of gratitude. We acknowledge only the most obvious of our blessings. And we do that all too infrequently.

The secret of true gratitude lies much, much deeper. It lies in a keen, active, day by day sense of appreciation. The kind of appreciation that can enjoy and even rejoice at some beauty or good that does not necessarily mean material returns or selfish gain. What a dreary old world this would be if we didn't notice anything else. You don't have to wander far to find beauty to appreciate—if you see with an appreciative eye.

This means going beyond the mere noticing of things. You might call it "observation with a meaning," giving the most commonplace, everyday occurrence a place in your private store of experience or beauty. A place in which it can grow and bloom with each new day.

Now if you think I'm going to talk about the beauty of a sunset, a fog, or a sudden friendly smile from a stranger, or of the grandeur of a tree, the marvel of a tall building, the wonder of a big bridge, or the serenity of a familiar neighborhood—I am! It is just those things and the hundreds of other daily sights and occurrences that I am talking about! To see and to hear them is one thing. To feel and appreciate their meaning to you is a far greater thing.

A lack of appreciation or gratitude for small things is a terrible waste. A personal waste that will in time affect the whole personality. Its lack will wither a man or woman far more effectively and quickly than age ever could.

This Thanksgiving count ALL your blessings and count a keen sense of true appreciation the greatest of all.

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, return envelope.

Spotlessly Clean

He graded himself on cleanliness. According to the records, for 50 years he checked his personal score on cleanliness every single day. Franklin simply recognized the importance of daily cleanliness—of liberally applying soap and water.

Modern beauty and health experts agree with Benjamin Franklin. Soap lather, a very prominent TV make-up man recently told me, is a woman's best friend.

However, we want to emphasize that the WAY you wash with soap and water is very significant. Dry skins have to be washed gently, normal skins with moderate energy. Oily skins can take a vigorous scrubbing.

Also note, not everyone should use the same kind of soap. The secret is to use the right soap for your skin type.

For example, if you have dry skin always remove your cosmetics with a creamy cleanser. Then wash your face but once a day with a super-fatter or lanolin-based complexion soap. If you have oily skin, cleanse your face at least three times daily with a floating soap. If you have normal skin, use a mild facial soap and wash the face upon arising and at bedtime. If you have a dual problem—a combination of dry and oily areas—you must treat each separately. Lather the oily sections with floating soap three times daily, the remainder only once a day, preferably before retiring.

Tomorrow: Babushkas to Burn

Priest Gains Seat

LONDON (UPI) — The Rev. Peter Gilbey, a Benedictine monk, will take a day off from his duties as assistant priest of St. Alban's Roman Catholic Church in Warrington Thursday and assume his seat in the House of Lords. Father Gilbey became the ninth Baron Vaux of Harrowden six months ago on the death of his mother, the eldest daughter of the seventh baron.

Still Time To Mail Overseas Packages

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Transport Assn. said Tuesday that Christmas packages for servicemen overseas will still get there on time if mailed by air before Dec. 10.

Frank J. Macklin, air mail committee secretary for the airline trade group, said that Christmas parcels weighing up to 70 pounds may be sent overseas by air. Prior to last July, the limit was two pounds.

Cat Burglar Caught

BROADSTONE, England (UPI) —Broadstone's wool-gathering cat burglar has proved to be just that —a cat. Mrs. Katherine Carter posted a sign on her gate saying that missing items likely would be found inside. She said that Marco Polo, her pet cat, had brought home knitted gloves, sweaters and other woollens from his nocturnal raids.

Gratitude nourishes your personality, as a Thanksgiving Dinner—fills you!

Secrets Of Charm

Appreciatively Yours

Every year around Thanksgiving time we are reminded to count our blessings—and most of us do gratefully recount the material and spiritual gains from which we have benefited. But the older I grow the more convinced I am that we are often tempted to a surface show of gratitude. We acknowledge only the most obvious of our blessings. And we do that all too infrequently.

The secret of true gratitude lies much, much deeper. It lies in a keen, active, day by day sense of appreciation. The kind of appreciation that can enjoy and even rejoice at some beauty or good that does not necessarily mean material returns or selfish gain. What a dreary old world this would be if we didn't notice anything else. You don't have to wander far to find beauty to appreciate—if you see with an appreciative eye.

This means going beyond the mere noticing of things. You might call it "observation with a meaning," giving the most commonplace, everyday occurrence a place in your private store of experience or beauty. A place in which it can grow and bloom with each new day.

Now if you think I'm going to talk about the beauty of a sunset, a fog, or a sudden friendly smile from a stranger, or of the grandeur of a tree, the marvel of a tall building, the wonder of a big bridge, or the serenity of a familiar neighborhood—I am! It is just those things and the hundreds of other daily sights and occurrences that I am talking about! To see and to hear them is one thing. To feel and appreciate their meaning to you is a far greater thing.

A lack of appreciation or gratitude for small things is a terrible waste. A personal waste that will in time affect the whole personality. Its lack will wither a man or woman far more effectively and quickly than age ever could.

This Thanksgiving count ALL your blessings and count a keen sense of true appreciation the greatest of all.

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, return envelope.

Spotlessly Clean

He graded himself on cleanliness. According to the records, for 50 years he checked his personal score on cleanliness every single day. Franklin simply recognized the importance of daily cleanliness—of liberally applying soap and water.

Modern beauty and health experts agree with Benjamin Franklin. Soap lather, a very prominent TV make-up man recently told me, is a woman's best friend.

However, we want to emphasize that the WAY you wash with soap and water is very significant. Dry skins have to be washed gently, normal skins with moderate energy. Oily skins can take a vigorous scrubbing.

Also note, not everyone should use the same kind of soap. The secret is to use the right soap for your skin type.

For example, if you have dry skin always remove your cosmetics with a creamy cleanser. Then wash your face but once a day with a super-fatter or lanolin-based complexion soap. If you have oily skin, cleanse your face at least three times daily with a floating soap. If you have normal skin, use a mild facial soap and wash the face upon arising and at bedtime. If you have a dual problem—a combination of dry and oily areas—you must treat each separately. Lather the oily sections with floating soap three times daily, the remainder only once a day, preferably before retiring.

Tomorrow: Babushkas to Burn

SECRETS OF SKIN CARE. Is yours a dry skin, oily skin, or a combination oily-dry? Now learn the right care of all types of skin. To get your copy of "Secrets of Skin Care," send 25c and a stamped, return envelope to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this paper.

Priest Gains Seat

LONDON (UPI) — The Rev. Peter Gilbey, a Benedictine monk, will take a day off from his duties as assistant priest of St. Alban's Roman Catholic Church in Warrington Thursday and assume his seat in the House of Lords. Father Gilbey became the ninth Baron Vaux of Harrowden six months ago on the death of his mother, the eldest daughter of the seventh baron.

Still Time To Mail Overseas Packages

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Transport Assn. said Tuesday that Christmas packages for servicemen overseas will still get there on time if mailed by air before Dec. 10.

Frank J. Macklin, air mail committee secretary for the airline trade group, said that Christmas parcels weighing up to 70 pounds may be sent overseas by air. Prior to last July, the limit was two pounds.

Cat Burglar Caught

BROADSTONE, England (UPI) —Broadstone's wool-gathering cat burglar has proved to be just that —a cat. Mrs. Katherine Carter posted a sign on her gate saying that missing items likely would be found inside. She said that Marco Polo, her pet cat, had brought home knitted gloves, sweaters and other woollens from his nocturnal raids.

Two Killed In Turnpike Tunnel Crash

Tractor-Trailer Driver Sought By Authorities

SOMERSET, Pa. UPI — An elderly couple from Oakmont, Pa., near Pittsburgh, was killed and an Illinois woman was injured Wednesday in a fiery multiple-vehicle collision in the Allegheny Tunnel of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

State police immediately sent out an all points alert for the driver of a tractor-trailer which triggered the accident and failed to stop at the scene.

Prescription Traced

The dead were identified as George W. Petrie Jr., about 70, and his wife, Mable, about 67. They were burned beyond recognition and even the license plate on their car could not be determined because the numbers had melted. Identification finally was made hours later by tracing the name on a medicine bottle found in the glove compartment of the death car.

Corporal Howard Repphert of the Everett state police barracks, said the Petries were en route to spend the Thanksgiving holiday with their son, daughter-in-law and grandchildren in Silver Spring, Md.

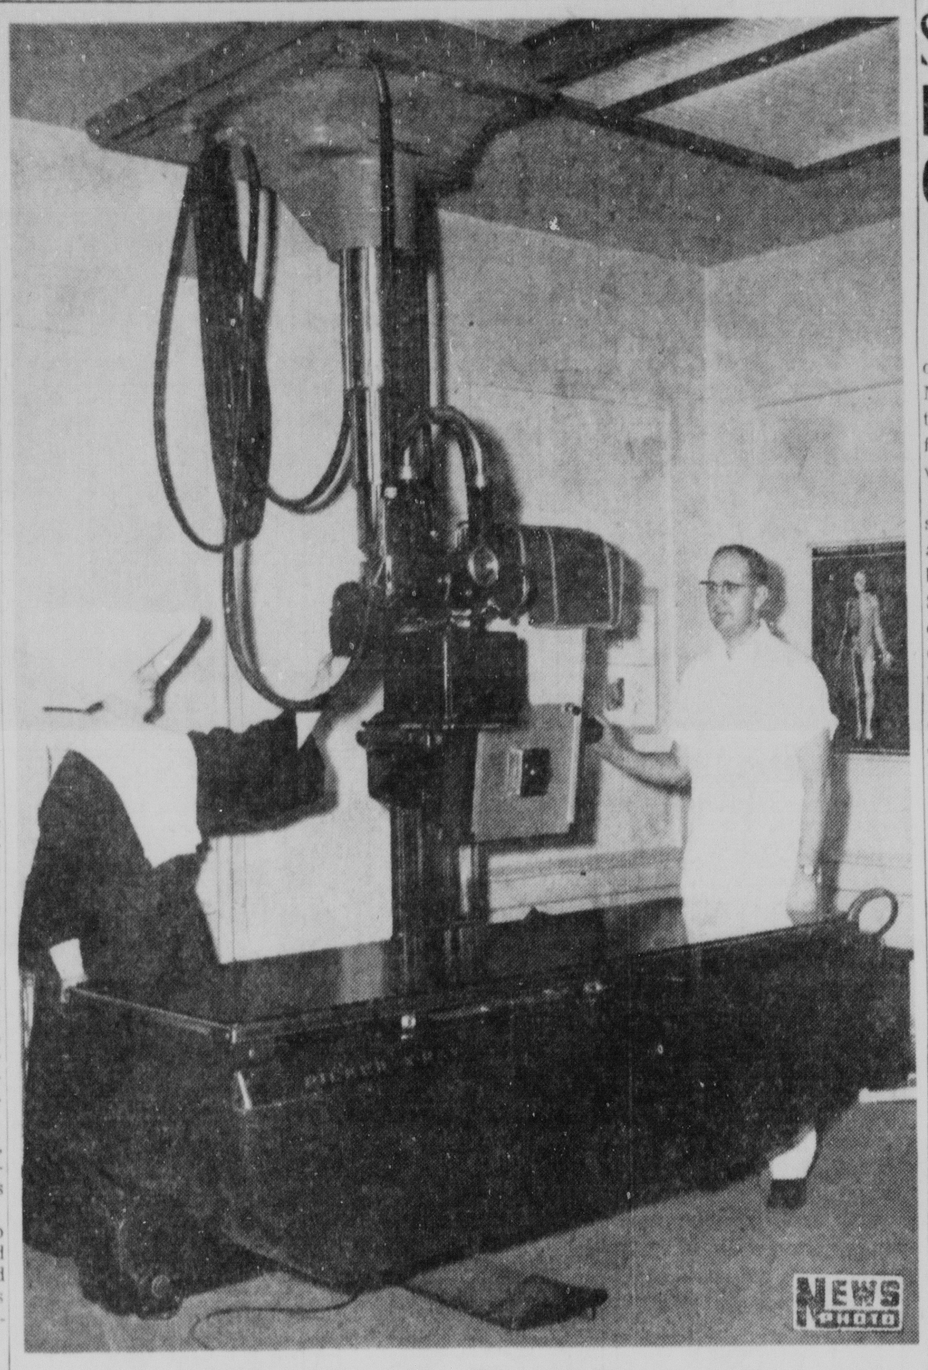
Mrs. Dorothy Weiss, 58, Chicago, Ill., was taken to Somerset Community Hospital. Her condition was listed as fair.

The violent chain-reaction pileup occurred at about 11:15 a.m. and was followed by a gasoline - fed fire that engulfed five vehicles and sent dense, black smoke billowing through the tunnel.

5 Vehicles Destroyed

Heavy Thanksgiving holiday traffic was jammed for a mile in either direction when the tunnel was shut down. Alternate routes were set up between the Somerset and Bedford turnpike interchanges.

State police said three passenger cars, a three-quarter ton panel truck and a tow-truck pulling the cab section of a tractor - trailer were destroyed in the crash and ensuing fire.



New X-Ray For Hospital

Sister Mary Louise of the Daughters of Charity and Charles K. Blauch, technician, inspect the new diagnostic X-ray unit at Sacred Heart Hospital, installation of which was completed yesterday at a cost of about $25,000. The new unit, about twice as powerful as the old one it replaced, is the second major project completed at the hospital under a recent Ford Foundation grant. The first involved installation of a sprinkler system. The X-ray unit was installed by Queen City Electric Company.

Salaries Raised For Registers, Court Clerks

Stewart, Boden Upped To $7,200

Salaries of all of the registers of wills and clerks of court of Maryland have been raised by the State Board of Public Works for the new terms to which they were just elected November 4.

As a result of these general salary boosts, authorized by 1957 acts of the General Assembly, both Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart and Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, are increased from $5,400 to $7,200 a year salary.

The Board of Public Works, which disclosed the increases, includes Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, State Comptroller and Governor-elect J. Millard Tawes and State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles.

Ranks Fifth

As a result of the increased salaries, Mr. Stewart ranks fifth among the 23 county registers of wills. Eight other registers received boosts of more that the $1,800 allotted to the Allegany County man.

Leading the pack is the Baltimore County register of wills, whose salary was boosted $4,500 from $7,500 to $12,000. Frederick and Montgomery counties rank next with $8,500 each, a $2,000 increase, and Washington County is fourth at $7,500, up $2,000.

Registers of wills ranking below Allegany County in salary are Prince George's, $6,500; Anne Arundel, Carroll, Harford, Talbot and Wicomico, $6,000 each; Howard, $5,800; Cecil and Dorchester, $5,500 each; Garrett, Caroline and Queen Anne's, $5,400; Kent, $5,200; Charles, $5,000; St. Mary's, Somerset and Worcester, $4,500 each, and Calvert County is last at $4,000.

Even with the increase in salary, Mr. Boden still ranks in a three-way tie for ninth place among the 23 counties. Ten clerks received increases of more than Mr. Boden's $1,800. They ranged up to $4,500 for Baltimore County.

Washington Higher

Clerks of court in Baltimore, Montgomery and Prince George's counties all are getting $12,000 a year under the new schedule. Others above Allegany County are Anne Arundel, $9,000; Frederick, $8,500; Washington and Wicomico, $8,000 each, and St. Mary's County, $7,500.

Tied with Allegany County at $7,200 are Cecil and Harford counties. Worcester's clerks get $6,500 and the other 11 clerks, including the one in Garrett County, are all bracketed together at $6,000.

Authority to raise the salaries of the registers of wills and clerks of court were granted by the General Assembly in Chapters 789 and 635 of the 1957 acts.

Chapter 789, which was introduced in the General Assembly as House Bill 618, covers all of the clerks of court. It specifies that all of the clerks in Baltimore City are to be raised to $12,000 annually each and in Anne Arundel County the range shall be from a minimum of $7,500 to a maximum of $9,000.

Limits Are Set

The salaries shall be no lower than $4,500 and no more than $12,000 and are to be determined by the State Board of Public Works on the basis of the relative value of business and receipts in each such office.

Chapter 635, which was introduced as House Bill 617, provides that the salaries of registers of wills shall range between a minimum of $2,500 and a maximum of $12,000. It specifically states that the Baltimore City register of wills shall receive $12,000 a year.

The Board of Public Works, in establishing salaries for the various registers of wills, shall be governed by the population of the county, the dollar value of total fees and taxes collected.

Each register of wills is to receive a fair and adequate compensation for his efforts and duties required of him by his office and the value and character of work done by him, the bill states.

SFC. STERLING A. WEBSTER

Army Adds Recruiter To Cumberland Station

A third Army recruiter has been assigned to the local sub-station, M/Sgt. Wesley C. Hartley, recruiter in charge, said yesterday.

Sfc. Sterling A. Webster, a native of Berkeley Springs, W. Va. will assist Sgt. Hartley and M/Sgt. Virgil Smith at the local station with headquarters in the Post Office building. The local station has established a record in recruiting and additional personnel is needed, Sgt. Hartley said, to take care of interviews, processing and the other details of enlisting.

Sgt. Webster has been on recruiting duty the past four years in Charleston, W. Va. He has been in the Army since March 1943 when he enlisted and was assigned to serve during World War II with the 322d Engineer Combat Battalion of the 97th Infantry Division in the European Theatre of Operations. During the Korean War he was on recruiting duty for a short time in Charleston and later went to Japan where he served as camp engineer at Camp Drake.

Sgt. Smith considers Berkeley Springs his hometown and he is familiar with this area. He is married to the former Nancy J. Brill, also of Berkeley Springs. They have two daughters, ages six and two years. He will move his family here as soon as housing is available.

Thanksgiving Food Distributed To 75 Families

Thanksgiving food was distributed to some 75 families yesterday by the Associated Charities office at City Hall.

Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary, said students of the Tri-Hi-Y at Fort Hill and Allegany high schools as well as their teachers donated food and money to assure the families a Thanksgiving meal. She commended the students and teachers for their interest in helping others.

Food orders given to two separate families were donated by the Auxiliary Unit of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, and Alpha Sigma Alpha Sorority.

The Associated Charities office was busy all day yesterday getting the food to the families.

Police Sergeant Brown Demoted To Patrolman

Appeal Possible Within Five Days

Sgt. James W. Brown of the Cumberland Police Department has been demoted to patrolman effective tomorrow, Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming indicated yesterday.

In a letter to Sgt. Brown, Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn said the demotion was the result of charges of neglect of duty in Brown's failure to arrest the chief's son, Robert Emmett Flynn Jr., 22, on November 6 in connection with three assault cases.

The letter was approved by Commissioner Fleming and was served on Sgt. Brown on Tuesday. The letter added:

"If you desire to appeal this demotion, you must file notice of such an appeal with the Civil Service Commission of Cumberland within five days of the date of the service of this letter upon you (see section (i) as found on page 4 of the Rules of the Civil Service Commission relating to Police and Fire."

Commissioner Fleming said he asked for statements from Sgt. Brown and other investigating officers following the three "muggings" which occurred here on November 6, when three local persons, including a 74-year-old man, were assaulted by two young men.

Robert Flynn Jr., and George Robert Keller, 23, of 239 Henderson Avenue, entered pleas of guilty in the assaults yesterday in Circuit Court. (Story on page 26).

Local Church To Launch Used Clothing Drive

First Presbyterian Church has designated Sunday as "Clothing Sunday" to help launch a used clothing drive under the direction of the United Clothing Appeal.

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor, said the church also will be host Sunday to Rev. Raymond Provost and his wife, Mrs. Mariella Provost, ministers, who are on leave of absence from their station in Korea.

The Provosts will speak to the Sunday school and Rev. Provost will speak at the morning worship service and give an account of their work in Korea.

The United Clothing Appeal is an organization within all Protestant churches of the United States that collects good used clothing to be distributed all over the world to the needy.

Plans are being made to make this a permanent organization because of the extreme need for used clothing overseas for refugees and others in distress. The goal for 1958 is 10 million pounds, of which the Presbyterian Church in the United States is obligated for two million pounds. From February to the last of September, 634,000 pounds were collected.

Living Stone Church of the Brethren, North Cedar Street, also has been designated as a collection cented for this area. All clothing collected in the area will be picked up by a truck working under Church World Service, a relief agency of the National Council of Churches.

A processing charge of eight cents per pound for handling is made against the contributing churches. The clothing is handled free of charge by steamship lines in the transportation overseas.

Anyone wishing to donate clothing may do so by dropping it off at either of the local churches. Contributions toward the processing charges also may be made to either of the local churches.

Pilgrim Fathers Wouldn't Recognize Thanksgiving

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

With Indians as guests around tables laden with game and fish, wild fruits from the forest and vegetables from their new gardens, the Pilgrim Fathers celebrated their first American harvest festival in Plymouth Colony during the fall of 1621.

Can you imagine how Governor William Bradford, Indian Chief Massasoit, the pilgrims and braves would marvel at the conveniences of a modern-day Thanksgiving?

What a surprise it would be for them to discover prepared foods in deep freeze lockers, modern cooking facilities with after - dinner entertainment by color television and hi-fi music in ranch-type homes.

During the fall of 1621 the hunter who stalked the forest in search of food for the table had to have a keen eye and steady trigger finger. Long hours had been spent in the family garden that summer where vegetables were raised for survival the following winter.

It's Easier Now

Today, supermarkets across the nation abound with plump turkeys and chickens, frozen vegetables, prepared cake mixes, brown-and-serve rolls, ice cream and instant coffee. Food placed in the oven today is cooked with a controlling mechanism operated at the flip of the wrist.

After the family dinner, one can ease back into a chair, prop up his feet and watch a favorite television program or listen to soothing high fidelity music of the artists.

This nation of ours has a lot for which to be thankful today—Thanksgiving 1958.

How It Started

The Pilgrim Fathers realized their blessings the year after they reached the shores of this country and thus the great holiday came into being.

For years the festival was almost exclusively a New England institution marked by religious services in the churches.

The celebration spread to other sections of the young America and it was in 1863, over 240 years after the original festival, that President Abraham Lincoln issued a proclamation in which he "appointed and set aside" the last Thursday of November as a national day of Thanksgiving.

Up until 1939, each President followed Lincoln's example in proclaiming the last Thursday of November as a day of national Thanksgiving.

That year President Franklin D. Roosevelt, desiring to lengthen the interval between Thanksgiving and Christmas, named the next to the last Thursday as the date for the annual celebration.

In December of 1941 Congress passed a joint resolution, supported by the President, making the fourth Thursday of November a legal holiday.

Two Clubs Hear Discussion Of Thanksgiving

Rev. William J. Cox, vicar of Holy Cross and St. Philip's Episcopal churches here, told a joint meeting of the Cumberland Lions and Kiwanis clubs yesterday at Central YMCA, that the people of the United States should be thankful for their blessings but should be more willing to share their abundance with the needy in other lands.

Father Cox also explained that Thanksgiving Day is not strictly an American observance. There have been Thanksgiving days from earliest times. The three major feasts for the Jews, Passover, Pentecost and the Feast of the Tabernacles, are all feasts of thanksgiving.

In the Christian religion, the word Eucharist given as one title for the Holy Communion, is from a Greek word meaning thanksgiving.

Before his remarks, members of the two clubs combined in singing Thanksgiving selections. An octet, composed of members of both clubs, sang "Faith of Our Fathers." Then the entire group sang "America The Beautiful."

County Accepts Three Roads In Development

Three roads in the Horse Rock Hill development outside Westernport are being accepted into the Allegany County roads system.

An order accepting the three roads was approved unanimously by the Board of County Commissioners Tuesday. The three roads are Horse Rock Road for a length of 2,600 feet, Minnetonka Road for 650 feet and Shawnee Road for a distance of 1,000 feet.

Future maintenance and repairs to the three roads will be handled by the county commissioners, although West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company assumed responsibility for maintenance and repair for one more year.

A plan submitted to the county commissioners by William G. Barger, director of Allegany County civil defense, for disposition of the Ground Observer Corps properties was approved by the commissioners after winning endorsement from Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners.

The Cumberland post, located on the civil defense building in Constitution Park, will be retained for other CD uses. The building at the Bedford Road post was donated by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. It is located on the property of John A. White and Mr. Barger recommended that it be given to Mr. White.

The Frostburg post building was constructed on private property with county and state matching funds. It was suggested that this go to the property owner with the understanding that it might be moved so long as there was no cost to the county.

Similarly, it was recommended that the Cresaptown post, on property of the Volunteer Fire Company, be given to the firemen. It was built with county and state matching funds.

Miss Straw To Speak At ACEI Dinner

Miss Mary Elizabeth Straw, principal of Corriganville School, will be the guest speaker at the annual fall dinner of the Allegany Branch, Association for Childhood Education, to be held at Frostburg State Teachers College at 7 p.m. December 4.

Miss Straw will report on her trip to several foreign countries during the summer months and will also show a number of slides portraying life, habits and customs in these countries.

Miss Ann Riggleman, president, said the program has been completed and reservations may be made with Mrs. Agnes Davis of Midland School not later than Monday.

Earle Bracey, principal of Carver School, will offer the invocation and Miss Riggleman will welcome the guests. Dr. Frank Gamble is arranging the entertainment and Thomas Wagner of Centre Street School will present first-year teachers, who are invited guests of ACEI.

There will be discussion and summarization of a questionnaire sent out to teachers recently concerning ACEI projects as a basis for activity for the remainder of the year. The questionnaire seeks information on workshops in art, music and language arts; public relations ideas; and service to children such as book fairs and theatre programs.

Decorations for the dinner are being arranged by the faculty of the Frostburg Lab School under direction of Miss Thelma Hadley. The program committee includes besides Miss Riggleman, Miss Helen Kreiling of West Side School and Miss Betty Flake, elementary supervisor, and ACEI advisor. Raymond Skidmore, principal of Northeast School and F. Allan Weatherholt are on the publicity committee.

Mrs. Agnes Davis, Midland, and Mrs. Phyllis Wallace are on the finance committee. Miss Kreiling has charge of correspondence, and the hospitality committee includes present and past officers.

Crossing Hump To Be Eliminated

The job of leveling off the hump at the approach to the Baltimore Street bridge which spans Wills Creek is expected to be started next Tuesday about noon.

The crossing was partially blocked yesterday as trackmen of the Western Maryland Railway Company laid a section of rail. Additional rails and cross-ties will be laid south of the crossing to connect with the main line of the railroad through here.

The temporary rails placed on the crossing during the construction of the recently completed bridge are to be taken up. This temporary line caused the hump.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday he will request "around the clock" work in order that the closing of Baltimore Street at that point will be as brief as possible.

As soon as the trackmen take up the rails, the George F. Hazelwood Company will lay blacktop and level off the hump as much as possible.

Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer, said it is hoped the original crossing will be improved when the work is completed. Additional blacktop will be furnished by the city with the labor furnished by the contractor, Mayor Keech said.

The public will be notified as to when that section of Baltimore Street will be closed. The Police Department's Traffic Bureau is asking full cooperation of the public during the temporary closure of the street.

Special Bus Service Schedule Changed

Queen City Bus Lines yesterday announced a change in its schedule of special buses for the Fort Hill-Allegany high school football game today.

The buses from Cresaptown, the Dingle, Shriver Avenue and the state line will leave at 12:30; the first bus from Baltimore Street will leave at 12:45, and two more from Baltimore Street at 1 p.m.

Hancock Area Men Acquitted In Jail Break

HANCOCK, Md. (AP) — Two men who battered their way out of jail were acquitted of escape charges Wednesday after their attorney argued they had been illegally confined and "had a perfect right to use force to break out."

A jury, after deliberating 45 minutes, freed George Courtney, 28, and Francis McCarty, 21, both of the Hancock area.

A third man who escaped, Irvin Davis, 30, also of the Hancock area, has not been found.

The three, arrested at the same time and on the same charges, broke out of the Hancock jail last July 26. A jail radiator was ripped out and pipe from it used to batter an 18-inch hole in the jail's brick wall.

After the escape one of the trio called Town Officer Howard Murfin and suggested he go to the jail and turn off the water since removal of the radiator had caused a minor flood.

The three were arrested by Murfin on charges of being drunk and disorderly and on suspicion of breaking and entering. Courtney and McCarty were apprehended the same day of the escape and breaking and entering. They put up $11.45 on the drunk and disorderly counts.

Civil Defense Day Sunday, December 7

Civil Defense Day will be observed on December 7 this year, according to Sherley Ewing, director of the Maryland CD Agency.

William G. Barger, director for Allegany County, said last night that emphasis will be placed on home self protection that day. Churches throughout the county have been asked to cooperate by distributing CD preparedness cards with their bulletins on December 7.

Ministers will be reminded to discuss Civil Defense from their pulpits that Sunday. Director Barger also said attention is being directed to the many courses offered by Civil Defense in the county and to the variety of literature available for free distribution by Civil Defense.

Authorities Leave Friday To Get Iser

State's Attorney James S. Getty said yesterday county authorities will leave tomorrow morning for Montgomery, Ala., to return Howard Maurice Iser, who was arrested there Monday.

Making the trip will be County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police, and Paul C. Haberlein, deputy sheriff.

The authorities will leave at 8 a. m. and will pick up the 37-year-old local man Saturday. They expect to be back in Cumberland early next week.

Iser, who escaped from the County Jail on November 5, was arrested by FBI agents in an office building in downtown Montgomery. Iser was arraigned in Montgomery Tuesday on a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid confinement.

At the time of his escape, Iser was being held in jail pending an appeal of his sentence to a 10-year term for armed robbery and assault.

MDs Seek Psychological Test To Find Unfit Drivers

Dr. A. J. Mirkin, local physician and surgeon, voices a plea for safer driving practices in the current issue of the AMA News, newly-launched bi-weekly newspaper of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Mirkin, now in his second term as president of the 14-month-old American Association for Automotive Medicine, said the AAAM believes that tests can be developed to screen out psychologically unfit drivers, as well as the physically unfit.

But a lot of research will have to be done before any standard psychological test will be found, Dr. Mirkin said.

The AAAM was formed in September 1957 by physicians who are interested in sports car racing and who have served as a medical advisory committee appointed by the Sports Car Club of America.

Dr. Mirkin said some sports car racers have been barred from competition for psychological reasons as a result of the advisory group's work.

Another item high on the AAAM's priority list is better automotive safety equipment—a field where auto racing has already made considerable contributions.

Dr. Mirkin, who was interviewed by the AMA News at the recent second annual meeting of the AAAM in Chicago, said the new group is anxious to cooperate with already existing groups in the field. He said all physicians, whether sports car fans or not, are welcome to the organization.

Members of the new medical group hope to further their work through county and state medical associations. Dr. Mirkin is a member of the highway safety committee of the Maryland medical association.

He listed contributions totaling $300, $150 each from his father, William C. Walsh, and his mother, Elizabeth N. Walsh.

Howard P. Loughrie, who lost out in his bid for election as sheriff on the Democratic ticket, listed $259.26 in campaign expenditures, which covered his filing fee, photographs, matches, engravings and advertising. He listed no contributors.

Magistrate Morris Baron found Charleton guilty of being a habitual drunkard at a hearing last week in Trial Magistrate Court and placed Charleton on probation for a year. Charleton was arrested again Tuesday night by City Police for being drunk.

COLLECTION DAY FRIDAY

Two Killed In Turnpike Tunnel Crash

Tractor-Trailer Driver Sought By Authorities

SOMERSET, Pa. UPI — An elderly couple from Oakmont, Pa., near Pittsburgh, was killed and an Illinois woman was injured Wednesday in a fiery multiple-vehicle collision in the Allegheny Tunnel of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

State police immediately sent out an all points alert for the driver of a tractor-trailer which triggered the accident and failed to stop at the scene.

Prescription Traced

The dead were identified as George W. Petrie Jr., about 70, and his wife, Mable, about 67. They were burned beyond recognition and even the license plate on their car could not be determined because the numbers had melted. Identification finally was made hours later by tracing the name on a medicine bottle found in the glove compartment of the death car.

Corporal Howard Repphert of the Everett state police barracks, said the Petries were en route to spend the Thanksgiving holiday with their son, daughter-in-law and grandchildren in Silver Spring, Md.

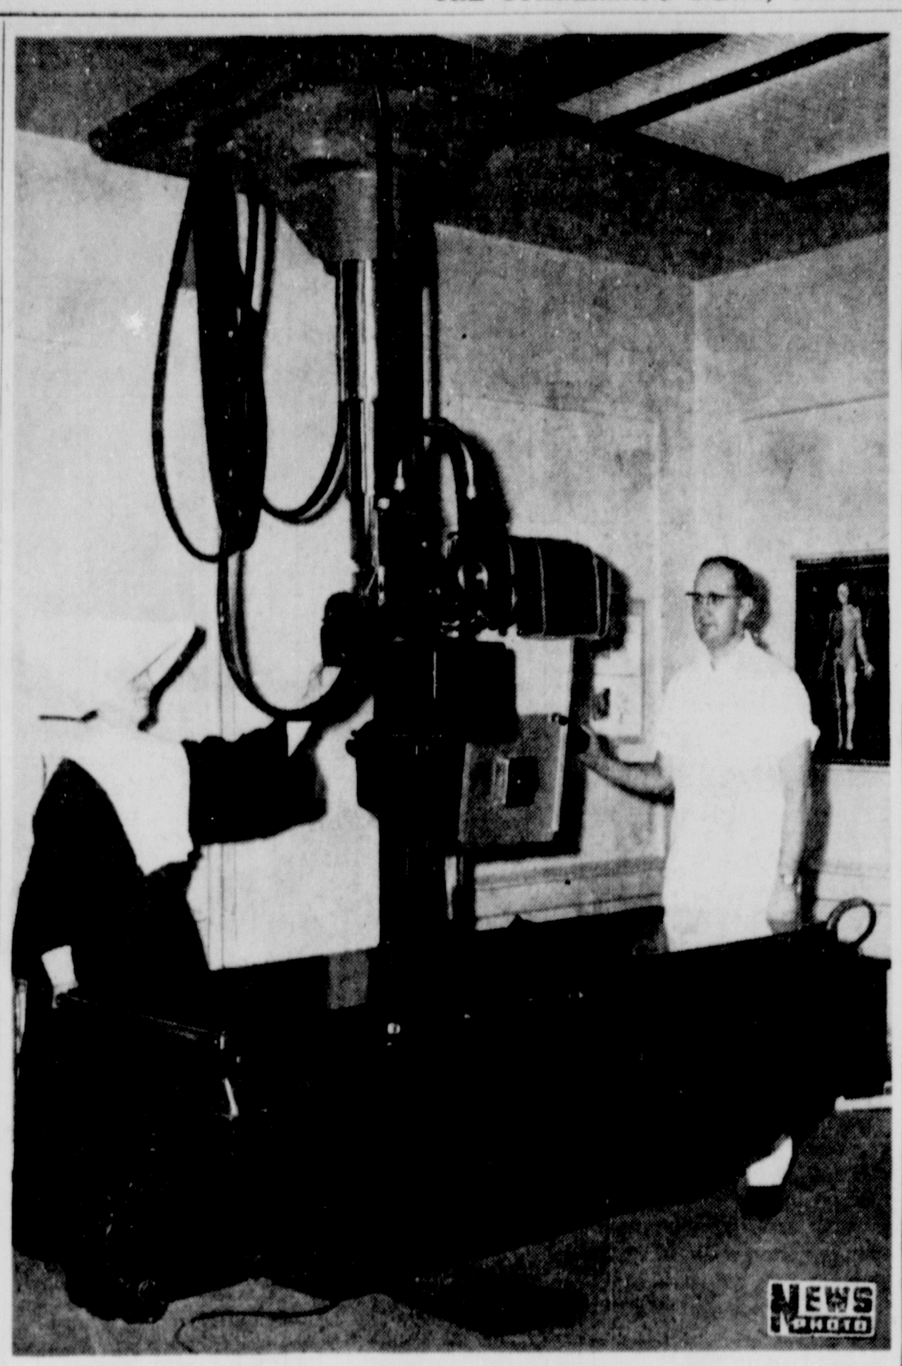
Mrs. Dorothy Weiss, 58, Chicago, Ill., was taken to Somerset Community Hospital. Her condition was listed as fair.

The violent chain-reaction pileup occurred at about 11:15 a.m. and was followed by a gasoline - fed fire that engulfed five vehicles and sent dense, black smoke billowing through the tunnel.

5 Vehicles Destroyed

Heavy Thanksgiving holiday traffic was jammed for a mile in either direction when the tunnel was shut down. Alternate routes were set up between the Somerset and Bedford turnpike interchanges.

State police said three passenger cars, a three-quarter ton panel truck and a tow-truck pulling the cab section of a tractor - trailer were destroyed in the crash and ensuing fire.



New X-Ray For Hospital

Sister Mary Louise of the Daughters of Charity and Charles K. Blauch, technician, inspect the new diagnostic X-ray unit at Sacred Heart Hospital, installation of which was completed yesterday at a cost of about $25,000. The new unit, about twice as powerful as the old one it replaced, is the second major project completed at the hospital under a recent Ford Foundation grant. The first involved installation of a sprinkler system. The X-ray unit was installed by Queen City Electric Company.

Salaries Raised For Registers, Court Clerks

Stewart, Boden Upped To $7,200

Salaries of all of the registers of wills and clerks of court of Maryland have been raised by the State Board of Public Works for the new terms to which they were just elected November 4.

As a result of these general salary boosts, authorized by 1957 acts of the General Assembly, both Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart and Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, are increased from $5,400 to $7,200 a year salary.

The Board of Public Works, which disclosed the increases, includes Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, State Comptroller and Governor-elect J. Millard Tawes and State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles.

Ranks Fifth

As a result of the increased salaries, Mr. Stewart ranks fifth among the 23 county registers of wills. Eight other registers received boosts of more that the $1,800 allotted to the Allegany County man.

Leading the pack is the Baltimore County register of wills, whose salary was boosted $4,500 from $7,500 to $12,000. Frederick and Montgomery counties rank next with $8,500 each, a $2,000 increase, and Washington County is fourth at $7,500, up $2,000.

Registers of wills ranking below Allegany County in salary are Prince George's, $6,500; Anne Arundel, Carroll, Harford, Talbot and Wicomico, $6,000 each; Howard, $5,800; Cecil and Dorchester, $5,500 each; Garrett, Caroline and Queen Anne's, $5,400; Kent, $5,200; Charles, $5,000; St. Mary's, Somerset and Worcester, $4,500 each, and Calvert County is last at $4,000.

Even with the increase in salary, Mr. Boden still ranks in a three-way tie for ninth place among the 23 counties. Ten clerks received increases of more than Mr. Boden's $1,800. They ranged up to $4,500 for Baltimore County.

Washington Higher

Clerks of court in Baltimore, Montgomery and Prince George's counties all are getting $12,000 a year under the new schedule. Others above Allegany County are Anne Arundel, $9,000; Frederick, $8,500; Washington and Wicomico, $8,000 each, and St. Mary's County, $7,500.

Tied with Allegany County at $7,200 are Cecil and Harford counties. Worcester's clerks get $6,500 and the other 11 clerks, including the one in Garrett County, are all bracketed together at $6,000.

Authority to raise the salaries of the registers of wills and clerks of court were granted by the General Assembly in Chapters 789 and 635 of the 1957 acts.

Chapter 789, which was introduced in the General Assembly as House Bill 618, covers all of the clerks of court. It specifies that all of the clerks in Baltimore City are to be raised to $12,000 annually each and in Anne Arundel County the range shall be from a minimum of $7,500 to a maximum of $9,000.

Limits Are Set

The salaries shall be no lower than $4,500 and no more than $12,000 and are to be determined by the State Board of Public Works on the basis of the relative value of business and receipts in each such office.

Chapter 635, which was introduced as House Bill 617, provides that the salaries of registers of wills shall range between a minimum of $2,500 and a maximum of $12,000. It specifically states that the Baltimore City register of wills shall receive $12,000 a year.

The Board of Public Works, in establishing salaries for the various registers of wills, shall be governed by the population of the county, the dollar value of total fees and taxes collected.

Each register of wills is to receive a fair and adequate compensation for his efforts and duties required of him by his office and the value and character of work done by him, the bill states.

Appeal Possible Within Five Days

Sgt. James W. Brown of the Cumberland Police Department has been demoted to patrolman effective tomorrow, Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming indicated yesterday.

In a letter to Sgt. Brown, Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn said the demotion was the result of charges of neglect of duty in Brown's failure to arrest the chief's son, Robert Emmett Flynn Jr., 22, on November 6 in connection with three assault cases.

The letter was approved by Commissioner Fleming and was served on Sgt. Brown on Tuesday. The letter added:

"If you desire to appeal this demotion, you must file notice of such an appeal with the Civil Service Commission of Cumberland within five days of the date of the service of this letter upon you (see section (i) as found on page 4 of the Rules of the Civil Service Commission relating to Police and Fire."

The AAAM was formed in September 1957 by physicians who are interested in sports car racing and who have served as a medical advisory committee appointed by the Sports Car Club of America.

Dr. Mirkin said some sports car racers have been barred from competition for psychological reasons as a result of the advisory group's work.

Another item high on the AAAM's priority list is better automotive safety equipment—a field where auto racing has already made considerable contributions.

Dr. Mirkin, who was interviewed by the AMA News at the recent second annual meeting of the AAAM in Chicago, said the new group is anxious to cooperate with already existing groups in the field. He said all physicians, whether sports car fans or not, are welcome to the organization.

Members of the new medical group hope to further their work through county and state medical associations. Dr. Mirkin is a member of the highway safety committee of the Maryland medical association.

Miss Straw To Speak At ACEI Dinner

Miss Mary Elizabeth Straw, principal of Corriganville School, will be the guest speaker at the annual fall dinner of the Allegany Branch, Association for Childhood Education, to be held at Frostburg State Teachers College at 7 p.m. December 4.

Miss Straw will report on her trip to several foreign countries during the summer months and will also show a number of slides portraying life, habits and customs in these countries.

Miss Ann Riggleman, president, said the program has been completed and reservations may be made with Mrs. Agnes Davis of Midland School not later than Monday.

Earle Bracey, principal of Carver School, will offer the invocation and Miss Riggleman will welcome the guests. Dr. Frank Gamble is arranging the entertainment and Thomas Wagner of Centre Street School will present first-year teachers, who are invited guests of ACEI.

There will be discussion and summarization of a questionnaire sent out to teachers recently concerning ACEI projects as a basis for activity for the remainder of the year. The questionnaire seeks information on workshops in art, music and language arts; public relations ideas; and service to children such as book fairs and theatre programs.

Decorations for the dinner are being arranged by the faculty of the Frostburg Lab School under direction of Miss Thelma Hadley. The program committee includes besides Miss Riggleman, Miss Helen Kreiling of West Side School and Miss Betty Flake, elementary supervisor, and ACEI advisor. Raymond Skidmore, principal of Northeast School and F. Allan Weatherholt are on the publicity committee.

Mrs. Agnes Davis, Midland, and Mrs. Phyllis Wallace are on the finance committee. Miss Kreiling has charge of correspondence, and the hospitality committee includes present and past officers.

Man Is Sentenced

Cleo Charleton, city, yesterday was sentenced to not more than six months in the House of Correction for violation of parole.

Magistrate Morris Baron found Charleton guilty of being a habitual drunkard at a hearing last week in Trial Magistrate Court and placed Charleton on probation for a year. Charleton was arrested again Tuesday night by City Police for being drunk.

Thanksgiving Food Distributed To 75 Families

Thanksgiving food was distributed to some 75 families yesterday by the Associated Charities office at City Hall.

Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary, said students of the Tri-Hi-Y at Fort Hill and Allegany high schools as well as their teachers donated food and money to assure the families a Thanksgiving meal. She commended the students and teachers for their interest in helping others.

Food orders given to two separate families were donated by the Auxiliary Unit of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, and Alpha Sigma Alpha Sorority.

The Associated Charities office was busy all day yesterday getting the food to the families.

Crossing Hump To Be Eliminated

The job of leveling off the hump at the approach to the Baltimore Street bridge which spans Wills Creek is expected to be started next Tuesday about noon.

The crossing was partially blocked yesterday as trackmen of the Western Maryland Railway Company laid a section of rail. Additional rails and cross-ties will be laid south of the crossing to connect with the main line of the railroad through here.

The temporary rails placed on the crossing during the construction of the recently completed bridge are to be taken up. This temporary line caused the hump.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday he will request "around the clock" work in order that the closing of Baltimore Street at that point will be as brief as possible.

As soon as the trackmen take up the rails, the George F. Hazelwood Company will lay blacktop and level off the hump as much as possible.

Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer, said it is hoped the original crossing will be improved when the work is completed. Additional blacktop will be furnished by the city with the labor furnished by the contractor, Mayor Keech said.

The public will be notified as to when that section of Baltimore Street will be closed. The Police Department's Traffic Bureau is asking full cooperation of the public during the temporary closure of the street.

Democrat Candidates Submit Reports

Two Democratic candidates in the November 4 general election, one of whom was successful and one defeated, have filed their reports with Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

William Walsh, who led the 11-man race for the six seats in the House of Delegates from Allegany County, reported total campaign expenses of $570.53, including a $100 gift to the Democratic State Central Committee. He listed contributions totaling $300, $150 each from his father, William C. Walsh, and his mother, Elizabeth N. Walsh.

Howard P. Loughrie, who lost out in his bid for election as sheriff on the Democratic ticket, listed $259.26 in campaign expenditures, which covered his filing fee, photographs, matches, engravings and advertising. He listed no contributors.

Local Church To Launch Used Clothing Drive

First Presbyterian Church has designated Sunday as "Clothing Sunday" to help launch a used clothing drive under the direction of the United Clothing Appeal.

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor, said the church also will be host Sunday to Rev. Raymond Provost and his wife, Mrs. Mariella Provost, ministers, who are on leave of absence from their station in Korea.

The Provosts will speak to the Sunday school and Rev. Provost will speak at the morning worship service and give an account of their work in Korea.

The United Clothing Appeal is an organization within all Protestant churches of the United States that collects good used clothing to be distributed all over the world to the needy.

Plans are being made to make this a permanent organization because of the extreme need for used clothing overseas for refugees and others in distress. The goal for 1958 is 10 million pounds, of which the Presbyterian Church in the United States is obligated for two million pounds. From February to the last of September, 634,000 pounds were collected.

Living Stone Church of the Brethren, North Cedar Street, also has been designated as a collection cented for this area. All clothing collected in the area will be picked up by a truck working under Church World Service, a relief agency of the National Council of Churches.

A processing charge of eight cents per pound for handling is made against the contributing churches. The clothing is handled free of charge by steamship lines in the transportation overseas.

Anyone wishing to donate clothing may do so by dropping it off at either of the local churches. Contributions toward the processing charges also may be made to either of the local churches.

Special Bus Service Schedule Changed

Little Rock Sees No Way Out Of The Long Deadlock Over Closed Schools

EDITOR'S NOTE: UPI roving reporter Jack V. Fox has just revisited Little Rock for a look at the integration struggle in the city of closed high schools. This is his report after a week there.

By JACK V. FOX
United Press International

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—A long-distance moving company in one week recently moved nine families out of Little Rock. In that week, it moved one new family into the city.

It is a mark of the fact that no one here today sees a way out of the deadlock that has shut the four high schools and may before long affect the lower grades.

The determination to keep Negro and white students separate, no matter the price, seems stronger than it was before Gov. Orval Faubus closed the high schools to defy federal integration orders.

There are two main impressions an outsider receives today on a visit to Little Rock.

First is that the majority here support Faubus and that they include conscientious and reputable people of the community, though certainly not all. As of now, the politician who advocates the "moderate" approach is a dead duck.

The second is the sickening waste. Magnificent Central High School stands empty, its teachers reporting daily with nothing to do, its laboratories and libraries ready for use, while a few blocks away children attend a former orphanage now used as a makeshift private high school.

Fear Closes Mouths

A side impression is the fear that exists on the part of many of those who oppose keeping the schools closed to speak their mind. Mrs. Byron House Jr., a housewife with four small children, is one of the few who will. She has no answer to the integration dilemma but is trying to organize mothers just to open the schools.

Mrs. House says dozens of women are afraid to join this women's emergency committee lest their husbands lose their jobs or their businesses are harmed.

Little Rock is without a school board since the mass resignation recently of five members who expressed their "utter hopelessness, helplessness and frustration" in trying to obey federal orders to integrate. School Supt. Virgil Blossom also has been let go.

A new board is to be elected Dec. 6. It is significant that a slate of five prominent citizens seeking the posts felt it necessary to state publicly they would not "initiate" integration and that all of them accepted the principle of segregation.

Dr. Dale Alford, who upset veteran "moderate" Congressman Brooks Hays in a write-in campaign in the Nov. 4 election, says the only solution is for the North to realize Little Rock will provide equal facilities for Negro school children but will keep them separate.

Some 3,700 children of high school age have been affected by the closings, 700 of them Negroes.

Some Attend Private Schools

The Little Rock private high school is teaching 917 whites. The Ouachita Baptist College runs a school for 373 more and 30 are taking classes at an Episcopalian church.

An unknown number are taking correspondence extension courses from the University of Arkansas and 759 white students have moved to schools not far from Little Rock. Many have left the state, some are doing nothing.

Of the Negroes, about 250 have got into Negro schools around the city, dozens have moved away and several hundred are idle.

The 175 public high school teachers are being paid a total of $20,000 a week with no work except substitute teaching in the junior high and elementary schools.

W. C. Brashears, superintendent of the private school corporation, has recruited a faculty of 10 men and 24 women, some of them coming out of retirement, and offered the basics of high school education. He is proud of the accomplishments made in a short time.

"It was as if Little Rock has suffered a major disaster," he says, "and that not only the buildings and laboratories and libraries all had been destroyed, but the entire teaching staff wiped out."

The only hint of things to come from Gov. Faubus is his recent statement that it would be impossible to operate the private schools indefinitely on contributions, but that he "hoped" to find a way to use public funds. The Arkansas Legislature convenes in mid-January.

Is Era Of Lightweight Car Just Around The Corner?

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT (UPI) — More and more auto industry officials are predicting that lightweight metals will soon replace gray iron as the basic metal of the American automobile.

One of these officials, Carl F. Caris of General Motors engineering staff, recently warned the Gray Iron Founders Society that it would soon have to look somewhere outside of the auto industry for its principal market.

Caris told the society that aluminum for engines is now competitive with iron from a cost standpoint. And Caris should know because the GM engineering department has developed an all-aluminum V-8 engine.

Most of these officials feel that once aluminum is used as the basic metal for automobile engines, it will start a stampede toward the use of this lightweight metal and others like it in all parts of cars.

Aluminum Engine Coming

Actually, a trend toward more widespread use of aluminum and other lightweight metals is already under way. The number of automobile parts made from aluminum jumped from 318 to 344 with introduction of the 1959 models.

From 1955 through the introduction of the 1959 models, the average amount of aluminum used in American passenger cars jumped from 30 to 57 pounds per car.

But the biggest breakthrough will come with introduction of an aluminum engine, possible in 1960. General Motors already has a contract for delivery of molten aluminum to its plant at Massena, N.Y., and Ford recently reached an agreement calling for delivery of more than 640-million pounds of aluminum over a 10-year period—a record industrial aluminum order.

The principal handicap of aluminum as a material for construction of automobile parts to date has been cost. This lightweight metal costs much more than iron.

But it has the advantage over iron in almost every other category. Its lighter weight makes a car made of aluminum more economical to operate and greater strength makes it safer.

It Cuts Costs

Because it is easier to handle, however, aluminum cuts processing costs and new methods are rapidly making it cheaper in the long run to use aluminum. It requires less machining to finish a cast part and, in many cases, engineers have found ways to cast several parts together instead of individually as had to be done with iron parts.

This new technique is known in the industry as integral design. It was this method which led Caris to warn the Gray Iron Founders Society that aluminum now can compete with iron on a cost basis.

And aluminum producers point out that once aluminum is used on a widespread basis its cost will be reduced even more.

The current public demand for more economical cars is helping the growth of aluminum in the auto industry. Many industry officials believe an air - cooled, opposed-piston aluminum engine is the best answer to the demand for more economy.

They claim the V-8 engine has gone about as far as it can—for every horsepower it gains, it pays too high a price in poor gas mileage. They say the aluminum engine is the thing to watch for in the auto industry and a general trend toward increased use of aluminum and other lightweight metals will follow introduction of the aluminum engine.

Army Scientists Will Find Shooting For The Moon No Easy Assignment

By BEM PRICE

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — On Dec. 7 the moon will swing across the heavens like a bullseye wheeling across a celestial shooting gallery.

Sometime between Dec. 7 and Dec. 14 the U.S. Army is planning to take a crack at it with a satellite-carrying, multi-stage missile, launched from the rocket testing center at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The Army shoot probably will take place Dec. 10, the date the new moon sets itself up best as a clay pigeon.

The Air Force already has made three tries and failed.

Nothing man has achieved in recorded history has been more daring or more involved. Nearly everything he has learned about the mechanics of the universe and mathematics from the time of the ancient Egyptians to date has been brought to bear on this problem: how to chart a course to the moon?

For Dr. Rudolf R. Hoelker, German-born deputy chief of the Aeroballistic Laboratory at the Army Ballistic Missile Agency here, the moment of firing will end two years of astronomical calculations.

Hoelker, who worked on Germany's V2 rockets during World War II and who is now a naturalized U.S. citizen, has charted a flight path to the moon. The question is whether the United States has the rockets to follow it.

For the rocket experts the mere mechanics of firing are tough.

The missile must not exceed escape speed if it is to go into orbit. If it goes much faster than 24,660 miles per hour it will breach the gravitational barriers and zip past the moon in the direction of infinity.

The missile must be turned on course at a low altitude and at a relatively low speed or else the structural stress of turning at high speed will break it in two.

If the missile is turned too quickly and too low, it will encounter a possibly destructive friction-heat problem.

While it would be nice if the satellite actually went into orbit around the earth and moon, the Army's scientists won't be upset if it doesn't.

If the satellite can be placed within two or three diameters of the moon—4,320 to 6,480 miles—the scientists will be satisfied. Even if it goes past the moon the scientists will be happy. They will then learn how far into space they can track. A true orbit will be a profit.

Dr. Wernher von Braun said the Army probe will be rocketed off at terrific speed with dead aim at the moon, and would arrive 34 hours after launching.

The chance of a direct hit is remote, and Von Braun said the rocket would be going fast enough to soar past the moon and escape the earth's gravity. It probably would fall into an orbit around the sun, becoming a 30-pound sister planet to the earth.

As planned, the satellite will assume a fan-shaped, or hyperbolic orbit.

The trajectory was selected for these reasons:

The probe will be near the moon at a time when it may be observed from the United States.

The planned velocity of the rocket exceeds the minimum speed required to reach the moon. The Army prefers to overshoot than undershoot.

Since the hoped-for orbit involves three bodies — the earth, the moon and the missile — all moving on a curving path through space, the final pattern should resemble—for very complicated reasons—a figure-eight as it swings around the moon and earth.

Gravitational influences figure heavily in Hoelker's calculations. When scientists talk of escape velocity, they mean the speed necessary to overcome the gravitational pull of both the earth and moon.

The attraction of the earth is about six times that of the moon which is, on the average, 240,000 miles away. The moon's path around the earth is egg-shaped, or elliptical.

The gravitational influence of the earth is unending. So is that of the other occupants of space. In brief, space is just one mass of acting and counteracting gravitational influences.

The closer an object, such as a missile, comes to one of these bodies, therefore, the greater the gravitational attraction. It is not impossible that a missile shot past the moon might ultimately come to rest on some planet or star about which we know nothing.

New Congress Faces Problem Of What To Do With Surplus Wheat

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If any significant farm legislation comes out of the coming session of Congress, it undoubtedly would deal with wheat, the nation's most widely grown crop.

A critical wheat situation is crying for a solution.

Many farm leaders believe that conflicting farm and political groups will have to forget their differences to the extent of providing a new wheat program.

The farm legislative outlook is clouded because the Republican administration and a strengthened Democratic Congress appear to be miles apart on how to deal with agriculture's economic problems. Both President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson have made it plain they intend to stand firm on their farm policies despite GOP election setbacks.

These policies call for further retreat of government from control of agricultural production and pricing. The administration will call for lower price supports for wheat and a number of other farm products and for greater freedom of growers to produce.

But many Democratic farm leaders have said they will refuse to take this course. The result could well be a standoff on legislation.

But the wheat surplus situation is such that leaders of both parties may decide to compromise to some extent. Oversupplies of this grain overshadow those of other commodities. Forty per cent of the government's 7½ billion dollar investment in more than two dozen such products is tied up in wheat.

When surpluses of this year's record crop finally find their way into government stocks, the investment will be much larger. Even if farmers didn't grow a bushel next year, the nation could meet all domestic and export needs and come out with nearly half a year's domestic needs.

The nation consequently faces two problems on wheat—disposal of the stupendous surplus and adjustment of future production to market needs.

Obviously current programs — based on marketing and production controls and a reduction in price supports from wartime and postwar levels—have failed.

There are three general courses of action open.

One would be to tighten up on controls. At present these controls do not allow a cut in wheat acreage planting allotments below 55 million acres. In most years, a sharply reduced acreage would produce amply. But there is serious doubt that farmers as a whole would accept cuts in allotments that would be necessary to eliminate the surplus.

A second course would be adoption of a so-called multiple-price plan under which a relatively high price would be charged for wheat used for domestic food purposes with the remainder of the crop being allowed to move into export and domestic feed markets at whatever prices it would bring. Sponsors contend this approach would broaden the market for the grain both at home and abroad and thus make controls unnecessary.

A third course would be one providing for much lower price supports. This course is favored by Benson. It is based on the theory that price supports have been high enough to encourage overproduction and a reduction would discourage production in areas that have high wheat production costs or have good alternatives to wheat.

Democrats Hope To Push Several 'Welfare' Plans

By GEORGE J. MARDER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional Democrats are considering a plan that would enable them to enact new welfare legislation yet blunt the spendthrift charge made against them by President Eisenhower in the recent election campaign.

The idea is still in the formative stages, but it would work this way:

Push through such welfare programs as increased social security benefits, aid to economically depressed areas, and expanded housing. At the same time, and in the same Congress, provide money to pay for the new programs by plugging loopholes in present tax laws.

Democrats figure this not only would cut the ground from under the President's spendthrift charge but also would highlight his opposition to the programs themselves rather than to their cost if he vetoes them.

The strategy is a new version of an idea put forth by some Democrats for several years.

Early in the last Congress, when proposals for tax cuts were the rage, the administration was flagging down the tax - reduction drives by warning that such cuts would unbalance the budget and further feed the fire of inflation.

Some Democrats had the idea of combining tax cutting with a program to plug special exemptions and loopholes so that there would be no loss of revenue but merely a shift in the source of revenue.

Nothing ever came of the tax-cutting schemes. The present idea is merely to substitute new welfare programs for tax reduction.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) already has announced that tax revision will be considered by the next Congress, and Chairman Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee long has called for a major drive to eliminate tax advantages given to certain groups.

Mills says that billions could be saved the government by plugging tax loopholes.

TV's 'Mayor Peoples' Studies Script In Busy Terminal

By RON BURTON
By United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Paul Maxey, whose 245 pounds and three decades in the theatrical world make him one of the biggest actors in Hollywood, studies scripts in a nice, quiet place—a busy railroad station.

"The phone's ringing all the time at home," said Maxey, known to millions as Mayor Peoples of "The People's Choice" TV series. "That's why I drive from my home in Pasadena to Glendale and study in the station."

Maxey, who alternately resembles a retired Los Angeles Rams tackle and a serene, stout Bavarian innkeeper, began the railroad station habit five or six years ago. It has worked out very well for him.

"I'll go over about 7:30 in the evening and stay for about two hours," he said. "I happen to like trains—always did—so when they come through, they give me a break from working.

"I always come over in the evenings. Sometimes my wife, Jean, comes with me. The usual practice is to use the wheel for the script and the dome light for illumination."

Battery Failed Once

Maxey said the only real hazard is battery failure. It did happen once, and the next day he had a superdooper battery guaranteed to keep a dome light going indefinitely.

"I can concentrate at that station, even if it is on the main line, and more people get off there than at Los Angeles," he said. "And if it's raining — well, the harder the better. I enjoy it."

Maxey said he's been spotted lately by both adults and youths. At one point when his daughter in "The People's Choice" (Patricia Breslin) was married secretly, a man peered at him, banged on the window and yelled, "Hey, did you know your daughter's really married?"

"The kids have been asking for autographs, too," the actor said. "I suppose that soon I may have to scout around for a new railroad station. But it won't be easy. I like this one. I know the schedules. I know Harry, the station master. I have lots of friends there."

Finds Station Interesting

Maxey, who has appeared in some 70 motion pictures as well as top network TV shows and performs locally at the Pasadena Playhouse, said the railroad station happens to be as interesting as any theater.

"There's always something going on," he said. "Once I saw a guy later identified as gramps being pursued by his daughter-in-law. She was wearing a shortie mink and chasing him around the station with a flashlight. The last time he got away from her I understand it took them three days to find him.

"And, of course, a railroad platform has some of the world's most powerful drama you'll see anywhere. That's because there are so many farewells and reunions.

"Some of the farewell scenes I've seen were real humdingers — they'd be Oscar stuff in the movies."

WILL APPEAL OUSTER

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (UPI) —An appeal will be filed by ousted South Parkersburg Magistrate V. James Tinney. He was formally removed from office Wednesday by Wood County Circuit Judge Donald Black on charges of misconduct. He said Thursday he had never done anything to be "ashamed of" since he had been in office.
